Lancaster Farming

Vol. 38 No. 27 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, May 15, 1993 | 60¢ Per Copy | $19.75 Per Year

The home farm of the John Marsteller family nestles amoung rolling hills of contoured strips of corn, soybeans, wheat, and barley. Sign-up of the family's 1063 acres in the program includes cropland in four southern York County townships.

Marsteller Easement Largest In State

STEWARTSTOWN (York Co.) — Thanks to the efforts of his family and the state's land preservation program, 11-year-old Jeromey Marsteller may someday get his wish.

"I like farming because you get to run tractors," said the Stewartstown youngster, who already thinks about following his father, John, and grandfather, John, Sr., into the agriculture business.

Acceptance of the acreage into the York land preservation program marks enrollment of the largest single block of farmland signed to date in both the county and the state's purchase of development easements. A total of 1,063 acres farmed by the father-son partnership is included in the easement purchase of just more than $1,000 per acre, for a total value of about $1.2 million.

USDA Intends To Label Meat, Seeks Comment

WASHINGTON D.C. — Supermarket meat cases in the United States are expected to get a new look sometime after August 15, according to plans of U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy.

The new look is labels on meat and poultry.

According to Mary Dixon, deputy press secretary to Espy, labels for the safe care and handling of meat products going to consumers are going to be required and a prototype is to be announced after August 15.

She said that the labeling is a personal goal of Espy, one that he announced prior to actually being sworn into office.

David Ivan, president of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, said the proposed mandatory labeling is a welcome thing for the entire meat industry.

According to Ivan, the care and handling labeling mandate, and a separate, but equally welcomed, proposed voluntary nutritional education program for meat, has the potential to greatly benefit the industry.

The general public's meat handling is the cause of 90 percent of the meat food-borne illnesses reported, according to Ivan.

"If we could eliminate or control the poor handling of our product, it would obviously increase sales," Ivan said Thursday afternoon from Harrisburg.

"The National Beef Council has been working with USDA for some time (to get meaningful labeling), it's something that's important to us, that people know how to properly handle our product," Ivan said.

"Our industry recognizes that

SRBC Decides Ag Should Pay For Using Susquehanna Water

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Farmers should not be exempted from paying consumptive useage and water monitoring fees, according to a consensus opinion expressed by the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC) at a meeting here Thursday.

According to the Commission, agriculture makes up about 20 percent of the total consumptive use of the water in the basin, and should be treated on an equal basis with industry and public utilities who must pay annual withdrawal and monitoring fees.

The Commission, which spoke to about 40 industry and ag rep-

Rabies Cautions Still In Effect

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

ALTOONA (Blair Co.) — Spring is the time to be on the lookout for rabid animals. "A lot of animals come out of hibernation and mating season begins.

"Raccoons are the main carrier," said David Vore, livestock disease control technician for the Bureau of Animal Industry in Altoona.

"Contrary to many popular opinions, rabies has not died out. It just runs in peaks. In the past couple of years, it has been particularly bad in the southeast portion of the state."

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, May 12, 1993

Trucklot buying interest was slow and disappointing. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts for retail needs ranged adequate to fully adequate, portion controlled product was at least adequate. Buyers were selective and limited purchases to immediate needs. Line run breasts were irregularly distributed but were in close balance at most locations. Leg quarters and thighs were fully adequate and trading was reported at lower prices. The undertone was soft. Wings were also fully adequate for a sluggish demand but most trading was reported at fairly steady prices.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, May 12, 1993

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was firm in Northern California, and generally steady elsewhere. Demand was fair to good, mostly moderate, and best where featured. Supplies remained short in Northern California, adequate to fully adequate elsewhere. Breaking stock prices were generally unchanged, and supplies were adequate. Live hen trading was too light to report prices, and offerings were at least adequate for the fair at best demand.

Delmarva Broiler-Fryer Market

Wednesday, May 12, 1993

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds slowed, but remained fair to good and best on 3 pound and lighter sizes. Heavier weights were adequate to fully adequate. Live supplies were moderate; weights were desirable to heavy. Processing schedules continued very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to 5 cents lower at 62 to 67 cents. Trade sentiment was no better than steady. Breast items were irregularly balanced; however, supplies were available and slow to clear. Leg items and wings were fully adequate to ample with wings held with the better confidence.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.

Wednesday, May 12, 1993

USDA DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY WEATHER AND HARD RED WINTER WHEAT HEADLINING GRAIN MARKETS. WHEAT SHARPLY HIGHER FOR THE MOST PART WITH MINNEAPOLIS UP 12 1/4 AND KANSAS CITY UP 15-18 CENTS. CORN 1 TO 4 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM 4 TO 7 CENTS HIGHER BUT SOYBEANS 3 TO 5 CENTS LOWER. AFTER A SERIES OF LOWER TRENDS WHEAT PRICES COMMING BACK LIKE GANG BUSTERS THIS WEEK WITH HARD RED WINTER WHEAT GRABBING THE HEADLINES. SPOT CASH BASED ON JULY FUTURES HAVE JUMPED 20-25 BASIS POINTS AND FUTURES UP 4 CENTS THE FIRST THREE DAYS OF THIS WEEK. MAY DELIVERY TIME. LATE DEVELOPING AND HARVEST OF NEW CROP WHEAT. HARD RED WINTER WHEAT PRICES 10 CENTS BELOW SOFT WHEAT. AROUND 35 CENTS PRICE SPREAD BETWEEN OLD CROP AND NEW CROP FUTURES. NEW CROP WHEAT LOOKING GOOD BUT NEEDS SUNSHINE AND DRY WEATHER FOR HEADS TO FILL OUT, LOWER MOISTURE CONTENT FOR HARVESTING AND DRY FIELDS SO COMBINES CAN ROLL. SOME FIELDS IN OKLAHOMA, KANSAS, MISSOURI AND NEBRASKA FLOODED OUT. NEW CROP WHEAT PRODUCTION ESTIMATED AT 1.8 BILLION BUSHEL, UP 13 PERCENT FROM A YEAR AGO. PICKING UP FEW EXPORT ORDERS AT MIDWEEK AFTER SLOW START. CORN PLANTING ABOUT TWO WEEK'S BEHIND NORMAL BUT MANY PLACES, ESPECIALLY WESTERN CORNBELT, NEED WEEK OF DRY WEATHER TO GET IN FIELDS. SCATTERED THUNDERSHOWERS CURRENTLY ROLLING ACROSS THE AREA. A LITTLE BETTER PROGRESS MADE IN EASTERN CORNBELT AND SOUTHEAST PLANTING BUT SCATTERED RAINS CONTINUE TO PLAGUE FARMERS. SORGHUM RIDING ON CORN COATTAILS AND POSTING SUBSTANTIAL PRICE GAINS BUT THIS COULD BE A SECOND CHOICE PLANTING COMMODITY. SOYBEAN PREDICTED CARRYOVER STOCKS MORE THAN SOME THOUGHT BUT 45 MILLION BUSHEL BELOW A YEAR AGO. SOUTH AMERICA PRODUCTION FIGURES BETTER THAN EARLIER ESTIMATES.

SOYBEAN PLANTINGS BEHIND NORMAL BUT WITH LATE CORN PLANTING WAY TOO EARLY TO EVEN TRY TO MAKE AN ACERAGE ESTIMATE. SHORT EXPORT ORDERS SO FAR THIS WEEK.

EXPORT NEWS: JAPAN BOUGHT A TOTAL OF 170,423 TONNES OF WHEAT INCLUDING 75,188 TONNES FROM THE U.S., THE BALANCE FROM CANADA AND AUSTRAILIA FOR JULY DEL. YEMEN PURCHASED 700 TONNES OF U.S. WHEAT UNDER EEP FOR MAY SHIPMENT. U.S.D.A. WILL DONATE 106,000 TONNES OF FEED WHEAT TO ARMENIA. U.S.D.A. Milking cows, dry cows, heifers, calves, and beef cattle throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Canada are experiencing the benefits of White Oak's newest product...

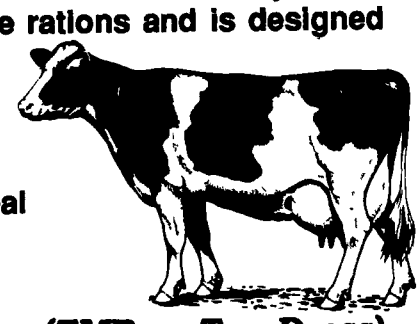
NUTRI-CATALYST
A Profitable Investment In The Future Of Your Herd

Nutri-Catalyst is a dietary ingredient that enhances the nutritional value of virtually all types of cattle rations and is designed as a rumen modulator that improves fermentation and digestion. It increases the availabity of protein, energy, minerals, and vitamins in practical forage and cereal grain diets.



FEED: 1 Ounce Per Head Per Day (TMR or Top Dress).

Can Be Used With Any Feeding Program To:

- Improve persistency of milk production
- Obtain higher peak milk yield
- Improve milk quality, protein and fat test
- Improve utilization of good and marginal quality forage
- Improve hoof health and immunity
- Re-establish intestinal microflora following digestive upsets

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

APPLES BLOOM NOW.

A DARK DAY

Imagine a day, like any other, which unexpectedly begins to darken until it is almost nighttime at noon No storm or solar eclipse can explain the eerie darkness Many people believe that doomsday has arrived as chickens roost and candles must be lit against the deepening gloom This was the scene on May 19, 1780, the famous "Dark Day" in New England, when most of the region was plunged into an early night, only to have daylight return late in the afternoon. As with other dark days both in New England and elsewhere, no verifiable causes have ever been found Although some researchers suggest the culprits may have been atmospheric particles from distant forest fires, this has never been proven and the mystery remains

Every cloud engenders not a storm.

— Shakespeare

TIP OF THE WEEK

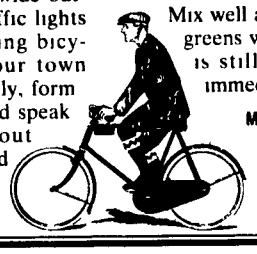
EARTHWISE

Although more than half this country's workers live within biking range (5 miles) of work, few people consider that option. Some who try find that their city is not really "bicycle friendly." Thanks to the Greater Dallas Bicyclists, Dallas, Texas, has bike routes, paved wide outside lanes, and traffic lights adjusted for waiting bicyclists To help your town become bike friendly, form your own group and speak out regularly about needed changes and the benefits to the whole community



WILTED GREENS

1½ pounds endive, Swiss chard, or other greens
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, chopped
1 cup diced salt pork or bacon
¼ cup vinegar

Wash greens well in cold water Shake to remove most water Put in serving dish Melt butter in skillet and brown onion, and pork or bacon Remove from heat and add vinegar. Mix well and toss with greens while mixture is still hot Serve immediately

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST:
Some sun, some clouds, cool, then heavy rain and colder.

SOUTHEAST:
Rainy; cool; warm Florida; clearing and turning very warm

MIDWEST:
Some sun, some showers, warm, turning rainy and cool

NORTHWEST:
Sunny and warm, few sprinkles, then cold wave, rain, snow mountains

SOUTHWEST:
Sunny and warm, some scattered showers, turning cooler, snow mountains, clear and hot California

OPINION

A Little Common Sense

The Clinton Adminstration should seek more information about the true qualities of soybean oil before deciding on a controversial new regulation that would classify this biodegradable material as hazardous.

In a letter to Federico Pena, Clinton's transportation secretary, Richard Lugar, senior Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee from Indiana, says an economic analysis should be done before the adminstration makes its final decision on a regulation that would classify soybean oil in the same catagory as petroleum oil.

We understand Lugar's concern about the economics of the situation since 40,000 Hoosier farms produce soybeans, and 11,000 people in the state are employed in industries closely related to soybean oil and products in which it is used.

But economics is not the real issue here. There is no justification for the rule. Soybean oil and petroleum oil are not related. Certainly, the soybean industry has the responsibility to prevent and clean up spills that may occur in transportation. But soybean oil is edible. If you drink petroleum oil, it will kill you.

Is it too much to ask for a little more common sense from our government?

Editor:

On behalf of the 4-H Center Committee, Inc. of Chester County I would like to thank you for the excellent coverage your paper gives to 4-H. We are working toward the goal of developing a 4-H center for Chester County and are well on our way. We hope to make settlement soon on property we purchased next to property generously donated by the Romano estate. The site is in West Brandywine Township on Route 322, perhaps you have seen our sign. We are very excited about this project and are pleased with the support we receive from Lancaster Farming and other publications. Thank you very much.

Recent reports at a fund raising progress dinner and weekly reports on the status of the drive have assured us that the community is behind us. We hope to invite you to our ground-breaking ceremonies soon.

Again, thank you for your coverage of 4-H and its programs; and thank you for helping to inform the public of our activities.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Plant Perimeter Trees

Our farms are facing increasing pressure from rapid urbanization. With residential development moving closer, it is more important than ever for farmers to maintain good relations with their neighbors.

An effective way to reduce a farm's impact on surrounding properties is to plant trees around the perimeter of the farm or certain buildings and manure storage areas.

The sight of confinement animal houses and farm activities may create a negative image in the minds of neighbors. As a stand of trees develops, the property takes on a landscaped appearance. Farm activities, dust, and feathers are virtually "out of sight, out of mind."

In addition to providing a visual barrier, a row of trees placed perpendicular to the prevailing winds may also act as a windbreak to reduce winter energy needs.

There are several species of trees to choose from. The deciduous trees that grow rapidly and provide a moderately dense barrier include Lombardy popular, hybrid poplar, and Japanese larch. They should be spaced four feet apart in single rows or six feet apart in a double row, staggered arrangement.

Since these trees are not likely to last longer than 20 years, you may want to plant a slower growing, permanent stand of evergreens behind them. Suggested evergreens include Colorado Blue Spruce, Douglas Fir, Hemlock, and White Pine. These should be planted six feet apart in single rows.

While planting trees is not an alternative to good management, it may leave a positive image of your farm in the minds of your neighbors.

To Do The Important Jobs

During the rush of spring work, it may be easy to forget which jobs are most crucial.

Good cows are the heart of a profitable dairy business. Therefore, do not neglect them to get other work done. Keep a person in the barn to care for the herd and hire additional help if necessary.

Another thing that affects herd profits greatly is forage quality. Remember, the quality of forages you harvest is the quality you live with for a full year.

Once alfalfa has reached the bud stage of maturity, take full advantage of the first break in weather to harvest the first cutting, even if the alfalfa may be younger than you desire. This will influence your future cutting times. So take the first cutting on time even if you have to stop in the middle of corn planting.

To Use Sock In Horse First Aid

Use a tall, ribbed top athletic sock as a lower leg bandage for horses when a pressure wrap is not needed.

The sock will keep leg wounds clean, protect sunburned legs, and prevent contamination of any surface medication. This inexpensive sock provides an easy, foolproof way for you to change bandages daily.

The socks conform well to the limb and cannot be put on too tightly. They also work well as a first aid measure by keeping wounds clean and free of dirt and flies until the veterinarian can examine the horse.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

"ALL I EVER DID!"
May 16, 1993

Background Scripture:
John 4:1-42.
Devotional Reading:
John 4:43-54.

When the conversation gets too close to being personal, switch to doctrine! As long as we can keep religion from cutting too close to the bone, we are safe. It is one thing to talk about forgiveness, so long as we don't have to practice it in our own lives. We can wax eloquently about "saving the lost," so long as we are not the "lost" who need saving. And we can give Jesus the most eloquent of titles without becoming personally involved in them relevant in our own relationship with him.

A case in point: Jesus and the woman of Samaria at the well of Jacob. He shocks the woman by addressing her: "Give me a drink." Respectable men did not address unknown women at a public well. Furthermore, a Jewish man would be even less likely to address a Samaritan woman, "For Jews have no dealings with Samaritans." The ancient feud was bitter and overode the simple, personal request for a drink of water.

IF YOU KNEW...

But Jesus steers the conversation from the age-old bitterness to the present situation: "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is that is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him and, he would have given you living water." She didn't know that the Son of God himself was the one who asked her for a drink of water. I wonder whether there are not times in our lives when we encounter Christ and yet fail to recognize him because our eyes are blinded by our unreceptivity. If, on a hot afternoon, the woman encountered Jesus Christ by a well, where have you encountered him unrecognized in your life?

The plot thickens when Jesus tells the woman, "Go, call your husband, and come here" and she replies, "I have no husband." Suddenly, it has become all too personal for her and Jesus says, "You are right in saying, 'I have no husband'; for you have had five husbands and he whom you now have is not your husband; this you said truly." Skillfully, she tries to get the spotlight off of her: "Sir, I perceive that you are a prophet" and proceeds to raise with Jesus the age-old dispute about which is the "right" place to worship, on Mount Gerazim, the Samaritan holy place, or Mt. Zion, the site of the Jewish temple. You're getting too close for comfort, Jesus, let's go back to doctrine!

The day is coming, says Jesus, when people will no longer ask "where?" to worship, but "how?" And the answer is to "worship the Father in spirit and truth." Once more she makes a desperate attempt to theologize the conversation: "I know that Messiah is coming...when he comes, he will show us all things." In other words, let's push our attention to the future, the present is getting uncomfortable. But Jesus will not let her off the hook: "I who speak to you am he"—smack, dab back into the present!

COME, SEE A MAN

At last, the woman's subterfuges and pretenses crumble and she returns to her village and tells everyone, "Come, see a man who told me all that I ever did. Can this be the Christ?" Jesus' feat of knowing about her five husbands and current lover persuaded her that he was the Christ. But Jesus knew more about her than just her marital and moral record. He began by saying, "If you knew..who it is that is saying to you...," but now he is demonstrating that, although she had not understood him, he understood her as no one ever had before: not only about her, he knew her.

And us, too. Jesus knows all that we have ever done, but his knowledge of us goes far beyond those facts. As he knew and understood that sinful Samaritan woman by the well of Sychar, so he understands us wherever we are and no matter how much we try to hide behind our intellectual reservations.

Hoover Named Lebanon Valley Business Person

MYERSTOWN, (Lebanon Co.)—With 200 fellow business persons looking on, Leon Hoover, owner of Farmer Boy Ag, Inc., Myerstown, was named Lebanon Valley Chamber of Commerce Small Business Person of the Year at a breakfast last Friday morning.

Hoover started Farmer Boy in 1976 after neighbors asked him to build them a hog barn like he had designed on his own farm. At the time Hoover had switched from dairy to hog farming and instead of importing hog equipment and buildings from Iowa, Hoover built his own design.

The first year Hoover sold 30 units, and by 1978 someone asked him to design a swine farrowing unit. Without prior experience, Hoover designed and built this unit at a cost of $12,000. After the unit was finished, the customer canceled the order and Hoover was left with his custom designed pig/sow unit.

But Ag Progress Days provided an opportunity to show the unit, and customer reaction was good. Not only did he sell the unit, many orders to design ventilating systems in existing units were also obtained at the show.

In the '80's Farmer Boy established a building division, an equipment division, and developed a network of independent dealers. Today the company with branch offices in Wisconsin and North Carolina employs 100 people with an additional 400 subcontractors at local projects in 12 different states. Of the first six employees, five are still with the firm.

In accepting the award, Hoover credited his employees and his family for his successes. He said his parents taught that all honor and glory goes to God and recognized God as supreme. "This gives you a base to work from in the business world," Hoover said. "This gives you strength on the days that are hard and makes it easy on the days that are easy. As I watch the world today, I feel disappointed that so many families don't have that stable family life that gives you the background to go forward in business and life in general."

Hoover credited his wife Mary for standing with him. And he introduced many of the employees to "take their due recognition."

"Money is not the major thing that runs a business," Hoover said. "It's people, both employees and customers."

In addition to the plaque presented by the Chamber, Rep. Peter Zug, (R-102th) presented a Pennsylvania House citation, and Sen. David Brightbill, (R-48th) presented a Pennsylvania Senate citation. Albert Murry, president, Lebanon Valley National Bank, presented a limited edition print.

The Lebanon Chamber has been selecting a business person of the year since 1981. Former recipients select the new award winner each year. The honoree is named during National Small Business Week.

FPPF Polar Power

Keeps Your Diesel Running In The Worst Winter Cold!

Fuel filters, separators do nothing to keep diesel fuel from the waxing or gelling that blocks up and clogs fuel lines and filters.

FPPF Polar Power contains FPPF's Fuel Power and FPPF's Polarized Diesel Fuel Flow Improver, the industry's leaders. It will keep your diesel running in the worst winter cold: lowering the pour-point, totally dispersing water, eliminating gum/varnish...outperforming all other additives and at lower cost.

The Combi Rake of the future

Combination 10' Rake/ 14' Tedders

- ★ With all working functions: tedding and raking.
- ★ For the tedding operations the rake arms are locked and the machine is tilted forwards, thus obtaining uniform spreading of the material.
- ★ During the raking function the rake tines are controlled in a cam track allowing the rake tines to be tilted upwards. This ensures very gentle treatment of the material.
- ★ Wide flotation tires ensure stable operation.

New Idea 5212 Disc Mower Conditioners cut a big 11'9" swath and condition with 9'6" intermeshing rolls. It's a wider version of our well-known 5209. With it, you cut and condition lots of hay...every trip. And that means you cut time.

Because the New Idea modular disc cutterbar design makes routine maintenance simple and, although unlikely, repairs a breeze; there's less downtime, too.

Best of all, you'll find our disc mower conditioners are just one segment of our hay equipment line. Others include round balers, disc mowers, sickle mowers and mower conditioners, rakes and hay handling equipment.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, Okla.
Wednesday, May 12, 1993

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY: Compared To Last Week: Feeder cattle and calves steady; exception noted on 600-700 lb. stocker steers $2.00 higher. Demand good with active trading. Receipts were greatly reduced from expectations due to heavy rains and major flooding over weekend thruout the trade territory. Light rains have continued thru Wednesday. Clear windy weather is needed to dry out boggy conditions. Genetic quality of cattle average thru attractive. Bulk receipts feeder steers over 700 lbs. with those over 800 lbs. comprising the majority. Flesh condition an improvement for buyers with most cattle in slighlty thin thru slightly fleshy condition, only an end moderately fleshy. Weigh-ups mostly average. Slaughter cows steady to $1.00 higher; slaughter bulls $2.00 higher. Receipts this week 7,535; last week 8,999; last year 14,949. Supply consisted of 87% feeders and stockers over 600 lbs.; 9% calves and light yearlings under 600 lbs.; 4% cows and bulls. Bulk price ranges follow with weighted averages in parenthesis.

BIGGER FOIL CRYSTALS. BETTER CPB CONTROL.

New Foil BFC. Big fat Crystals For Better Control.

New Foil BFC

New Foil® BFC bioinsecticide is reshaping Colorado potato beetle control. Ecogen has developed a new Foil strain that produces a crystal that is three times as large and three times more effective than the original Foil formulation. That's three times more toxin in every bite.

Bigger is better.

Added strength means that less Foil BFC is needed to do the job. Recommended application rates have been reduced from 3 quarts per acre with the original Foil 1 to 1 1/2 quarts per acre with Foil BFC. Reduced rates and increased efficacy combine to save you time and money.

Best Choice For IPM.

Lead-off your Integrated Pest Management (IPM) program with Foil BFC. You can't find a more effective Bt than Foil BFC.

Consultants agree that Bts can play a critical role in CPB control. When properly timed, Foil BFC will stop the explosion of CPB larvae and permit a sensible rotation of insecticide classes.

When the season starts put Foil BFC to work. It will save you time, money and a small piece of the environment for your future

U-TUBE LAMPS & SUPPLIES

"...the biggest advantage of these lamps is the economic savings over the life of the bulb. Once the initial investment is paid back, which will be done in less than six months, the increased electrical economy makes such bulbs the most logical way to light..."

Tillage Field Day Near Sunbury

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — A high residue tillage equipment field day will be held Tuesday, May 25th, 1993, at the Jeff Pontius farm, located along Route 147, 3 miles south of Sunbury. The field day is cosponsored by Pontius, the Northumberland County Conservation District, the USDA Soil Conservation and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services, and the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service to provide an opportunity for farmers and agency personnel to view and measure the percentage of crop residue left on the surface after tillage and planting operations. The procedure for measuring crop residue will be demonstrated.

John Deere company, C.B. Hoober, and Jeff Pontius will have high residue tillage equipment at the field day. John Deere company will demonstrate their new Mulch Master Tillage tool. C.B. Hoober will demonstrate some of the latest high residue tillage tools from Krause and DMI companies. Pontius will use his John Deere no-till drill for planting soybeans in all tillage plots, and prepare other plots with his chisel plow and disk. The field presently has a heavy cover of corn stalks.

Norman Conrad, Crops and Soils Specialist from Penn State Cooperative Extension will be on hand to present a program and answer questions on management of weeds and insects in high residue tillage systems.

The percentage of crop residue left on the soil surface after planting may mean the difference of a farmer being in or not being in compliance with his Food Security Act (FSA) conservation plan and being eligible or not eligible for USDA benefits. Crop residue management is a component of more than 95% of all current FSA conservation compliance plans.

Crop residue management is the most cost effective single conservation practice available. Crop residue management is the practice of keeping as much as possible of the previous crop residue, (corn stalks, straw, etc.) on the soil surface before and after the present crop is planted. George J. Phillips, Soil Conservationist for the Northumberland County Conservation District, says, "Minimum tillage systems leave much more residue on the soil surface after planting than use of conventional plow tillage. Benefits of a high residue tillage system are many, including less soil erosion, conserves more moisture, requires less tillage, saves time, requires less labor and improves water quality."

Farmers as well as other holders of a private pesticide certification will receive 1 credit toward certification renewal for attending this field day. The PA Department of Agriculture has approved this program as an update training session.

For more information on the field day, contact the Northumberland County Conservation District at 717-988-4224 or the Soil Conservation Service at 717-286-4311.

- Reduces run-off
- Promotes extended stand life

"This year we ran the Aer-Way over half the land where we had harvested corn silage. We then spread between 4,000-5,000 gallons of liquid manure per acre and disked the seed bed to prepare for small grains. We were absolutely amazed at the difference where we used the Aer-Way and one disking. My non-Aer-Wayed ground was disked 3 to 4 times and still wasn't as good. I would recommend the Aer-Way to other farmers as it softens the ground and lets rain and manure penetrate instead of running off."
W.W Sandford III -
Kenwood Farm, Orange, Virginia

"Earlier this spring, I used the Aer-Way implement and Aer-Way chain harrow on my rolling pastureland. This was done to open up the ground to get water into the sloping grasslands. At the same time I pulled the Aer-Way chain harrow to scatter the cattle manure around. Even after the dry summer we had, I noticed that the Aer-Wayed ground held the moisture better and we got thicker and taller regrowth where we ran the machine."
Dr. Rex Wilhelm D.V.M., Stuart, Iowa

"I have better pastures since I started using the Aer-Way to aerate and renovate my pastures. Using the Aer-Way has helped me get the nutrients where they are needed. I would not recommend fertilizing or liming without running the Aer-Way first."

Pa. Plant Corn Acres

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's prospective plantings report places Pennsylvania's 1993 corn seedings at 1.36 million acres, one percent below last year.

Corn plantings for the nation are expected to total 76.5 million acres this year, four percent less than last year.

"Acres actually planted may vary from those indicated," said Richard Troutman, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) because of the 1993 farm programs, the effects of weather, and changes in market conditions before planting.

The USDA report is based on voluntary responses from approximately 70,000 farm operators to a survey conducted the first two weeks of March. Many producers had not made their final planting decisions for the 1993 crop year at that time.

Troutman said the sign-up period for this year's farm programs ended April 30.

"Therefore, the report provides only a preliminary indication of farmers' responses to the 1993 feed grain program."

The feed grain program calls for a 10 percent reduction in corn base acres this year and offers a federal target price of $2.75 per bushel and price support loans at $1.72 per bushel. The season-average price for corn for 1992/1993 is projected to range between $1.95 and $2.15 per bushel.

USDA Intends To Label Meat, Seeks Comment

part of enjoying our product, aside from great taste, is the knowledge that it is safe and healthy. But if the safety aspects are unknown, and our products are mishandled at home, all the work done in the rest of the industry to assure a safe and quality product is eliminated. I think it's a positive move for the meat industry."

Ivan said that the labeling is the result of USDA and meat industry officials working to better educate the public on how to prevent individuals from allowing meat to spoil and possibly make themselves ill.

The voluntary nutritional information is additional. If there isn't enough compliance, the consideration for making it mandatory may be considered, but the intent is to allow the consumer to know more about what they are contemplating to purchase.

Ivan said it will help.

"People see a jar of peanut butter claiming to be 'cholesterol free,' and they think that overall it is a healthier choice than meat, but they don't know that the peanut butter contains more fat."

According to Ivan, this different, voluntary labeling should help consumers understand the nutritional value of meat in their diets.

When a decision is made for a permanent labeling program isn't known, but the USDA said all are invited to submit suggestions for making a meaningful label for consumers. Eventually, the wording of the label will be debated.

Anyone who would like to comment or make suggestions for labeling meats for the benefit of consumer education about meat can telephone the USDA Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) at (202) 720-7025, or write to FSIS USDA, 14th and Independence Sts., Southwest, Washington, D.C., 20250.

"The exact wording of the label has not been determined," Dixon said. "We are going to make a proposal by August 15, by which time, we will have a comment period. Groups can come up with input to make it (an informative and useful label)."

According to Dixon, the comment period hasn't officially started yet, but people can call now if they have some helpful suggestions. "Even before the comment period, we welcome input."

However, while the mandatory labeling is a product of government and industry working together, an anti-beef activist is claiming it is his doing for getting the USDA to mandate the labeling.

After people died earlier this year from eating meat contaminated at a Jack-in-the-Box, in Spokane, Washington, from improper care and handling, anti-meat activist Jeremy Rifkin, head of the Foundation on Economic Trends, filed a lawsuit against Espy charging that he was in violation of the Federal Meat Inspection Act for not warning about the dangers of meat.

Rifkin was called Thursday for comment, but did not return the call. Whether Rifkin knew about the intentions of the USDA and the meat industry to introduce mandat- unknown by presstime.

However, Espy's position was reported in the media by the time he took office Jan. 22, which was prior to the deaths in the state of Washington and prior to the lawsuit by Rifkin.

Additionally, the lawsuit was dismissed earlier this year, and on May 5 a "stipulation of dismissal" was filed in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

A "stipulation of dismissal" is a legal phrase for an agreement between the parties involved in the lawsuit (or any legal action), or their counsels, to drop the suit because they agreed to.

Specifically, the court document states that John Kinsman, counsel for Rifkin, "... seek(s) in this case to compel defendant (Mike Espy) to adopt rules under the Federal Meat Inspection Act (FMIA) ... requiring the mandatory labeling of meat and poultry regarding the potential presence of disease causing (sic) pathogens in meat and poultry.

"(Espy) has determined to propose rules under the FMIA and PPIA to mandate labels regarding the handling and cooking meat and poultry to minimize the chance that bacterial contamination will reach the consumer.

"It is (Espy's) intention to publish proposed rules for public comment ... on or before August 15, 1993."

The agreement also allows that should USDA fail to published proposed rules for mandating labels by August 15, then Rifkin retains the right to refile the

The agreement, while it may sound as though Rifkin was instrumental in bringing about some change in USDA, is a ruse to make him appear to have more influence, according the USDA and to Ivan.

"It's important to note the secretary was advocating these labels before the lawsuits were filed," she said.

While a legal stipulation is in effect an agreement, in this case the agreement was that the USDA was already prosposing labeling meat, though not the kind of labeling that Rifkin has sought.

While he continues to claim so, it is not a victory for Rifkin, according to Dixon.

Rifkin's proposal was to include a gory description of health problems that are caused by poisoning from bacteria.

However, while Secretary Espy has not defined specifically what the labels should say, he did say his intent was to provide "care and handling labels" to make sure ignorance of food handling didn't cause any problems.

Dixon said the USDA is open to all advice on what will benefit consumers.

"The intention (by the USDA) is to keep the consumer well informed and well edcuated. The intention is to make sure the consumer is well enough informed that they wouldn't get hurt," she said.

The importance and potential gain to the meat industry in educating a population that is virtually ignorant about the origin, cooking, handling, care and preparation of raw foods is great, according to Ivan.

He said the voluntary program that is in the works for nutritional education is also seen as good for the industry. And if the "USDA feels comfortable with amount of compliance they get (with the voluntary nutrition education program) they won't write more specific regulations (for nutritional labeling)," he said.

The nutritional program is being heavily supported by the Pa. Beef Council which plans to produce educational materials about the composite nutritional content of various meats, so retailers can make them readily available for consumers.

"From an industry standpoint, I think the new nutrition label does represent an opportunity to tell the good news about our product. We've been bashed in the past with perhaps misleading claims. This does give the industry the opportunity to share with the consumer the nutritional apsects of our products. We're looking forward to making this a positive angle for our industry," he said.

Milk Buyer Denounces Actions That Hurt Dairy Industry

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

WALLINGTON, N.J. — The head of Farmland Dairies Inc. Monday denied having any connection whatsoever with Jeremy Rifkin, founder and leader of the anti-agricultural, anti-biotechnology Foundation on Economic Trends, even though a subgroup has been publicizing Farmland Dairies as being part of a shared "movement" to ban bovine somatotropin.

Additionally, Marc Goldman, president of Farmland Dairies, denounced Rifkin's actions as hurting the dairy industry. Goldman said Rifkin should stop perpetuating misunderstanding and fear among consumers about milk.

In a Lancaster Farming article printed early this month, it was reported that Farmland Dairies Inc. had lent its name to Rifkin's group in calling for a ban on BST. That report was very incorrect, said Marc Goldman, head of Farmland Dairies Inc., headquartered in Wallington, N.J.

Goldman's name and company were mentioned in the story about Atlantic Dairy Cooperative Inc.'s decision to, for now, place a ban on its members using injections of supplemental bovine somatotropin (BST), should it be approved for use by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Farmland became involved in the newspaper report about ADC because of the marketplace relationship between the two: ADC sells a large portion of its milk to Farmland competitor Johanna Farms.

Johanna adopted a policy of not accepting any milk derived from cows treated with supplemental BST in order to remain competitive with Farmland; ADC has followed suit for now, in order to continue selling milk to Johanna.

Goldman said this week that, while he has adopted the policy of not accepting milk derived from cows injected with supplemental BST, it is because of consumer fears and confusion about BST being fanned by Rifkin.

Goldman said he is not against biotechnology, nor is he against the use of BST. He said he is concerned that people keep drinking milk.

"I did not allow my name to be used by Rifkin in any way, shape or form," Goldman said Monday during a telephone interview.

At the time, Goldman could not be reached for comment and, while his company's position on BST was known, his association with Rifkin's group was taken directly from anti-BST literature and proposed advertising created by Pure Food Campaign, one of Rifkin's groups.

In its advertisement proposal, Pure Food Campaign states, "The movement against BGH is growing fast: . . . The following is only a partial list of companies that pledge never to use BGH products. Companies refusing to pledge are also listed. For a complete list, use the coupon."

Along with Farmland Dairies Inc., Pure Food Campaign literature also lists the names of 51 other businesses that it claims "pledge" to be "BGH-free."

Goldman said that neither he, nor his company is part of any "movement against BGH," and that he never pledged any such thing to anyone.

Further, Goldman said he has never talked to Rifkin, much less discussed his BST position with Rifkin.

According to Goldman, Rifkin must have extracted and interpreted his company's name and position from other newspaper articles reporting on Farmland Dairies Inc. current position which is against accepting milk from cows injected with BST.

Goldman said his position reflects his desire to sell milk, not influence the use or approval of BST.

Farmland Dairies inclusion in Rifkin's list is significant because the dairy processor holds a large share of the dairy market in the Middle Atlantic states.

However, Goldman said that if and when consumer fears and confusion can be put to rest about BST, that policy can disappear.

"This guy (Rifkin) running around is not good for the (dairy) industry and I think it's very unfortunate he's doing what he's doing, and I think he's hurting the farmers.

"Rifkin's activities are doing a large disservice to the dairy industry and in particular to dairy farmers in creating consumer fears . . . and (therefore) hurting consumption of milk," Goldman said.

"I did not allow my name to be used by Rifkin in any way, shape or form and the decisions that we made were our own independent decisions, and we are in no way connected with, or intended to be supportive of, Jeremy Rifkin's group," Goldman said.

Goldman said that while he didn't perform a consumer poll or see a consumer poll on reaction to milk derived from cows injected with supplemental BST, it was apparent that, with fears being stirred by Rifkin's groups and with the general public's lack of education about biotechnology, it would be best for selling milk if he adopted his position.

"Clearly, we saw that consumers were at best confused by the controversy over this, and we felt that, that confusion, on the part of the consumer, would be harmful to sales — that they (consumers) would be concerned about the safety of the products and so we wanted to assure that our products would be free of milk from cows treated with BST."

He said his policy would stay in effect, ". . . basically until consumer concerns and confusion are clarified."

In the meantime, Goldman said he wants the dairy industry to come together on this and all issues concerning the salability of milk, especially fluid milk.

Currently, fluid milk sales bring the best return on investment for the farmer. However, less than half of all milk produced is used for drinking and that level has continued to drop.

resentatives at the meeting, relayed its decision regarding the exemption of agriculture from consumptive use, which took place in May of last year and expired this week. They unanimously passed Resolution 93-01 at the meeting, which extends the exemption until May 13, 1994.

Until that time, Peter J. Bush, New York Commission member, said that the SRBC's Ag Advisory Committee must work on ways to register all users in the basin and to work on a proposal for fees for all users.

Before the SRBC's decision was announced, Keith Masser, president of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers and a spokesperson for the Ag Use Advisory Committee for the SRBC, told the Commission that most farmers in the basin are unaware of the SRBC regulations.

(The regulations state that Commission approval is required for groundwater withdrawals that exceed an average of 100,000 gallons per day for any consecutive 30-day period. Also, approval is required for consumptive uses that exceed an average of 20,000 gallons per day for any consecutive 30-day period. The resolution, which carries through from last year for another year, suspended application of the consumptive use makeup regulation, now still in effect until May 1994. However, the groundwater regulations remain in full force and effect for all types of withdrawals, according to the SRBC).

Masser affirmed the opinion of the ag advisory committee that there is more water available in the basin than the farmers could use, and that agriculture continues to remain in competition with federally subsidized water, which is allocated to the utilties.

Also, ag use does not affect the water in the basin during low flow rates, said Masser. Farmers continue to implement and follow conservation plans which help to retain water in the basin.

He also questioned why municipalities continue to remain exempt from approval and monitoring fees, especially in such steadily growing urbanized areas such as Baltimore, Md.

Masser told the SRBC that support should be provided to the farmers to obtain ways to build and maintain water storage structures if they must be charged with consumptive use and are required to replenish the water they remove from the basin for ag use.

The five-member Commission which met on Thursday agreed that a plan for regulating all water users in the basin must be implemented. However, according to John R. McCarty, representative at the federal level, more input is needed. State commission member Caren Glotfelty said that the 20 percent ag consumptive use is "quite a bit. If we fail to deal with it, we're failing citizens in the basin as as whole." She said she is not comfortable with making agriculture compeletely exempt.

Bush said that there has been discrimination and "special and beneficial treatment to ag users." Maryland member Catherine P. Stevenson said that in her state, it wasn't until the last decade that ag use of basin water came into play, but that farmers began to take interest early on and were willing to cooperate with the SRBC.

Masser said he was taken competely by surprise with the SRBC's decision. Up until this time the ag representatives believed that the SRBC was working within their interests, and would continue to keep agriculture exempt until a gradual registration program for farmers who use basin water could be implemented.

Leon Ressler, Lancaster County environmental agent, said that the SRBC should not instruct farmers not to draw water when they need it the most. What is needed is better overall water management that takes into account when the utilities and agriculture are using it and make sure ag is given high enough priority.

Research Shows Milk Has Many Proteins

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

Milk Protein — Confusion Or Opportunity?

NEWARK, Del. — Milk hasn't just one protein, but many.

In addition to milk's being a principal source of calcium, it has protein for healthy muscle growth, nutrition and human health. But there seems to be little common interest in the many protein constituents of milk's total protein.

Now, after decades of research, the protein content in milk is partially used in payment to dairy farmers. Consumers presumably are more concerned with protein than with the traditional milk fat content differences.

Because the trait for milk protein content is inherited, cows and bulls can be selected for these differences. New cow strains with higher protein content are possible if that's what the consumer wants.

Which consumer?

If food taste preference research can be believed, consumers prefer milk with a higher protein content. Market trends, however, show only that the consumer is interested in less milk fat, not in more protein.

Years ago, there were milks on the market that had higher solids and/or protein contents. All-Jersey and Golden Guernsey are two such examples, but they lost market share. So where's the logic in offering the dairy farmer a price incentive for protein content? Is it an attempt to reverse a market trend by educating consumers to drink more milk with higher protein contents?

Increasing milk consumption is of primary interest to dairy farmers, who receive a higher income when milk is used as fluid milk. They receive less money for milk that goes into manufacturing cheese, yogurt and powder. At least this is the conventional wisdom of dairy-management experts. More indirectly, and probably more correctly, in the long run this isn't true.

In an indirect way, the price of milk goes up or down more with market trends in cheese sales. The percentage of fluid milk sales varies less and, therefore, has less influence on price.

When more cheese in Wisconsin and Minnesota is sold, the overall milk price to dairy farmers in our region goes up. So our primary consumer is not really the milk drinker, it seems, but the cheese eater, and more specifically, the pizza eater, because a lot of cheese consumed is on pizza.

A colleague with much insight into market dynamics used to chuckle that dairy farmers should offer a prayer of thanks every time they pass a pizza shop!

Our main consumer, then, the one who is interested in the protein content of milk, is the cheese maker. In fact, the cheese maker is aware that there is more to protein than a single entity.

In making cheeses, the cheese maker separates casein (the major protein constituent in total milk protein) from the others, which are in the whey.

Casein can make up 80 percent, but research here at the University of Delaware and at other experiment stations has shown that this percentage can drop by as much as half when mastitis occurs in the udder. This variation, of course, is of considerable interest to cheese makers. Their cheese yields can be disastrously less when they use milks with different mastitis histories.

So cheese makers are taking an interest in research that elucidates the characteristics of the different protein constituents in total milk protein, not that this is new research. Information on the subject has been hidden in the literature for years, but the economic implications are just beginning to surface.

While physical and chemical research in milk proteins has been going on for years, only scientists were excited about it.

Our own USDA regional research laboratory in Philadelphia is a world leader in this field. We at the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences engaged in a collaborative project with them until national budget cuts reduced these and related efforts drastically in recent years. Now new research in this field comes from Canada, Europe and India.

The information is not only making order out of a multitude of milk protein constituents, but is also attaching some economic opportunities to them.

In research 25 years ago here at the university, we identified five principal protein groups in milk, each with several genetically and chemically different members.

The casein group subdivided into four categories, with a total of 27 members, and the other protein groups, with seven different genetic members.

This seems confusing only until one gets caught up by the laws of genetics with which one can trace and predict the milk protein types in offspring.

We determined the occurrence and frequency in more than 3,000 Holsteins and Guernseys and found distinct differences between families of cows and between breeds.

Furthermore, we found significant relationships between some genetic members and differences in milk contents of total protein, casein, fat and solids-not-fat.

Recently, Canadian research demonstrated that there are economic advantages associated with some of these genetic members in the cheese-making process, and not just in terms of different milk composition.

If one realizes that protein differences are the result of the presence or absence of specific amino acids that make up proteins and that these amino acid presences and sequences are genetically fixed, then it is clear why some protein members act differently in cheese making and, of course, in digestion and human nutrition.

It's been established that certain specific milk protein genetic members have faster or slower curd coagulation time, different degrees of curd firmness or softness, more or less heat stability in processing, smaller or larger curd size, and higher or lower cheese yield. Sooner or later, all this will be proven to be similar in different digestibility levels for people, not just in cheese making.

This news generates real excitement, considering the opportunities in human nutrition and health, as well as future market trends for milk and milk products.

Dedication Marks Coolidge Dairy Of Distinction

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — Years of planning and hard work — for Erick and Dixie Coolidge, the effort proved satisfying when they received the Dairy of Distinction Award in June 1992.

"Dad wanted it years ago, and I felt we needed to have a track record showing that we didn't do it just for the reward, if we were to ever apply," said Erick, who with his wife, operates a 160-plus milking herd of registered and grade Holsteins.

Unfortunately, Erick's father did not get to see Le-Ma-Re win the award — he passed away in 1988. To Erick and Dixie, the goal was reached in his memory.

The road to success was certainly one full of rocks and potholes, as the Coolidges experienced a number of setbacks throughout their farming history. The year 1983 was probably their most difficult year. That June, their milk market went bankrupt. Then, Erick's dad suffered three heart attacks in three consecutive months. The final blow of the year came when their barn was destroyed by fire in November. Their herd was out to pasture at the time and the only livestock loss was one calf.

A neighbor lent them the use of a barn at no charge while they were building a new one, which they moved into a year later.

The farm has seen changes over the years in other ways, too. "We are a Pennsylvania Century Farm," said Erick. Although the paperwork hasn't been completed to make them "official," the Coolidges have researched their farm back as far as the mid-1800s.

"My grandfather retired in the late 1960s and I entered into partnership with my father in the 1970s. The acreage has increased over the years from 350 since my grandfather's retirement to its present 850."

There are actually two farms the Coolidges maintain — Le-Ma-Re where they reside and the other 'Roadside Dairy,' what they call the original homestead, next door.

Erick credits his wife as being the driving force that keeps their Le-Ma-Re Farm looking good. In fact, Erick claims they would not have received the Dairy of Distinction Award "were it not for the commitment and hard work primarily Dixie does for the outside appearance of the farm and her willingness to tolerate us when we don't always park the equipment where we should."

The award sign, displayed in their yard, has been an inspiration to the Coolidges' employees as well. Erick said, "The guys have taken a new sense of pride in not only the work they do, but the appearance of the farm. They feel a part of what it's all about."

Erick's hectic schedule does not deter his employees in finding ways to communicate with him. In the milkhouse, Erick finds a note left by Ron Jones.

Erick proudly stands next to #56 Le-Ma-Re Joy, a Holstein grade cow featured in the Eastern AI Federated Genetics catalog.

While Le-Ma-Re has always been an attractive farm along Route 287 south of Wellsboro, the Coolidges' beautification efforts increased in 1991 as they prepared to host the first Farm-City Day in Tioga County. Even gray skies interspersing drizzle throughout the day did not deter the turnout of 2,000 people, marking the event a sound success. The Coolidges' employees were anxious to host Farm-City Day then, and apparently their enthusiasm hasn't changed as Erick said with a laugh, "Rodney (Cleveland) even wanted to do it again!"

It is this kind of dedication that endears his employees to Erick. "They are the key reasons why Dixie and I have what we have since my father's passing," said Erick of Ron Jones of Roseville and Rodney Cleveland of Wellsboro. "They're very much a part of not only the working part of it, but also the decision making. They have to understand why we do what we are doing." Expanding that involvement, Erick established an incentive program allowing his employees to be awarded whenever the farm gains through their efforts.

The success the Coolidges have experienced with their hired hands is evident in their herd management program. Two of their grade Holsteins are featured in identifying herd books. Le-Ma-Re Darrel #4 is in the Tri-State Breeders catalog and #56 Le-Ma-Re Joy is in Eastern AI Federated Genetics.

The Coolidges also have two part-timers: Reid Webster, a senior citizen, and Mike Confair, a high school student.

Additional help comes from the Coolidges' son Derick, 10, who is responsible for the outside care and some of the calves.

Dixie helps, too. Not only does she take care of their three children, including daughters, Shalene, 15, and Chelsie, 8, she also keeps their home in order, as well as does farm chores. Erick is quick to credit his wife. "She's very good with the calves," he said, "overseeing their feeding and medical care, but she also participates wherever she is needed, from working the ground to raking hay and milking."

Dixie opted for a paint-roller and painting the bathroom when asked to pose with the Dairy of Distinction sign. Erick stood next to the sign prominently displayed in a flower bed adorned with silk flowers arranged by Dixie.

Erick prepares to haul manure as he boards his tractor at Le-Ma-Re.

A firm believer in letting the experts be their guide, the Coolidges use an Agway feed program right from day one with newborn calves.

"It creates an overall balance in the animal and we are definitely seeing positive results," said Erick.

They grow their own crops of corn, alfalfa, mixed hay, and oats. Forage samples are then tested to determine the amount of pellets added to provide a complete, balanced diet.

"Because of the diet they have been receiving since birth, we now have heifers entering the herd at above herd average."

Their most recent DHIA records show a rolling herd average 17,900 pounds of milk, with 645 in fat and 565 in protein.

Involvement in co-ops has played a large part in Erick's and Dixie's farming practices. "In the mid-80s," said Erick, "we were fortunate to be elected as Chair Couple in the PAFC (Pennsylvania Association of Farm Co-ops, now the Pennsylvania Council of Co-ops). We were also involved with Dairylea's Young Couples Program and the National Milk Young Couples Program." In 1987, they were nominated to represent the Mansfield chapter of Jaycees and were named Pennsylvania's Young Farm Couple on the national level at the convention in Orlando, Fla. in 1987.

In praise of these programs, Erick said, "Each was an enriching opportunity and has given us a chance to experience different types of (farm) operations and different viewpoints (on farming). It's an educational aspect. You come away with a broader sense of what's going on around you.

Field Service System Part Of Infinity

The Field Services System Module of the Infinity System provides subscribers with the choice of technician services to collect samples and information through a paper-based system, or through a personal computer (PC) based electronic data system.

This service module provides technician service by a protable electronic notebook capability for ease of use. Compatibility of these notebooks with IBM PCs and poupular on-farm system like Westfalia, deLaval, Boumatic, and Dairy Comp 305.

A full range of test day management reports through Dairy Comp 305 include the reproduction, herd health, young stock, culling histories, lactation histories, group analysis, and nutrition. Also billing capability is available on test day.

The system also has the capability to upload data from the field to the Pennsylvania Infinity Data Record Processing Center.

Some of the other assets are improved turnaround time, reduced reporting errors and paperless barnsheets (electronic barnsheets). All of these aspects streamline and simplify the operation for technicians.

The capability of the system includes the capability to provide graphics of individual cow lactations, herd and group performance and also a stastiçal analysis.

The Field Service System Module has the feature of being able to transfer data electronically or by diskette.

Further, the module also provides management reports for DHIA field service managers in many different ways. And can also provide a weekly technician performance report, and a summary of performance on a monthly or annual basis.

Also included are a variety of monthly listings of cow and herd data to keep within the guidelines set by national or state boards. One listing monitors herds over 45 days since last test.

Another listing of bulk tank values compares the test day production with monthly production. There's also a monthly cow and herd list which can be used to monitor for verification purposes.

And, there's even a report which consists of permanent and visible identification exception reports.

Among the other listings are biweekly billing summaries by technician and/or county area; a meter cost summary by technician; and a sample to lab time report by technician.

The power of Infinity come from the unique integration of individual service modules which permit information in one module to be shared with other modules.

While some modules rely on input of data from other modules, the overall design allows a DHIA or dairy producer to select only those modules needed.

OFS — On-Farm System: Dairy Comp 305 and Dairy Plan.

OFS+ — On-Farm System Plus: provides the OFS and also gives genetic evaluations and young sire programs.

FSS — Field Services System.

DES — Data Entry System.

LCS — Laboratory Control System.

EES — Extension and Education Service.

CS — Consultant's Service.

COM — Communication System.

FPS — Finance and Personnel Service.

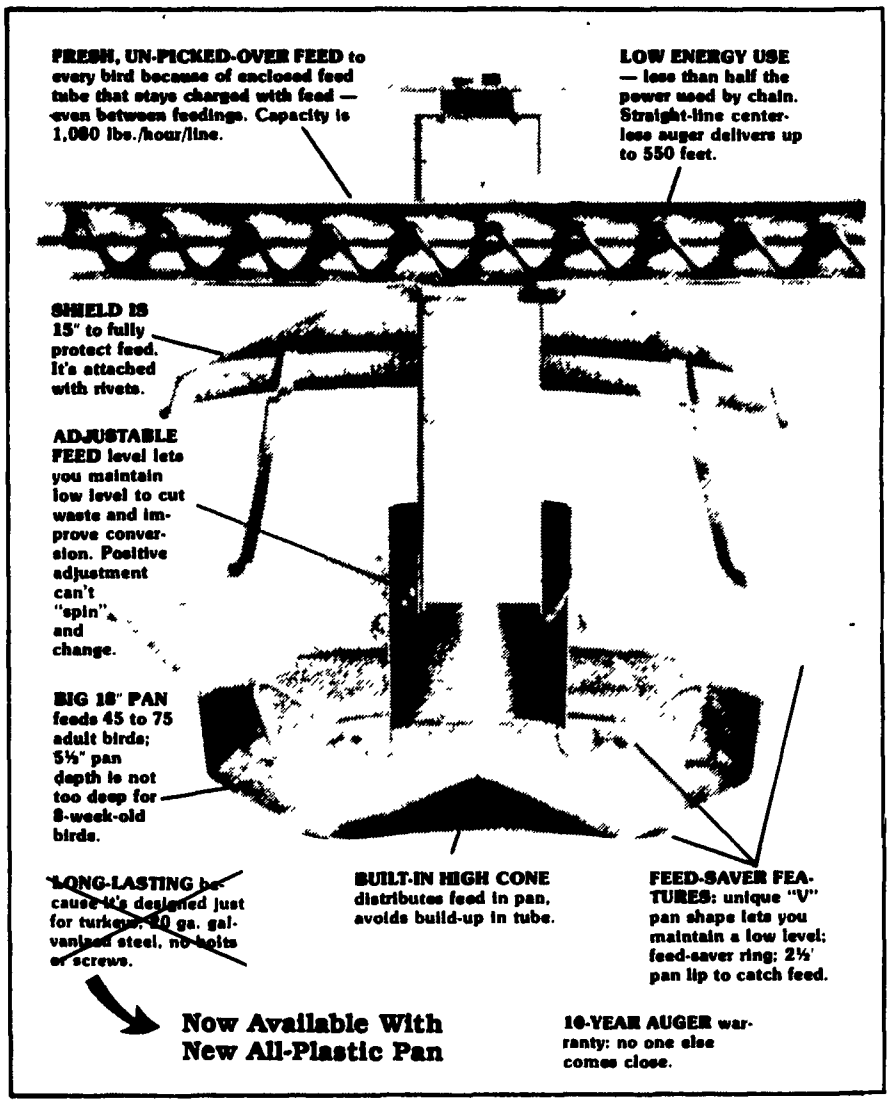
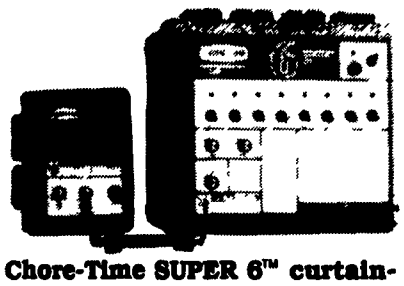
Contracts for new and updated turkey houses using CHORE-TIME equipment



FRESH, UN-PICKED-OVER FEED to every bird because of enclosed feed tube that stays charged with feed — even between feedings. Capacity is 1,080 lbs./hour/line.
LOW ENERGY USE — less than half the power used by chain. Straight-line centerless auger delivers up to 550 feet.
SHIELD IS 15" to fully protect feed. It's attached with rivets.
ADJUSTABLE FEED level lets you maintain low level to cut waste and improve conversion. Positive adjustment can't "spin" and change.
BIG 18" PAN feeds 45 to 75 adult birds; 5½" pan depth is not too deep for 8-week-old birds.
LONG-LASTING because it's designed just for turkeys. 10 ga. galvanized steel, no bolts or screws.
BUILT-IN HIGH CONE distributes feed in pan, avoids build-up in tube.
FEED-SAVER FEATURES: unique "V" pan shape lets you maintain a low level; feed-saver ring; 2½" pan lip to catch feed.
Now Available With New All-Plastic Pan
10-YEAR AUGER warranty: no one else comes close.

Chore-Time H2 ALL-PLASTIC FEEDER floods feeder pan with plenty of feed to attract and start poults from the first day.



Chore-Time SUPER 6™ curtain-sided ventilation made easy

Chore-Time SUPER 6™ Environmental Control System takes the work out of operating curtain ventilation — and does it without requiring anyone to be a computer expert! SUPER 6 accurately and automatically "supervises" your building's ventilation during hot, cold, and even during natural ventilation periods — doing automatically what most hog producers are attempting to do by hand.

Official Says Biotech Researchers Should Support Own Product

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

BALA CYNWYD, (Montgomery Co.) — Within the next two years, or less, farmers in North America and the United Kingdom may be using a product of biotechnology to increase milk production in dairy cattle.

According to Judy Downer, manager of North American Animal Development for American Cyanamid Co., regulatory agency approval for the use of bovine somatotropin (BST) as an injectable protein hormone supplement to increase cow milk production may very well occur not only in the United States, but also the United Kingdom.

A speaker at the third annual symposium of the Pennsylvania Biotechnology Association (PBA), held recently near Philadelphia at the Adam's Mark Convention Center, Downer told a large group of peer biotechnology researchers that the European Economic Community (EEC) moratorium on the use of supplemental injections of BST is due to expire December.

She said that could very well put the United Kingdom in a position to quickly approve commercial use of the product — according to Downer, the UK Veterinary Medicine Review Board has already approved the animal and human safety of BST.

According to the researcher, if the U.S. and UK approve the use of BST, then Canada would not be far behind.

In the meantime, the product has already been approved in a number of countries around the world, including Mexico and South Africa.

(The effect of BST approval on the pending North American Free Trade Agreement — a free market agreement between Canada, Mexico and the United States — and the shipment of dairy products, has not be determined.)

The fact that Downer was addressing BST in a public forum is a rarity. All representatives of companies with pending FDA reviews of BST products are not legally allowed to speak about BST to any public group, except fellow researchers.

Downer was one of three speakers during the two-day symposium who were to discuss their company's experiences in attempting to introduce biotechnology products into the agricultural and food products markets.

Also speaking was Karen Cockley, PhD., RD, manager of the nutritional product development at Wyeth-Ayerst International Inc., who spoke about a genetically altered tomato which received FDA and USDA approval; and Richard Gill, PhD, vice president of British Technology Group, USA.

For the past year, the FDA has banned all representatives of all companies with pending reviews of BST products from talking to the general public about those products and even BST in general.

Originally, while not allowed to promote the product, representatives of the companies involved with BST were permitted to present BST-research supported facts to layman groups in an educational setting.

However, the FDA later ordered the companies to refrain from discussing the subject at all, unless it was with other researchers. That FDA decision followed complaints from anti-biotechnology groups which have been fighting the introduction of any product resulting from the direct manipulation of genetic materials.

During her presentation, Downer urged researchers to combat efforts from biotech-opposition groups, especially those founded and headed by Jeremy Rifkin, out of Washington D.C.

Rifkin's groups have been calling for people to intimidate grocers, food processors and producers in an effort to decrease the salability of a biotechnological product by asking them if they sell "BGH-free milk or meat."

BST is also called bovine growth hormone (BGH), especially by the relatively small, but vocal, anti-biotechnology group.

While Rifkin's literature does mention milk or meat derived from cows treated with BST, it does so in small print and in the middle of a paragraph.

On the other hand, the phrase, "BGH-free milk or meat" is in relatively large and heavy type, and is easy to see.

What disturbs a number of researchers is the misrepresentation of biotechnology by Rifkin. For example, there is no such thing as "BGH-free milk or meat." Also, Rifkin has presented the gene-transfer technologies in terms normally reserved for science fiction horror stories.

In an article co-written by Rifkin and his associate, professional fund-raiser Ted Howard, director of Rifkin's Pure Food Campaign, they refer to genetically altered food crops as "frankenfoods."

Specifically, Rifkin has targeted such plants as the Calgene Inc. Flavr Savr tomato — a breed of tomato that has had a gene attatched in order to give it the ability to ripen on the vine for increased flavor and also have long-shelf life — as those the public should fear.

To combat such tactics, Downer called on researchers to take subtle, but determined steps to promote their products in the market place.

According to Downer, those people, especially researchers who believe in the safety of food products created through biotechnology, should stand up for it.

"The next time you go into a supermarket, ask the manager, 'Where are those Flavr-Savr tomatoes I keep hearing about? I want to buy some,'" said Downer.

"And say, 'Where is that milk that is made from cows treated with BST? I want to buy some of it, so I can help keep dairy farmers in business," she said.

American Cyanamid and Monsanto are among four biotech companies in the United States who have developed methods for altering the genetic coding of bacteria to manufacture enough BST so that it can be injected and used as a tool in dairy farming.

A cow's physiology is such that BST plays a significant role in directing nutrients to the milk-producing tissue in the mammary system, thereby encouraging additional milk production.

BST is a protein hormone, which, like all protein chains, is broken down by the digestive system, therefore, it can not, of and by itself, create any kind of reaction when ingested.

It also cannot cause a reaction in humans, even when injected, because the human protein hormone receptors cannot react to BST. They are specific for the molecular structure of the human hormone.

In other words, protein hormones, such as BST, act as "keys" to turn-on or turn-off certain body functions, and the cow key doesn't fit the human lock.

While the federal Food and Drug Administration had been expected to approve BST by the end of 1992, the Government Accounting Office, an agency of the Democrat-ruled House, posed last minute questions about human health risks from BST.

The first question was based on the possibility that because there was a slight statistical increase in mastitis discovered during research that there may be a resulting increase in farmers using antibiotics to treat mastitis, and then the consumer would be at an increased risk of developing a resistance to penicillin, or have an allergic reaction.

All of this assumption was made without the knowledge and understanding of the tight testing and heavy punishment system in place in the dairy industry and without the knowledge that dairy farmers have been advised that using antibiotics to treat mastitis symptoms can be a waste of money, because the symptoms resulting from a mastitis infections are noticed after the disease has run its course and penicillin does nothing for symptoms.

The recommended treatment for mastitis is frequent milking and maintaining a clean, dry environment for cows.

A hearing resulted in the the FDA's Veterinary Advisory Committee dismissing the concern as insignificant.

The other delay was caused by a call by Rifkin and some others to require labeling of milk produced through the use of supplemental BST.

However, since the animal-produced BST which is in all milk and meat, and the bacteria-produced BST is identical in function and no test is conceived that could detect a difference, it is likely the FDA will not support the request.

Also, the FDA had long ago approved the human safety of milk produced by cows treated with additional BST. In fact, milk and meat derived from BST-treated cows has been in the general milk supply for years.

The safety of ingesting BST has also been questioned because of a study in which rats were fed high doses of BST.

Downer said that the study done with rats does not indicate any direct negative effects from BST, per se.

Rather, she said the test results, which showed problems with the rats on the high-BST diet, occured because the rats were fed such high amounts of BST, that the protein portion of the rats' diet was insufficient.

In other words, the test, by design, created an unhealthy situation for the rats — the amino acids in the BST protein are not sufficient for the complete dietary needs of rats.

According to Downer, what the rat-tests did prove was that rats don't do well on a protein-insufficient diet, just as any other organism deprived of sufficient nutrition would react negatively.

Her call for associates to take a marketplace stance for biotechnology derived food additives and products was questioned after her talk.

Specifically, one person questioned the effect such confrontation would have on a grocer who doesn't know or can't get such products.

Downer said that while the grocer may be confused about the request for biotech-derived foods, it is an effort to counter the call by Rifkin to have people question grocers and food retailers and ask the businessmen to ban such products.

Rifkin has also made claims that there is a risk that genetic coding attatched to plants to increase pest resistance and evnironmental tolerance may "drift" into weeds, and thus increase the use of pesticides and from that, increase the risk of people eating foods with pesticide residues.

However, the possibility of cross-specie genetic transfer occuring — obstensibly through cross-specie pollination — is theoretically nil.

Some experts reason that if such an occurance were possible, such things would have occured already — such as dandelions picking up genetic material from blue grass or trees, or people having their genes altered to reflect the genetic coding from the plants and animals they eat.

But the scientific community is reticent to say that anything is impossible. Scientists hold that just because something has never been observed, or that no evidence exists for such a thing being possible outside of the laboratory, it should not be said to be impossible.

However, the scietific community does hold the likelihood to be extremely improbable.

Though Rifkin's concerns are considered extreme by most scientists, the scientific community has hestitated to publicly lambast Rifkin on the acknowledgement that know one can ever know what is possible.

Paul Grun, Penn State University professor emeritus, retired in 1989 after spending years working on the evolution of the potato plant.

Though he used traditional breeding techniques to obtain genetic variety instead of the "transgenic" techniques used to develop the Flavr Savr tomato or the mutogenic techniques, referred to by one researcher as "enhanced" selective breeding techniques.

With mutogenic techniques, known agents of chromosomal mutation are used to alter the DNA of plants, which are then grown and selected.

He said that almost all of our current food crops have been created through that process.

Research Shows Milk Has Proteins

Genetically unique milk protein members can be accumulated and increased in frequency for new offspring generations through dairy cow-breeding programs that select for specific genetic milk protein traits.

Among the different genetic members, kappa-casein B already is mentioned more than others as having potential economic benefit for new breeding programs. Early indications are that some of these genetic members provide opportunities in breeding cows with more fitness, greater disease resistance, and better breeding efficiency and longevity.

The very latest discovery is that not all Holstein populations in the world have the same or even similar genetic inventories of possible genetic members.

Holsteins in Holland, West-Germany, East-Germany and the United States (and maybe elsewhere) differ in the presence or absence of a new casein type alpha-s-1 F, so far found only in pure Old World Holsteins, without any mixing-in of U.S. Holstein breeding.

This means an opportunity in processing and digestion characteristics that has yet to be determined.

Certainly it underscores the importance of conserving genetic resources in animal populations, especially in minor populations, such as Old World Holsteins, or the endangered minor cattle breeds in Europe and around the world.

The new genetic research into what may seem a confusing multitude of milk protein types and categories is really an opportunity just beginning to open up.

The potential for economic benefits for consumers, processors and dairy farmers, is great, especially when the medical profession sees fit to include these genetic differences in their health research. It may even help correct the misconceptions which Dr. Spock promoted not too long ago about milk for babies. It should also serve to alleviate allergies people may have to cow's milk.

The technical literature stated years ago that one big difference between cow's and goat's milk is the absence in goat's milk of a major casein genetic member present in cow's milk, alpha-s-1.

We now know from French and Italian research that this is not true for all goats. Some goats have this genetic member; others have less or none. Between them is a vast difference in cheese-making properties, curd firmness, curd coagulation time and heat stability.

So, once again, new opportunities from genetic selection is dependent upon preserving breeds, particularly those with small populations.

House Declares June Is Dairy Month

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — June 1993 has been designated Dairy Month in Pennsylvania under a House Resolution approved Tuesday.

According to resolution co-sponsor state Rep. Jeffrey Coy, "The dairy industry is the leading agriculture industry in Pennsylvania with annual revenues totalling $1.5 billion. Our state exports $26 million worth of dairy products annually."

Coy said that the commonwealth ranks fourth nationally in milk production. Milk is also the official beverage of Pennsylvania.

"Pennsylvania farmers produce 1 billion gallons of milk annually, which accounts for nearly 7 percent of the total milk production in the United States," Coy said.

Marsteller Easement Largest In State

acres are Class I, II, and III soils, much of it some of York County's most productive ground; an estimated 145 acres are woodlands. Acreage is all contiguous.

"This was a joint family decision to do this; we've been renting these farms anyway," says John Marsteller, Sr., who with his wife, Mary, owns the 550-acre largest section of the 1063-acre signup. Another 340 acres is owned by Marsteller's sister, Ruth Trout. Additional acreage of Green Valley Farm, owned by John Jr. and his wife, Chris, and the farm of Mary Marsteller, mother of John Sr., are also included in the easement package. Easement purchase proceeds will be shared by the family owners, according to their portions of acreage in the total block.

Easement purchase is actually on 1020 acres, with the remaining 43 donated to the county. Those 43 additional acres were "extra" land found by surveyors fine-tuning deed boundaries on the various properties after the original application and acceptance process had gone through the county/state preservation program.

The Marstellers plan to reinvest their easement proceeds into purchasing more of the acres owned by John Sr.'s mother and sister - and to keep farming as they have for the past 33 years. Corn, soybeans, wheat and barley are planted in rotation, following conservation measures the Marstellers adopted many years ago. Until phased out last year, fattening cattle was also part of the family enterprises.

John Sr. and Mary purchased their 115-acre original farm a month before their marriage, in March 1960. Additional land acquisitions were made as neighboring land became available over the past three decades.

Like most "farm boys," John, Jr., "Johnny has been involved almost since he could walk and began helping with simple machinery operations at the tender age of seven.

"We had a neighbor who was down on the golf course near here one day who saw what he thought was a tractor without a driver go past on the road," laughs John, Sr. As this favorite family tale goes, the driverless equipment was actually being maneuvered by Johnny, who just wasn't very visible in the seat behind the big steering wheel.

After graduation from the vo-ag program of Kennard-Dale High School, John Jr. studied automotive mechanics. In addition to his work with the field crops, he is in charge of equipment maintenance. His son, Jeromey, has enjoyed spending time around the farm's shop since his early childhood years and already displays an affinity for farming.

This several-generation interest in large part prompted the Marstellers to pursue enrolling their acreage in the easement-purchase program. John Sr. became interested after attending a meeting several years ago which explained the program's plans and goals.

"This is a very solid farm, soil-wise, a very productive farm with a history of crop yields exceeding the county averages," notes Patricia McCandless, program coordinator for the York County Agricultural Land Preservation Program. "Their soil conservation practices have been exemplary. A priority of our program is toward preservation of farms that have and implement soil conservation plans at 75% or better."

According to McCandless, York County to date has 3870 acres enrolled in the agland preservation program, primarily in the southern portion with the recent inclusion of a Dover-area farm, nine townships now have farmland set aside for perpetuity. The Marsteller farm spans four of those townships, Hopewell, North Hopewell, East Hopewell and Fawn Township.

"By the end of summer, we expect to have a little over 4500 acres enrolled in York County," she adds. Some 1800 acres on eight farms have been selected for further consideration and appraisal in the current annual selection cycle, to which landowners could apply in January.

Since institution of the program in August 1990, McCandless expects the county and state combined monies invested in purchase of York County farmland to total more than $2.6 million by the end of the 1993 cycle.

Pennsylvania now ranks second in the nation for acres enrolled in conservation easement purchase programs, some 32,000 acres on 264 farms. Maryland is first in acreage enrollment with more than 98,000 acres set aside for permanent agriculture use.

"Ag friendly communities" are a key factor in selecting farms to be considered in the York County ag land preservation effort, notes coordinator McCandless.

"We are really trying to prioritize preservation efforts in townships where they have agriculture zoning, ag security areas," she relates. "It is so important to keep this effort going; we like to see townships that are committed to ag preservation."

In addition to soil capabilities and township commitment to ag land preservation, farms applying for easement purchase consideration are also scored on their proximity to other land already in the program, parcel size, economic viability, proximity to sewer and water, road frontage.

Through constant fine tuning of the selection processes, more emphasis is also being placed on farms owned and operated by families, rather than on rented acreage.

"There seems to be a bigger commitment to soil conservation on land that is family owned and operated," McCandless says of that emphasis in the selection process.

The Marstellers recently visited a daughter and son-in-law in Colorado, stopping along the way to chat with farmers in Kansas and Nebraska.

"We hear the same thing there - no young farmers going into the business because it's too costly and there's not enough return. And their land in the Mid-West is a lot cheaper than it is around here," Marsteller laments.

"And when land is appraised at farm owner's death, it should not be appraised at the potential sales value, but at the farmland value. By selling the easements, children inheriting farmland won't have as big a tax bite to face," he adds.

In addition to son John Jr., the Marstellers also have three daughters. Susan lives in York and works in the fashion-design industry. Martha, recently married, makes her home in Minnesota.

Helen, her husband Donald Rineholt and their two sons live nearby. Donald lends a hand with field work as needed. Grandsons Jason, 11, and Matthew, 9, Rineholt keep in close touch with the farm activities and think they might want to farm because "it's fun."

If, at some time in the future, Jason , Matthew, Jeromey or perhaps his sister Heather, 7, do choose to become farmers, they will have assurance that the land their family has farmed will not be converted to townhouses, shopping malls or parking lots but will remain in agriculture forever.

ules' and their specific application to DHIA needs.

You will find that each module is independent of the others, and the modules are integrated through the system so that information can be traded between modules as needed.

The power of Infinity comes from this unique integration of individual service modules. While some modules rely on input of data from other modules, the overall design allows a DHIA or dairy producer to select only those modules needed.

The Infinity System is an integrated management service for the dairy industry. For more information, call 1-800-344-8378, or write to: PA DHIA, c/o Infinity, Orchard Road, University Park, PA 16802.

Districts Meet Elect Officers

The districts of Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association held meetings recently to elect officers.

The Central District meeting was held Jan. 26 at the Family House Restaurant in Mifflintown. John Brodzina, of Huntingdon, was elected to the state board of directors, replacing Gary Truckenmiller, of Northumberland County, who had been on the board for a number of years, but whose term expired April. He chose not to seek reelection.

The Southeast District met at the Berk County Agriculture Center on Feb. 8. Re-elected to the state board was Dennis Daubert, from Schuylkill County. Dale Hoover, from Lebanon County, was elected to replace outgoing David Dum, from Lancaster County.

The Southwest District held its meeting Feb. 10 at the Ramada Inn, Somerset. Reelected to the state board was Bill Jackson, Fayette County.

The Northwest District met Feb. 11 at the Bonanza Restaurant in Franklin and reelected George Cudoc to the state board.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

PTA Express Available

In January, PTA Express became an option for dairymen who process through the Pa. DHIA Processing Center.

For those interested in receiving your PTAs quicker than getting them along with your processed reports, sign up now for the July PTA run.

Wondering what a PTA is? Each dairy animal's genetic merit is measured by Predicted Transmitting Ability values. PTA values are available for production of milk, fat and protein. They are a prediction of an animal's potential to transmit yield productivity to offspring. PTAs are used for the genetic evaluation of both sires and cows.

PTAs are generated twice a year for herds on official test. Those herd owners have the option to receive the USDA Cow evaluation. These evaluations are performed in January and July, when the USDA's Animal Improvement Program Laboratory (AIPL) calculates sire summaries.

PTA Express is a service of Pa. DHIA and is a faster way to receive your PTAs.

You can elect to receive your PTAs by UPS Overnight mail for $11, or second day service for $3.92.

You can also opt to receive them as a separate mailing, instead of waiting to be tested, by regular mail for $1.75. Another option which seems to be popular is to have the PTA report faxed. The fax option is $1.50 for the first page and 75 cents for each additional page.

To get the option, tell your technician at the next test, or call 1-800-344-8378 and ask for Dixie and Michele.

Wool, Mohair Payments Issued

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Price support payments for 1992 wool and mohair marketings total about $9,130, Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) reported. The payments went to 65 sheep and one goat grower in the county.

The 1992 support price for shorn wool was $1.97 per pound, and the national average market price for shorn wool was $.74 per pound. Troutman said a 166.2 percent payment rate was used to bring the average price received by all producers up to the support price.

"This rate was applied to the net proceeds received by each producer for shorn wool marketed during the marketing year."

For mohair, the 1992 support price was $4.613, and the average market was $.86 per pound, making the payment rate 436.4 percent.

"Payments were not made on that portion of a producer's sales proceeds which exceeded $2.96 per pound for wool and $3.44 per pound for mohair," the ASCS official said.

To maintain normal pulled wool marketing practices, ASCS supported unshorn lambs at a level comparable to the shorn wool support rate. Therefore, producers received $4.92 per hundredweight in price support payments for unshorn lambs that were sold or slaughtered during the 1992 marketing year.

Promotion fund deductions from wool and mohair payments were approved nationally by referendums held in 1991.

Coolidge Dairy Of Distinction

Once milk leaves the farm, there's more to it, and to understand some of that is valuable.

"Being involved with the cooperatives gives you access to resource people and lets you know what technology is available. You learn how to decide what techniques should or shouldn't be a part of your operation, how it can improve your efficiency, and why yours may be different from other operations. You learn to be a goal-setter — you learn to project where you want to be three or five or ten years out and how you are going to get there."

Indeed, with all Erick has learned over the years, he has become a respected figure in the agricultural community, as well as in other fields of interest. He has served as GOP chairman for Tioga County, is a trustee for the Coolidge Hollow Methodist Church, is on the board of directors for the Little League and Laurel Health Services, and has been a 20-year member and past president of the Wellsboro Men's Chorus.

He has been a Dairylea sub-district president for 10 years. Recently, he represented Dairylea at the Northeast Dairy Conference held at the Hilton Hotel in Corning, N.Y., where he served on a panel with George Miller of Clifton Springs, N.Y. representing Upstate Milk, and Bob Foster of Middleburg, Vt. representing Agri-Mark. Their topic of discussion focused on what they felt would affect the farmer most during the next 10 years.

Erick said he believed the major influences were based on technology, legislation, and regulation, and economics and marketing factors. Speaking on the technological aspects of his presentation, he said, "There seems to be an overwhelming feeling that technology has some pitfalls and is therefore viewed negatively, particularly where biotechnology is concerned.

"Looking back at mechanical technology, we quickly adapted to the larger tractors, balers, bulk tanks. It is the same with information technology. A smart businessman realizes how quickly he can access, on a daily or weekly basis, information that is pertinent to his business through the use of computers, fax machines, etc." The Coolidges use a computer for keeping farm records and payroll. They are in the process of expanding the memory to incorporate the machine's use even more in their dairy operation.

"Biotechnology is just as important," said Erick. "With scientific technology, the possibilities that open up for us are almost beyond our imagination. It it fits, it can enhance our operation.

"But we're not educating the consumer as readily as special interest groups are who resort to scare tactics to create a negative viewpoint," said Erick. "I don't claim to be an expert, but those who I rely on to informe of these issues get their information from several sources, not just one."

As an example, Erick cited the controversy over the hormone bovine somatotropin (BST) that causes the cow to make more milk. "It's already naturally produced in the cow. We didn't breed it into them." But there are some that are against increasing the level of BST in a cow through added injections. Their objections may be based on the fear of farmers using BST to increase milk production, thereby flooding an already overflowing market.

"Others dislike the idea of using BST for fear that it will somehow contaminate the cow and cause health problems in anyone who consumes the milk or meat."

Discussing these two negative speculations, Eric said, "Here is where the farmer becomes a manager. Using a larger tractor, plow, disc in the long run has also helped the farmer make more milk. If he chooses to use BST, he would need less cows to produce the same amount of milk he's producing now. With less cows, he'd need less feed and his costs would go down. Lower costs, more profits.

"As far as a health threat, it would not, could not enter the food chain unless it was thoroughly proven to be safe."

For Erick, educating the public to such truths is a responsibility the agriculture industry must undertake if it is to survive in the future. As one farmer very much involved in many of the organizations that make up that industry, Erick said, "We are here for only a short time. What we choose to do is up to us."

Ag Association Elects Officers

MILLHEIM (Centre Co.) — During its April meeting, the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) board of directors met in Harrisburg to elect officers for the 1993-1994 year.

Elected by their fellow board members were president, Preston Boop, grain and livestock producer, Union County; vice president, Cass Peterson, vegetable producer, Fulton County; treasurer, Paul Shaw, general manager, Walnut Acres, Snyder County; and secretary, Lamonte Barber, agricultural policy specialist, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Harrisburg.

PASA Board members previously elected by the general membership at its February meeting are Lee Bentz, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; Leslie Bresee, dairyman, Bradford County; Ellen Dietrich, Soil Conservation Service, Clinton County; Bud Glendening, vegetable producer, Armstrong County; Robert Junk, President PFU, dairyman, Fayette County; Betsy Lyman, agricultural researcher, Rodale Research Center; Anne Nordell, vegetable producer, Lycoming County; Phil Rzewnicki, cooperative extension, Blair County; Carolyn Sachs, professor of rural sociology, Penn State; Jodie Snyder, president Pennsylvania OCIA, hog and poultry producer, Schuylkill County; Maria van Hekken, associate director, SANRUE.

PASA is a coalition of Pennsylvania farmers, consumers, industries, and educators working toward the development of sustainable food and farming systems statewide. The board is responsible for programs which provide general education and outreach on sustainable and organic agriculture, on-farm demonstrations and field days of sustainable productions systems and techniques, new and innovative strategies for marketing sustainable and organically produced crops and livestock, and policy directions in support of sustainable agriculture.

PASA is also initiating farmer-to-farmer networks for information sharing and support and has begun programs to establish linkages between sustainable producers and urban consumers, distributors, and marketers. The quarterly newsletter, PASSAGES, keeps members informed about sustainable ag happenings around the state.

For more information, a sample newsletter, or membership materials, contact PASA, PO Box 316, Millheim, PA 16854.

Last year there was 361 cases of rabies reported. "And that is only reported," Vore said. "There are probably many that go unreported."

Of that number of reported cases, there were 208 raccoons, 75 skunks, 32 felines, 19 fox, one otter, one bobcat, 13 cows, two horses, two goats, two groundhogs, and six bats. Better than 3/4 of these cases were in the southeast portion of the state. York and Lancaster counties were highest with 11 raccoon cases in each. York also had five foxes, three skunks, three cats, and one cow. Lancaster had two foxes, 11 raccoons, three cats, four skunks, and two cows.

In 1993, there were 78 rabies cases reported in the state from January through March. Again, the majority are centered in the southeast portion of the state, with raccoons being the main carrier.

"When you see a nocturnal animal in your backyard in the daytime, be suspicious," Vore said.

He says that, almost without exception, the setting where a rabid animal is discovered involves a property with a mountain behind sloping down to a stream.

One of the first symptoms of rabies is a swollen throat. As the throat swells, the animal cannot swallow but becomes very thirsty and goes in search of water.

The progression of rabies from its onset until death can be anywhere from 72 hours to a week. "It depends on the size of the animal and where it is bitten," said Vore.

If, for instance, a cow is bitten on the ankle, it would take a number of days for the virus to be carried by the bloodstream to the brain. If a dog is bitten on the neck, it would take only a day or two.

Rabies infection occurs when the rabies virus enters the nerve endings beneath the skin. Typically, this is through a bite from an infected animal; however, infection can occur if the saliva of a rabid animal comes in contact with an open wound or a mucus membrane, such as in the eyes, nose, or mouth.

Rabies cases should first be reported to the Department of Agriculture. Vore said, "We want only the head of the animal for examination." It normally takes three to four days before they find the results.

The Department of Agriculture advises farmers to have all animals vaccinated, especially if farmers live in a high risk rabies area.

It is the only weapon that presently exists to combat the spread. In Pennsylvania, all dogs and house cats must be vaccinated.

"This idea," said Vore, "originated primarily to protect humans, pets, and livestock, is paying off. However, the current epidemic of 'raccoon rabies' probably will be around for another couple of years."

Like any other disease, the rabid raccoons will eventually kill themselves off. Meanwhile, safeguards must be taken to protect domestic and farm animals.

"Any warm-blooded animal can carry rabies," said Vore, "even birds. When you see any animal acting strangely, be suspicious."

Vore also cautioned, "If you do shoot an animal you believe may be carrying rabies, wash down with lye or strong soap. If you remove the head, wear rubber gloves, a face mask, gloves — make certain the eyes are protected. The eyes are really an open wound and must be protected in order to keep the virus from entering the body."

Vore also said, "When livestock are in question, the Bureau of Animal industry will send a representative to the farm. If the investigator feels that there is reason to suspect that livestock has been exposed, a quarantine will be imposed on those animals. Permits will be issued to move animals that have not exhibited signs of rabies."

Should a human have reason to believe he or she has been exposed to rabies, the new Wistar Institute's vaccine is a vast improvement over the original rabies vaccine developed a century ago by Louis Pasteur.

This current treatment requires a series of four to six relatively painless injections in the arm, compared to Pasteur's method of 14 to 21 painful abdominal injections.

Pre-exposure vaccines are offered to persons at risk such as veterinarians, animal handlers, and others whose work involves contact with potentially rabid animals.

Bruce Luse, district supervisor of the Bureau of Dog Laws, said that dog law officers do periodically check households with pets to make certain vaccinations are being given. "However, we cannot possibly get to all of them," he said.

The Bureau has an indemnity plan for farmers who may lose income—producing livestock from infection by wild animals. "However, if the farmer has pets which have no proof of vaccination, the indemnity will not be granted," he said. If a farmer does not have dogs or house cats, the indemnity will still be made.

It is possible to carry insurance for livestock infected with rabies. If the farmer has insurance, the indemnity is void.

Luse says research is constantly being done to further decrease the spread of rabies. "There is an oral vaccine, much like the sabin vaccine against polio," Luse said. "Experiments have been done where the vaccine has been injected into food left for the wildlife. Then, officers would have to spend night after night trapping raccoons and extracting a tooth to see if they had been properly inoculated. As you can well imagine, the logistics of this are preposterous. This type of prevention would probably take 20 to 30 years to be effective."

But, until something more effective occurs, the Department of Agriculture continues to advise farmers to vaccinate and gives a warning to residents, especially rural residents, to be on the lookout for wild animals exhibiting unusual behavior.

Soybean Special Combines Planter, Drill Advantages

RACINE, Wis. — J I Case unveiled its new 5400 Soybean Special, an implement that will provide many of the advantages of a planter for a price that's competitive with grain drills.

According to Kurt Schenck, Case product manager-implements, the 5400 prepares the ground for seed much like Case International planters do, but uses a grain-drill feed cup metering system.

"We developed this unit partly in response to customer demands for accommodating narrower rows for interplanting," said Schenck. The Soybean Special accommodates 15-inch row spacing.

Two 15-foot configurations with staggered row units will be available — one 10-row and one 11-row, with 15-inch row spacing. Two 20-foot configurations with staggered row units will also be available — one 14- and one 15-row, with 15-inch row spacing. The 11- and 15-row units solid seed 15-inch rows and have no skip-rows. The 10- and 14-row units also seed 15-inch rows but have two 26-inch skip-rows to accommodate later cultivation or chemical application.

"Another consideration in the development of the 5400 was the need for equipment that can handle high-residue conditions," Schenck said. "The unique staggered arrangement of the row units provides more clearance for surface residue to pass through the unit, which reduces plugging in heavy crop mat. For the farmer, this means no extra coulters to install for planting in reduced- or no-till conditions."

Schenck pointed out that the Soybean Special features the same superior row-unit technology as Case International Early Riser® planters, including staggered double-disk openers, front pull equalizing depth gauge wheels, and a special furrow firming point that provides a well-defined V furrow bottom. This combination provides more uniform depth control and better seed placement, especially in rough ground.

"The end result with the Early Riser system is that you get excellent seed-to-soil contact for optimum germination," he said.

He noted that the Soybean Special has angled metal feed cups for metering. "These are precision molded of oxide-coated, oil-impregnated, sintered steel and won't warp or wear like the plastic cups found on competing equipment," he said.

To accommodate high-density seeding, the 5400 also features a larger seed hopper than planters.

Fine-Tune Production For Cheaper, Leaner Pork

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — More than $13 million worth of hogs and pigs were produced in Maryland in 1991 on the more than 1,000 farms. Because consumers are increasingly concerned about dietary fat, this industry has experienced growing pressure to produce leaner and cheaper meat. It is responding with research.

"Maryland is a net exporter of feeder pigs," said Tom Hartsock, of the University of Maryland College Park. Many of the swine raised here are grown to feeder size — not quite market weight, but ready to leave the nursery — and then sold. Raising pigs to market weight takes much more time, space and feed than raising piglets to feeder size. With funds from the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station and other sources, Hartsock and Mark Estienne of the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (UMES) are fine-tuning this segment of the pork production system.

"We are making pork farmers more efficient and competitive with other meat farmers and with foreign competition," Hartsock said, "which can ultimately result in cheaper pork for consumers."

Most of UMES' swine facility research is "geared toward the early stages of the production cycle," Hartsock said. "We are slanting our research toward what is being done" in Maryland.

Because heavy feeding during pregnancy increases the chances of miscarriage, farmers normally breed young pigs when they are bigger, after their second or third estrus cycle. "If you breed a sow at first estrus," Hartsock saic, "she is still a young girl and still growing." She still needs to eat a lot.

However, the use of vitamin A may change this practice. There is evidence that vitamin A reduces embryo mortality. Estienne and Hartsock are trying to see if it can counteract embryo death in an overfed young pig who became pregnant in her first cycle. If it works, then "we can breed the sow at first estrus, give her an injection of vitamin A, and still feed her heavily."

To take this line of research one step further, Estienne and Hartsock are trying to induce puberty at an earlier age. Scientists have shown that injections of various hormones stimulate the pituitary gland to secrete luteinizing hormone (LH). LH is responsible for maturing follicles so that they release eggs, or ovulate. Estienne found that n-methyl-aspartate (NMA), a simple protein, also increases the LH level. He and Hartsock are trying to see if they can use NMA to induce early puberty.

Normally, sows are bred after they arrive in the breeding pens. If both of these techniques work — inducing early puberty and injecting vitamin A — then using them in combination would allow farmers to get a head start on the production cycle. Sows could be pregnant before they arrive in the breeding pens.

About 20 to 30 percent of each newborn litter dies, usually the pigs born in the latter half of the litter. If farmers knew when a sow was going to give birth, they could be there to assist the birth, thus preventing some of these deaths.

Hartsock and Estienne are trying to discover both hormonal and behavioral clues to when a sow will give birth. "The sow gives a clue somewhere around 18 hours before farrowing and another at about four or five hours," Hartsock said. "The further you know ahead of time, the more time you have to make the decision to assist the birth or not."

Once the pigs are born, the key is getting them to grow strong and healthy. Estienne and Hartsock are using probiotics to see if they will increase the survival and growth rates of young pigs. "Probiotics are things that either introduce or encourage the growth of good bacteria," Hartsock said.

NMA has also proven helpful here. Not only can it be used to induce puberty, but it seems to increase muscle and reduce fat production. "You get more pounds of meat with less fat," Hartsock said.

Shown: Surge Alamo Belt-Drive 2800 Pump Package Complete With L-3 Oiler

Part or parcel... you'll save money with a Surge Alamo belt-drive vacuum pump.

Buy only the capacity you need now and expand your CFM as your requirements change. The Surge Alamo Vaccum Pump model 1400 PLUS produces 50 CFM (ASME) and can be converted to a model 2200 PLUS that delivers 78 CFM, or a model 2800 rated at 100 CFM by changing the motor and belt-drive package. Muffler and air filter are optional equipment.

Whichever model you choose, with these belt-drive pumps, you get quiet, smooth-running performance at a lower cost per CFM. That's Alamo reliability and Surge value.

For larger capacity vacuum systems, Surge Alamo direct-drive vacuum pumps offer CFM output ranging from 82 to 200 (ASME). Whatever size milking system you have, we can supply the proper vacuum system components.

Salesmanship Carries Groff Tomato Farm To Success

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — First and foremost, truck farmers have to be salesmen.

Just ask Steve Groff who, with his father Elias, helps convert about 13½ acres of their joint 200-acre farm into season-long tomato production.

In the old days, Elias went out twice a week to seek customer contacts to sell about 20 acres of a fresh market product. In the mid-season last year, it was close to three times a day.

But that's what a truck farmer has to do to survive in a market that remains competitive and which is more heavily relying on regular customer contact to sell fresh market vegetables.

Market directly

What makes the Groff farm unique is that is is able not only to survive, but to thrive because of its diversity. More importantly, during the past two decades, the Groffs have built up a steady stream of customers. They market directly to some of the large supermarkets and restaurants in Lancaster County.

"What we have done over the last 15 years or so is develop a clientele of about 40-50 different stores and restaurants throughout Lancaster," said Steve Groff. "What we're trying to do is sell direct as much as possible.

"My dad is a salesman," said Groff. "He takes the tomatoes to town, wherever the order is called for, and if they're not sold, he'll go around until he sells them all. He's a very good salesman."

In all, the Groffs raise about 13½ acres of tomatoes. Ten acres are devoted to processing tomatoes, most of which are sold to a cannery in Darlington, Md. The remaining 3½ acres are sold fresh market to such long-term customers as Willow Valley restaurant and market, Bird-In-Hand Family Restaurant, and some of the Weis markets. (Since Weis is an independent grocer, Elias Groff sells to individual produce managers.) The remainder are sold at Leola Produce Auction.

The Groffs take great care throughout the season to make sure they have a steady supply of the best tomatoes, their only vegetable crop. Tomatoes and selling alfalfa to individual markets form the "bread and butter" of their farming operation.

Plowed in fall

Steve Groff said that, in a normal cycle, the ground is plowed in the fall and chicken manure is incorporated.

In the spring, the fields are readied. Preemergent herbicides are incorporated (usually Treflan and Sencor).

Varieties planted include, for the processing tomatoes, Peelmech 9208 and Ohio OH 8245. For fresh market tomatoes, the Groffs use Pilgrim (a 67-day early variety) and Mountain Pride (mid- to late-season).

They use a two-row Holland transplanter and incorporate a 9-18-9 liquid starter fertilizer with the plants. One acre uses a special rotary planter that inserts the plants through a plastic mulch. That same acre then is covered with row cover, planted April 19 this year. The remaining acres will be planted on a "staggered" basis.

The row cover proved successful in years past, according to Groff, because it protects the plants from frost (a light frost occurred at the farm soon after the row cover was installed), acts as a greenhouse to promote quick development of the fruit, and protects the plants from cold, damaging winds. The cover is removed about May 20, or earlier if hot weather arrives.

Cages are inserted with the row-covered and mulched tomato plants. Groff uses about 2,500 cages, and the remaining tomatoes (another 2,500) are staked.

The tomatoes that aren't mulched are cultivated twice. Between-row cultivation takes place in June and July. The plants are sidedressed at the same time. Groff uses a granular fertilizer at sidedressing. In the past, he has used urea, but this year he'll use calcium nitrate.

"I don't do a lot of fertilizing right away because our ground's pretty high in nutrients because of the manure," he said.

Harvest date is projected at July 4 for the early fresh market. The processing tomatoes are picked about August 15.

Market dried up

In the past, the Groffs raised "green tomatoes" for transportation to New York and Boston. But the market dried up in the 1980s because of the inability to provide labor on a continuous basis.

Because the Groffs still rely on hand-picking because of their small acreage, they rely on seasonal workers which arrive from Puerto Rico in mid-July. The man who helps coordinate the five seasonal workers is Demetrio Resto, whom Steve's father has known for more than 35 years.

"It's different than a migrant situation because we know these people," said Steve. "We've visited in Puerto Rico. I've gone into their homes. I've been down there twice and my dad's been there six times in years past."

The harvest continues through August and September and concludes with the first frost the beginning of October.

Close contacts

The Groffs maintain close contacts with their customers throughout Lancaster County. "We have some faithful customers," said Steve.

The Groffs use a two-row Holland transplanter and incorporate a 9-18-9 liquid starter fertilizer with the plants. At left, Elias and, seated, son Steve Groff.

A great deal of success at the Groff farm comes from the hired labor, which includes Mark Stauffer, a part-time worker.

Groff said that, in the mid-season, when prices are low, it is often difficult to obtain more than $2.50 a box for tomatoes. But they prefer to sell them at that price rather than seeing them rot, according to Groff.

Groff Tomato Farm

Growing an earlier variety can literally prove fruitful, according to Groff. He said just coming onto market two weeks earlier can mean a tripling or even quadrupling in price.

Also, Groff uses a staggered planting schedule to extend the productive growing season throughout the year. "This year we're trying to time our planting so we have a good spot in the beginning of the season, enough in the middle of the season just to supply regular customers, and then a good bit in the end," he said. That way, "the price is good in the beginning and the price is good in the end."

Kept profitable

Remaining diverse has kept the farm profitable through the years.

Throughout the off-season, they raise about 45 head of finishing steer, which they sell at the Lancaster Stockyards auction.

In addition to the tomato and steer crop, a large part of the operation is the baled hay (70 acres in all, about 50 acres of straight alfalfa and the rest, grass mixes). Also, they harvest about 75 acres of corn (they'll sell about 100 tons of ear corn in the Lancaster County region and keep the remainder to feed the steers).

Also, Groff plants about 15 acres of small grains and soybeans (the beans are used as ½ cash crop and the rest as feed for the steers).

But Groff was quick to point out that a great deal of success comes from the hired labor, which includes Mark Stauffer, a part-time worker.

The seasonal workers also have contributed a great deal, according to Groff.

"We've done OK because of our relationship with the Puerto Ricans," said Groff. "We know them and they come to help us."

Groff lives on the farm with his wife, Cheri, whom he met seven years ago while attending winter Bible school in Ohio, and daughter Dana, 13 months.

Penn State Sets Pasture Workshop

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A seminar on the importance of pasture management in dairy feeding programs will be held 9:15 a.m to 3:30 p.m. May 19 at the Capital Campus, Penn State University.

Several speakers will discuss various aspects of pasture management. Steve Fales, associate professor of crop management at Penn State, will discuss the use of pasture in the dairy industry. Steve Ford, assistant professor of agricultural economics at Penn State, will discuss the economics of pasture systems. Dr. Harold Harpster, associate professor of animal science at Penn State, will talk on how the plant/animal relationship affects pasture management. Ed Rayburn, forage agronomist for cooperative extension in West Virginia, will speak about nutrients from pastures and their limitations for dairy cattle. Dr. Larry Muller, professor of dairy science at Penn State, will present a program on meeting nutrient needs of dairy cattle through supplementation strategies.

A tour of the Tom Williams dairy farm is scheduled for late afternoon. Williams grazes 125 Jerseys on 75 acres of permanent and temporary pasture. Participants will observe how he uses pasture and supplemental feed to ensure his cows receive the maximum amount of nutrients

Program sponsors are Penn State University, Penn State Cooperative Extension, and USDA, Soil Conservation Service.

Dairy nutritionists and veterinarians who help dairy farmers develop feed rations are encouraged to attend.

The cost for the workshop is $25, which includes lunch, refreshments, and a copy of the proceedings. On-site registration will be held from 9:15 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.

For more information, contact your county cooperative extension office or Duane Pysher, grassland management specialist for Soil Conservation Service in Harrisburg, at (717) 782-4458.

Hatfield Awards Scholarship

ALFRED, N.Y. — A Silver Springs resident majoring in agricultural business at State University of New York College of Technology at Alfred is the winner of a $1,000 scholarship from the Hatfield Packing Co.

He is Jonah Broughton, son of Kathleen and Merritt Broughton III of 3853 Silver Springs Road and a 1992 graduate of Letchworth Central School.

Broughton was cited at the college's ninth annual Honors Convocation May 2.

In appreciation for the college's commitment to the livestock and meat industry, Hatfield annually provides scholarships to agriculture students who have career plans to enter the industry.

National Brown Swiss Recognizes Achievements

FREDERICK, Md. — The Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale held recently at the Frederick Fairgrounds in Maryland recorded an average of $1,071 on 36 calves, a record number of consignments for the 19-year-old sale.

Ohio cattle breeder Wayne Sliker served as auctioneer for the sale and his consignment was the top selling animal, being purchased for $2,700 by Robert Sigler, of Oxford.

According to Sliker, "This impressive and stylish group of calves representing showring genetics, All-American potential, and good pedigrees, was the best group we've ever sold."

Sale manager Cindy Warner said she continues to be pleased with the quality of consignments received year after year. "It's been a real tribute to the sale and its good reputation for quality animals," she said.

Sliker's top selling animal was a March calf sired by Trout Run Distinct Blend. Her dam is a Very Good 87-point Dodson daughter with a record of 29,510 pounds of milk, 1,575 pounds of fat and 1,042 pounds of protein on a lactation started when she was 5 years, 6 months.

The calf's grandam is a 2-E Improver daughter and the third dam scored Very Good, 85 points.

Two calves tied for second highest selling animal at $2,000.

One calf was consigned by Norman Jordan, of Siler City, N.C., and was purchased for $2,000 by Scott Hood, of Middletown, Md.

The December calf was sired by December Forest Lawn Tradition, and the dam is a Very Good Peter Rose. The grandam is an Excellent Blend daughter.

Another $2,000 calf was consigned by Gordon DeMay, of Palmyra, N.Y., and purchased by Brandy Horning, of Huntingdon. The October calf is a Lyndale Magnum Elation daughter out of a maternal line that goes back to grandam Vine Valley Paul Patsy SE.

The third highest price of the sale was paid for a December calf sired by Forest Lawn Tradition. The calf's maternal sister was the 1992 Intermediate Calf National Junior Bell Ringer, the Maryland Bell Ringer, and took reserve junior champion at the North Carolina state fair. Consigned by Jennifer Keilholtz, the calf was purchased for $1,650 by Howard and Norma Fleming, of Hollywood, Md.

Also noteworthy was a consignment from Wind Mill Farm, of Pine Grove, which was purchased for $1,500 by Mike Kunkle, of Jonestown. A December daughter of sire Arvis MGP Convincer, her dam is a Very Good 86-point Improver daughter. The grandam is Vine Valley Patrick Hatty, a 4E cow with a lifetime production of more than 206,000 pounds of milk.

Prices paid for eleven other calves exceeded the $1,000 mark, according to Warner. She said the quality of consigments merited good prices and calves went to breeders in Pennsylvania, New York, and Maryland.

Scott Hood is president of the Maryland-Delaware Brown Swiss Association and said he was very excited by the sale's support.

"We had a great sale and I believe there is a tremendous future for the Brown Swiss breed as indicated by the interest and support of the buyers here today," he said. "This was the most calves ever sold in the history of the sale and we didn't have any scratches."

Sliker was helped in the ring by Maryland and junior members who also helped in the barn and with showing the calves.

Sponsored by the Maryland-Delaware association, the sale is regularly held on the fourth Saturday of April, each year.

The 1994 Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale is tentatively set for April 23, again at the Frederick Fairgrounds.

All calves sold are entered in the Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity with the first payment made by the Maryland association. The first futurity is scheduled for September 1994, at the Maryland State Fair, held in Timonium. For more information, call Cindy Warner at (301) 371-5206.

Lebanon Growers Receive Wool, Mohair Payments

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Price support payments for 1992 wool and mohair marketings in Lebanon County totaled about $7,500, Jenifer K. Minnich, county executive director of the Lebanon County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said this week.

The payments went to 30 sheep and goat growers in Lebanon County.

The 1992 support pirce for shorn wool was $1.97 per pound, and the national average market price for shorn wool was $.74 per pound. Minnich said a 166.2 percent payment rate was used to bring the average price received by all producers up to the support price.

"This rate was applied to the net proceeds received by each producer for shorn wool marketed during the marketing year," Minnich said.

For mohair, the 1992 support price was $4.613, and the average market price was $.86 per pound, making the payment rate 436.4 percent.

"Payments were not made on that portion of a producer's sales proceeds which exceeded $2.96 per pound for wool and $3.44 per pound for mohair," Minnich said.

To maintain normal pulled wool marketing practices, ASCS supported unshorn lambs at a level comparable to the shorn wool support rate. Therefore, producers received $4.92 per hundredweight in price support payments for unshorn lambs that were sold or slaughtered during the 1992 marketing year.

Promotion fund deductions from wool and mohair payments were approved nationally by referendums held in 1991.

'Detective' Skills Can Help Troubleshoot Problems

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — At one time or another, most dairy herds experience a drop in milk production, a reduced milk fat test, or metabolic problems such as milk fever, ketosis, or displaced abomasum.

"When many animals develop health problems or when production declines with no apparent improvement, you have a serious problem," said Virginia Ishler, dairy and animal science extension assistant in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Before bringing in outside assistance, do some preliminary investigating.

"Work like a detective trying to solve a mystery. Examine all factors that could affect your herd's health or productivity, no matter how simple they seem."

Feed is a good place to start. "Monitor the moisture content of all wet feed items," Ishler said. "Changes in moisture content can cause cows to eat more than expected or to not eat enough. The same is true for high-moisture concentrate ingredients."

Next, estimate dry-matter intakes to determine if total feed intake meets expectations. "Make sure a cow's dry-matter intake is appropriate for her weight and milk production level," Ishler said. "The period two to four weeks before freshening is particularly important. Nutritional imbalances at this time can have a major impact on production and health in early lactation."

Analyze any ingredient changes in forage or feed. "Retest forages that have not been checked in the past four to eight weeks, especially hay-crop forages," Ishler said. "You may need to sample grains and by-product feed ingredients for dry matter and nutrient content."

If a herd on total mixed rations (TMR) develops a problem, sample the TMR and send it to a lab for wet chemistry analysis, no matter how well it's mixed. "The analysis should include neutral detergent fiber, soluble protein, sulfur and trace minerals," Ishler said. "If the ration contains fat or oilseeds, ask the lab to test for crude fat."

The cost for the analysis can range between $30 and $45. "But it's well worth it if the test results reveal discrepancies between what you think cows are consuming and what they actually get," Ishler said.

If you use conventional feed, analyze the grain mixes if other tests reveal no problems.

Wet weather during the past year has caused molds in dairy feeds. "Suspicious rations or feeds should be tested for mycotoxins," said Ishler. "Quick tests may be run at feed mills, veterinary offices, or on the farm to determine whether feeds contain mycotoxins. However, samples also should be sent to laboratories for quantitative tests."

Check the somatic cell counts (SCC) on milk-plant samples taken during the past several months and on Dairy Herd Improvement Association records. "See if the data point to groups of problem cows," Ishler said. "Also determine the percentage of cows with clinical mastitis during recent months. Frequent flare-ups of clinical mastitis in the same cows may indicate contagious mastitis. A higher incidence of clinical mastitis in early lactation or during hot weather may indicate environmental mastitis."

Check both milk-fat and protein percentages. "Abnormally high or low values or changes may indicate possible nutritional causes," Ishler said. "A milk-fat test result more than .3 percent above or below breed average is considered abnormal. An abnormal milk protein test usually is more than .2 percent above or below breed average."

"If your detective work doesn't solve the mystery, you may need to seek outside assistance," Ishler said. "Even if this is necessary, your preliminary investigation will give a veterinarian or other specialist valuable information for making a diagnosis."

Wedding Ideas With A Farm Woman's Touch

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Since Rudy and Reba Wolgemuth are immersed in the agriculture lifestyle, they wanted their wedding to reflect it. At the same time, they wanted their wedding to be memorable without costing a fortune.

The couple managed to make it just that and Reba is willing to share her creative ideas with other brides-to-be who are appalled to hear that the average wedding costs $16,000.

Cutting costs, Reba found, does not mean a bride needs to settle for a drab affair.

For starters, Reba said, "Forget bridal shops."

Money can be saved by purchasing a wedding gown at a consignment shop. Many of these gowns are new from bridal stores' unsold stock. Some have been worn, but a gown that is only worn one day and then dry cleaned appears new. Reba said that the savings are substantial. She stitched on a lace applique to give the gown a new look. She also formed the bridal headpieces with star statice and baby's breath.

"I wanted guests to feel honored and special," Reba said. For her, that meant a wedding that offered a personal glimpse into the lives of the bride and groom, and a wedding with lots of flowers — without pricey flowershop costs.

The best way to accomplish this, she decided, was to do most of the flower arrangement and to use silk and dried flowers. She had picked up some flower-arrangement know-how from a vo-tech course, but much of her ability seems to reveal a natural eye for design.

She chose to coordinate her wedding colors with those of the farmhouse, which she and Rudy renovated. That way the flower arrangements could do double duty.

The cascade of white roses that Reba carried down the aisle, now adorns the exposed beams on the bathroom wall. The unity candle surrounded by mauve and blue flowers sets on the bathroom vanity. The milk can that overflows with flowers, first set in the church foyer during the wedding and is now a focal point in the dressing area. The dining room centerpiece had been one of the table decorations at the reception, the others were given as gifts to those who helped with the reception.

Country twist bows tied around bunches of eucalyptus, baby's breath, and greens were first used at the end of each church pew. Reba turned the bows sideways to change the vertical arrangements into horizontal ones, which are now placed above the farmhouse's inside doorways.

The bases for the table centerpieces are one-inch slabs of wood sawed off a fallen tree at Reba's homeplace. The wood was sealed with tree seal and a hot glue gun was used to attach the candles and flowers around the base.

Reba stresses the need to start early in preparing for the wedding. She, herself, had only a three-month engagement in which to plan, arrange, and finish a myriad of details. The March blizzard almost caused a disaster when it struck on the day Reba planned to cut floral bases from an overturned tree. With difficulty, she managed to brush the snow aside to reach the tree and finish her project.

As guests were seated to await the ceremony, they watched slides of the couple from babyhood to present to the strains of organ music. While music from "Lord of the Harvest," played, slides were shown on the sanctuary wall of farm shots from Rudy's work out west. Pictures of the couple doing things with friends flickered to the strains of the music "Friends."

While the music and pictures were sychronized, one thing that was not planned but in retrospect proved to be ironical happened while the soloist was singing "... with shaky knees we stand before you...." It was at that point that Reba fainted.

The bridal bouquet was designed to do double duty as a bathroom focal point in the Wolgemuths' farmhouse.

She attributes her lightheadedness to packing too many last minute duties into the final hours. Some duties could not be averted. Since cows don't stop giving milk when it's time for a wedding, Reba milked the cows on the morning of her wedding day then rushed to the church to decorate and put some finishing touches on the food.

Other than a few shaky moments during Reba's lightheadness, the wedding went on in style.

Scented candles were used to give a fragrant aroma throughout the church for the evening wedding.

The walls during the reception were decorated with a large heart-shaped grapevine wreath covered with greens and miniature lights. Wheat swags and wedding bells hung from swags of greenery.

A large stuffed satin heart was made from a plywood base. Glue glitter was scrawled across the satin with the words, "Congratulations Rudy and Reba."

The wedding cake had the traditional bride and groom top, but the middle and bottom cake layers were decorated to reflect the occupations of the couple. Because Reba likes to garden, she made sugar molds of corn, pumpkin, tomatoes and other produce for the garden. A Gleaner combine, representative of Rudy's custom combining business, was surrounded by fields of cornstalks and grains.

Reception food included beans and pickles that Reba had preserved from her garden, meatloaf butchered from their own beef, fruit salad made by family members, mashed potatoes that a local restaurant prepared for pick-up, and homemade bread that a friend made. The strawberries in the Jell-O salad had also been preserved from Reba's garden. The dinner was served by church friends of the couple.

"I think most people are eager to help a bride and groom by helping with the meal in order to make the day special," Reba said.

Reba suggests that wedding photography be taken before the ceremony so that everyone is fresh. Children, she said, usually behave better if pictures are taken ahead of time.

Photo costs can be reduced by choosing smaller-size prints instead of 8x10 or larger ones.

But one cost that is difficult to avoid is tuxedo rental. Reba said that if you marry out of the wedding season, rentals are cheaper.

Bridal Gowns By A Farm Woman

"I can do anything with a pattern," said Ruth Akers who concentrates on sewing bridal gowns.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOLANCO (Lancaster Co.) — "I love weddings," Ruth Akers said.

Perhaps that is why Ruth spends much of her time surrounded by filmy fabric and yards of lace as she stitches bridal gowns and veils.

Ruth has been sewing for others since she was 18 years old, but it's only been during the last seven years that she has been concentrating on bridal gowns.

Ruth got her start in the bridal business when she sewed her own wedding dress. Later, she did the bridal gowns for two of her daughters' weddings and a daughter-in-law's.

She finds that her tension relaxes when she sets at the sewing machine.

Despite pressing deadlines with her seamstress business, Ruth has a much more demanding business on the farm.

"I can sew and let the cleaning go, but I have never missed a milking," said Ruth, who helps her husband Curtis on their Solanco Acres Dairy of Distinction.

With 60 milking cows, Ruth helps morning and evening. She also pampers her pet sheep of mixed breed heritage.

Now, married more than 30 years, Ruth said she met her husband when she was a milk tester from Bedford County and tested milk at Curtis's farm.

"It was love at first sight," Ruth conceded. The couple married and farmed on shares the first year and then purchased the farm on which they now lived. The farm is 159 acres.

In previous years, Ruth helped with the field work but now that one son is farming full time, Ruth no longer does field work.

"My yard is big enough and I have a garden that I keep saying I'm going to cut back, but my girls like the leftovers (produce) so I keep planting a big one," said Ruth who has four children and six grandkids.

Although she doesn't tire of sewing, Ruth admitted that sewing seven bridal gowns in all the same color and style does get boring. This spring, she had six bridal parties who chose pink fabric.

"I'm ready for a different color," she said.

According to Ruth, velvets and velveteens are the most difficult fabrics to sew.

"I can do anything with a pattern — interchange pattern pieces and make other alterations — but I don't sew without a pattern.

"I think I have a born talent," Ruth said of her ability to sew slipcovers, draperies and other items.

"There's not too much I can't do. Maybe that sounds like I'm bragging, but I don't mean to, it's just that I figure that I'm never too old to learn to sew something different."

Ruth charges by the job rather than the hour — a detriment if the pattern turns out to be more tricky than she estimated or if there is a problem with the fabric.

"I'd say most of my regular cus-

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Some things in life seem as certain as the sun.

Like, taxes will go up, not down. Or, traffic will travel a minimum of five miles over the posted speed limit. And dandelions will smile at you from your lawn a mere half-hour after you've finished cutting the grass.

Here on the farm, certain "givens" are just as dependable.

For instance, sooner or later, come warm weather, Mama Gray will arrive at the barn cat-feeding dish with a couple of chubby, toddler kittens in tow.

The manure-hauling truck will get stuck somewhere and need towed out. (With this spring's exceptionally wet weather, the first step is determining whether that's a medium-sized or large tractor stuck.

And the heifers will get out.

Heifers are like the young of most species. Curious. Spunky. Full of energy and exuberance. Especially tempted by the forbidden. For heifers, the forbidden is the far side of the fence.

Our older-heifer herd presently roams a spacious, green meadow. Lots of trees, plentiful water and exceptionally lush grass is supplemented with big bales of hay and feedings of corn silage.

What more could a heifer want?

Out.

Out — the forbidden side of the fence — may appeal for numerous reasons. The grass may truly be greener there, especially after the herd has grazed the meadow for a few days and eaten the most lush, most tender, most gourmet clumps. Sort of like eating the french fries first and then dawdling over the brussels sprouts.

In their search for gourmet grass, they nibble under, over, or if the slightest break exists, through the fence. Sooner or later, the irresistible force of a thousand-pound heifer stretching under a fence strains its breaking point and PING! goes the fence. A couple of PINGS! and you've got a hole.

White-tailed deer are an increasing problem creating fence PINGS! as they bound over the boundaries. It happens even in our area of the country, where deer are still a thrill and not a costly crop-destruction element.

Springtime's rapid plant growth coupled with showers also spells fencing fears, in the case of electric fence. As weeds and grasses along pastures and fencerows push taller, their tips often make contact with the fencing strands. When rains wet the green foliage touching the strands, it grounds the electric current and "defuses" the fence — an electronic PING!.

Whatever the reason — shoving for greener grass, electronic PINGS!, dancing deer feet or all the above — we are experiencing our annual "Heifers out!" season, testing aggravation levels and the maneuverability of the faithful three-wheeler.

"Heifers out!" season reached a new high on a recent Saturday night. Make that Sunday morning. Or to be exact, 1:30 a.m., when pounding on the front door woke both of us simultaneously from a sound slumber to exclaim in unison: "Heifers out!"

It was an accurate guess. The instant our light snapped on, a voice shouted up to us that there were cows visiting the factory about a half-mile away, on the distant side of the heifers' meadow. When The Farmer returned many minutes later, he noted that he'd found only two snooping around the industrial structures; the others were resting on the lawn of the adjacent farmhouse.

Next morning, after church, I heard why they were resting: A friend confided that, when he was returning to his home sometime after midnight, about two dozen heifers could be seen strolling around the manufacturing facility's lawn. Guess they got tired and went home.

To whomever pounded on our front door in the middle of the night — thanks!

Experience has given us the answer to that pressing philosophical question: "Where's the beef?"

Somewhere it has absolutely no business being. I'll betcha'.

Have You Heard?

The Art of Salad Making

Salads have never been more popular than they are today. This is because people are more health and diet conscious. Not only are salads nutritious and tasty, they are economical and easy to prepare.

One of the best things about salads is that you do not have to be a culinary genius to build a really good salad. For that matter, you do not even have to follow a recipe if you have a little imagination and a flair for what things taste delicious together.

With so many greens available at most supermarkets, there is an opportunity to mix new tastes and textures. Leafy greens are rich in vitamin A.

Iceberg lettuce is the most common green salad ingredient, but chickory, spinach, endive, watercress and romaine all can add variety, and new tastes to ordinary salads. When choosing lettuce, choose a light, loose head; it will be sweeter and richer in vitamin A than a heavy, packed one. Also, regardless of what type of greens you use, tear the leaves rather than cut them. Cut greens lose moisture and will wilt quicker. And, the moisture lost from greens will dilute your dressing.

Even though tomatoes cannot be beat as a colorful and nutritious ingredient, think beyond tomatoes to zucchini, carrots, mushrooms, radishes, cauliflower, broccoli, onions, bean sprouts, and almost any other vegetable which is available. Vegetables not only change the flavor of a salad, they can make a standard salad into a main part of the meal.

Fresh or canned fruits make delicious additions to salads. Fruits add color, crispness and a tartness as well as vitamins and minerals.

The most common use of fruits is in a simple mixed fruit salad, which is a nice accompaniment to light meals. Another approach to using fruits in salads is to use the fruit itself as the container for a salad; a melon or pineapple for chicken or tuna salad.

Because you can prepare a small amount, fruit salads give you the flexibility to experiment with lots of different combinations of fruits with different meats or vegetables. As you consider which fruits go with which vegetables or meats, do not discard novel mixtures. For example, strawberries work well in combination with a chicken salad and mandarin oranges with a spinach salad.

Meats, poultry and seafood are good main ingredients for salads. Combined with rice, potatoes or pasta, they can be utilized in a salad after you have served the meat as a main course the day before.

The best way to top off any salad is to use a salad dressing that brings out and compliments the flavors of your salad. Be careful not to use an oil that will mask the flavor of your other ingredients. You can use a specialty oil like walnut, olive or sesame to impart a desired flavor; but be sure it is the flavor that you want.

If you use a specialty oil to obtain a special flavor, consider mixing that oil with a bland-tasting oil. Your salad will still have the flavor from the specialty oil, but you will be able to "stretch" the more expensive specialty oil.

If you add lemon juice to the salad dressing, make sure it is freshly squeezed. Vinegar is often used instead of lemon juice and here you have several different types to choose from. Use the one that suits your taste. The standard ration of vinegar to oil is one to three. But, if you are using a strong vinegar, you may want to use less vinegar and more oil. It is a good idea to add a few drops of oil to your greens before you add the salad dressing. This will coat the leaves and help the greens maintain their crispness.

Lemon-Honey Dressing

¾ cup oil
2 tablespoons honey
⅓ cup fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
2 teaspoons minced green onion

Combine all ingredients in a pint jar with a tight fitting lid. Shake until well mixed. If the honey is at room temperature it will dissolve faster. Makes one cup dressing.

Raspberry-Yogurt Dressing

¼ cup red-raspberry jelly or jam, seedless preferred
¼ cup burgundy wine or red-wine vinegar
1 cup red raspberry yogurt
1 cup mayonnaise

In small bowl, combine jelly and wine. Stir to dissolve jelly. Add yogurt and mayonnaise. Stir to blend. Makes 2 cups dressing.

Plant Business Blooms In Delaware

NEWARK, DE — Horticultural and landscape sales and services generate nearly $93 million a year in Delaware, making the nursery industry third or fourth in the generation of state agricultural income.

Nationally, with an average 9 percent annual jump in cash receipts, the nursery industry is the fastest growing segment of agriculture, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture figures. Greenhouse operations, nurseries, turfgrass farms, garden centers, landscape design firms, installation and maintenance services, golf courses and florist shops are among the many enterprises that make up this segment of agriculture.

What's driving its phenomenal growth?

Two of the biggest factors in Delaware, according to Susan Barton, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension ornamental horticulture specialist, are the increased number of homes being built and the recent influx of large corporations into the state.

"As people buy more expensive homes and land costs rise, they're willing to spend more money improving their investment," Barton explains. "A well-landscaped property will add 15 percent to the value of a house. Compared to other home improvements, you can realize a bigger return from landscaping than many other investments."

Similarly, creating an attractive landscape around an office building is good for business.'

"The strong push for environmental landscaping also appears to be driving the current demand for horticultural crops," Barton says.

In some communities, for example, mowing ordinances have been changed to permit the establishment of wildflower meadows. And developers are sometimes required to install landscape buffers between new construction and established properties.

Public horticultural improvements such as landscaped traffic islands and highway barrier strips also have generated greater interest in the landscape.

"The growth rate of Delaware's nursery industry is absolutely amazing," Barton says. "In a time of downturned economy, this industry has kept on growing, and opportunities continue to exist within the state for further growth, given the public interest in the environment, integrated pest management and landscape maintenance.

"Delaware is an excellent place to be in horticulture," Barton concludes. "We have a very educated gardening public. And the more they know about a product, the more likely they are to buy it."

Contestants Vie For Berks County Dairy Princess Title

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Dairy Princess pageant is scheduled for May 15, at the Berks County Agricultural Center. This year's pageant promises to be a trio of excitement and entertainment. There are three contestants in the dairy princess contest as well as in the Little Miss Contest.

The trio of contestants include Karen Davis, Jennifer Grimes, and Lynne Koinski, one of these girls will be crowned Dairy Princess by Sandy Gross, the current Berks County Dairy Princess and State Alternate.

Karen Davis is the daughter of Arlan and Deborah Davis of Bernville. She is a senior at the Tulpehocken High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society and the band. She plans on attending Elizabethtown College after graduation to pursue a career in chemistry. She has served as a dairy ambassador for the past two years.

Jennifer Grimes is the daughter of Kenneth and Barbara Grimes of Strausstown. She is a senior at Tulpehocken High School, where she is active as a basketball cheerleader, National Honor Society member, and FFA Judging team. She was selected as the Tulpehocken Young woman of the Year for 1993. Her interests include 4-H, Zion Blue Mt. Church, as well as many varied hobbies. Her parents operate a 400-acre farm, milking 135 Holstein cattle.

Lynne Koinski is the daughter of John and Dorothy Koinski of Mohrsville. She is a sophomore at Schuykill Valley High School, where she is a member of the varsity soccer team, diving team, and panthers on parade. She enjoys 4-H, belonging to a dairy club as well as a sewing club. She has served as a dairy ambassador for the past two years.

Kristen Moyer is the daughter of Martin and Melissa Moyer of Womelsdorf. Kristen likes to play with her dolls and help with the calves. Megan Phillips is the daughter of Jim and Brenda Phillips of Bernville. Megan enjoys riding her bike around the farm and helping with chores. Justine Stoltzfus is the daughter of Glenn and Gail Stoltzfus of Morgantown. Justine loves to ride her bike and cut and glue.

Clinton County To Hold Pageant On May 22

JERSEY SHORE (Clinton Co.) — The Clinton County Dairy Princess Pageant will be held May 22, in the Nittany Grange Hall, Lamar. A night of fun and entertainment is being planned, with the master of ceremonies being Lee Gillette from the radio station WWWD, Williamsport. The program will include two skits, given by the two young ladies who will be running for the 1993 Dairy Princess title. The new court will be introduced and the 1993-94 Clinton County Dairy Princess will be crowned. Refreshments will be served following the ceremony. Come, enjoy an evening out and show your support for the Dairy Industry.

Family Favorites

Family favorites range from casseroles to desserts. Some are recipes handed down through the generations. Some are recipes recently developed.

Here are recipes you will want to try.

SOUTHERN RAISIN PIE

1 cup granulated sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1 egg, well beaten
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup seeded raisins
2 cups water

Mix sugar, flour, and egg. Add lemon juice and rind, salt, raisins, and water. Cook over hot water for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Pour into pastry-lined pan and place strips of pastry over filling in lattice design. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

Peg Koser
Lancaster

PUMPKIN COOKIES

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1½ cups pumpkin
1 egg
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins
1 cup butterscotch morsels
1 cup pecans or walnuts, optional
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening and sugar; add 1½ cups pumpkin and the egg. Combine flour, baking soda, cinnamon, and salt. Mix the dry ingredients into the creamed mixture. Stir in butterscotch morsels, raisins, and nuts. Spoon dough onto the ungreased cookie sheets and bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Frost while still warm with butterscotch frosting.

Combine in a saucepan:
3 tablespoons butter
4 teaspoons milk
½ cup brown sugar

Stir until sugar dissolves. Stir in 1 cup confectioners' sugar and ¾ teaspoon vanilla until smooth. Makes 4 to 5 dozen.

Beth Innerst
Dallastown

GINGER SNAPS

1 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup baking molasses
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Gettysburg

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

¼ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup ricotta cheese
1 egg
1¼ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
6 ounces chocolate chips
½ cup nuts, optional

Carolyn Martin
Wolmelsdorf

PHILLY CHIPPERS

1 cup butter
8 ounces cream cheese
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
12 ounces chocolate chips
½ cup nuts, chopped fine

Cream butter, cheese, sugars, egg, and vanilla. Beat until fluffy. Combine dry ingredients, add to creamed mixture and stir until blended. Add chocolate chips and nuts. Drop by teaspoonful onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes.

Lona Heyd

MAPLE SYRUP DROP COOKIES

1 cup maple syrup
1 egg
½ cup shortening
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups nuts

Chocolate chips or raisins, as desired

Lona Heyd

ULTIMATE CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIE

1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 egg
1¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup pecan pieces, optional

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Cream shortening, brown sugar, milk, and vanilla. Blend until creamy. Blend in egg. Combine flour, salt, and baking soda. Add to creamed mixture gradually. Stir in chips and nuts. If nuts are omitted, use 1½ cups chocolate chips. Drop by rounded tablespoon onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes for chewy cookies. Do not overbake unless you want crisp cookies. Cool on baking sheet for 2 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen 3-inch cookies.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — This week's featured recipe comes from the "Society of Farm Women Of Pennsylvania Cookbook."

This handsome spiral-bound cookbook is 442 pages illustrated with dramatic pictures of the past. The recipes are from Farm Women members across the state.

Lancaster Farming will give two of these cookbooks as prizes for the annual Recipe Dairy Drawing. Many other prizes will also be given.

To be eligible for the drawing, send a recipe using a sizable quantity of at least one of the following dairy products such as milk, cream, sour cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, cottage cheese, ricotta cheese, cream cheese, or any other hard or soft cheese.

Print or type your recipe and be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. Be sure to print your name, full address, and phone number on the recipe. Please include a few paragraphs about yourself or your family. Although it is not required, we'd like a picture of you or your family to include with the recipe.

Send your entry to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Recipe Drawing, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

To order a Farm Women's Cookbook, send $18.50 to Naomi Bupp, Box 157, R.D.2, Glen Rock, PA 17327.

If your garden is producing an abundance of rhubarb, here is an easy recipe using rhubarb. The recipe from the cookbook was submitted by Grace Krout of York County Society 2.

RHUBARB CAKE

1 quart rhubarb, cut and sliced
3-ounce package strawberry Jell-O
¾ cup sugar
1 package yellow cake mix
1 cup water

Grease bottom of 9x13-inch cake pan. Spread cut-up rhubarb on bottom of pan. Sprinkle Jell-O over the rhubarb, then spread sugar over the mixture. Add water to cake mix and blend. Pour mixture over rhubarb and Jell-O. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

Home Economists Learn About Poultry Products

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER Co.) — For home economics teachers searching for ideas and resources to use in classroom instruction, the Lancaster County Poultry Association provided abundant handouts and information during the annual dinner the association holds for teachers in Lancaster and Lebanon counties.

Changes in nutritional labeling and requirements mandate that teachers need constant updating on government regulations and nutritional findings.

Mindy Rottmund, home economist for Pennfield Farms, told teachers how they can help students understand the food pyramid, the research-based food guide, which helps consumers know what and how much to eat from each food group.

Rottmund also explained how Pennfield develops, tests, and releases new food products. Rottmund was instrumental in developing Pennfield's chicken patties in four different seasonings. The patties use no MSG, salt, preservatives, artificial colors or flavorings. The patties are baked instead of fried, but to adhere the coating to the patty, it is flash-fried for three seconds. Unfortunately the flash-frying makes the fat content higher than Pennfield had hoped. The company is now researching ways to alleviate the flash frying step.

The annual dinner for home economists, sponsored by the Lancaster County Poultry association, updates teachers on nutrition and new products in the poultry industry. At the dinner, Guy Martin, vice president of Lancaster County Poultry Association, hands a carton of hard-boiled eggs to teacher Arleen Mauger.

Poultry remains one of the best all-around health foods, according to Rottmund. It is lower in calories and fat than most meats and provides the complete protein the body requires daily.

R.W. Sauder handed a carton of hard-boiled eggs to every one in attendance. The eggs are sealed, which gives them a refrigerated life of three weeks.

Teachers were informed that the Poultry Association will award a $50 U.S. Savings Bond to a senior home economics student who demonstrates outstanding interest and knowledge of poultry foods.

Hundreds or recipes showing many different methods of cooking and serving poultry were included in the handouts to those attending the dinner. Teachers say they use these recipes for classroom cooking instruction.

SAVORY HERBED CHICKEN

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, skin removed ½ teaspoon pepper, divided
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
4 small summer squash, sliced
4 medium tomatoes, sliced
½ teaspoon savory, marjoram or thyme leaves
¼ teaspoon paprika
1¼ cups cocktail vegetable juice
2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese

Sprinkle chicken with ¼ teaspoon pepper. Break onion slices into rings and arrange half of the rings in bottom of shallow glass baking dish. Place chicken on top and arrange remaining onion rings on chicken. Add sliced squash and sliced tomatoes; sprinkle with savory or chosen herb, paprika, and remaining ¼ teaspoon pepper. Pour vegetable juice over all; sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Cover tightly with foil and refrigerate until ready to cook, if desired. One hour before serving, place in preheated 350 degree oven; bake 1 hour or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Extra sauce may be served over rice or thin noodles in a side dish. Serves 4.

CHUNKY CHICKEN AND CUCUMBER SALAD

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cooked, skinned, boned, cut into chunks
2 cucumbers, peeled, cubed
1 red sweet pepper, chopped
1 tablespoon apple cider vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
4 ounces plain non-fat yogurt

In medium bowl, mix cucumber and pepper, sprinkle with vinegar, salt and pepper. Let set about 5 minutes. Stir in chicken, seasoned salt and yogurt, tossing gently. Cover and refrigerate until completely chilled. Serve on dark curly endive. Makes 4 servings.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Mae Pugh would like a recipe for chicken rice soup like that served at Ponderosa.

QUESTION — Mrs. Kenneth Ulmer, Waymart, wants a recipe to can a mixture of mushrooms, onions, green peppers, and oil in pint jars.

QUESTION — R. Smith, Jonestown, heard about hunter green pumpkins, not squash or gourds, sold at a roadside market in Lancaster County and would like to know where to buy the seeds.

QUESTION — Mark Kopp, Tower City, would like to know what happened to sauerkraut. She said today it is shredded cabbage rather than the kraut she remembers.

QUESTION — May Ozinek, Flemington, N.J., wrote that on a recent trip to Florida, she and her husband ate at Shoney's the whole way down and back. At the breakfast buffet, Shoney's serves a delicious sheet cake that is spicy and filled with raisins and chunks of apples. The cake has a crumb topping and is very moist. Does anyone have a recipe?

QUESTION — Gloria Fready, Mount Joy, would like to know how to make French fried sweet potatoes. She tried making them, but they tasted soggy.

QUESTION — Evelyn Reinfeld, Halifax, would like recipes using buckwheat flour without yeast.

QUESTION — Patricia Corkell, Henderson, Md., would like a recipe for pickled garlic.

QUESTION — A reader from Potter County would like a recipe for fudge made out of goat's milk.

QUESTION — Karen Yourga is looking for a recipe to can strawberries in a glaze that can be poured right from the jar onto a cake. She has tried several recipes that bleed and turn pink. She would like one with a dark red color in which the strawberries are not mushy.

QUESTION — Sue Pardo, Jarrettsville, Md., would like recipes to use in a bread machine.

QUESTION — Sherry Craner, Bridgeton, N.J., would like a recipe for chocolate pasta, made with wheat flour. It is used for a dessert topped with sauteed strawberries and white chocolate.

QUESTION — Cissy McKeon, Birdsboro, would like a recipe for hand-dipped chocolate-covered strawberries such as those sold at Kaufman's in Pittsburgh. Cissy writes that it appears as if a layer of cream is between the strawberry and the chocolate.

QUESTION — Ralph Johnson, Sewell, N.J., would like a recipe for green tomato pie with raisins and a top crust.

QUESTION — Lisa Kerrigan, Bath, would like a recipe for Kosher Dill pickles that taste like the Claussen pickles that are stored in the refrigerator.

QUESTION — Peg Koser, Lancaster, wrote that in this column she learned how to make a tea concentrate using spearmint leaves and freezing for later use. She asks if there is a similar way to make a concentrate using fresh blue grapes?

QUESTION — Mary Lehman, Elizabethtown, would like recipes for rhubarb and a cookbook on rhubarb. One, that I'm aware of is "Rhubarb Cooking for All Seasons." For a copy, send $6 to Rhubarb Cookbook, Box 392, Hopkins, Minnesota 55343. It is small, but has 150 recipes in it.

QUESTION — L. Weaver, Ephrata, would like recipes or ideas to prepare cubed steak.

QUESTION — Fay Leslie, Woodstown, N.J., would like a recipe for spoon bread, which is soft and of pudding texture.

QUESTION — Maureen Wheeler, Kirkwood, would like a yummy recipe for baked beans that uses dried Great Northern Beans (not canned), molasses, brown sugar, onions, salt pork, dry mustard, and cooked in a slow cooker. She said that her mother had made them this way and unlike most bean recipes, this recipe had a sweeter molasses base and not a tangy catsup/tomato base. When cooked the baked beans were deep, dark brown. She thinks the recipe might have appeared in a '70s Rival Crock Pot recipe booklet.

QUESTION — Melanie Kozlowski, Kingsby, would like a recipe for chocolate muffins, a deep, dark chocolate muffin that is very heavy and moist.

QUESTION — Maureen Wheeler, Kirkwood, would like a lemon pudding cake recipe. She said her mother made it before cake mixes were invented. She remembers her mother poking holes in the top of the warm cake, just removed from the oven, with a toothpick and drizzling lemon glaze over the top. When the cake cooled, the lemon glaze hardened and "was mighty tasty."

QUESTION — Melanie Kozlowski, Kingsby, would like a recipe for mousse such as that served at Ponderosa.

QUESTION — Jeanette Babson, Ottsville, would like a recipe for salt pickles, which uses rock salt and grape leaves. The original recipe was made in a barrel and the pickles were very crisp and sour.

ANSWER — Mary Snyder, Manheim, wanted recipes using senaro peppers. Thanks to a western New York reader, who sent the following recipe.

Hot Pepper Sauce

Collect 50 to 60 cayennes, jalapenos, Thai chilies or Serranos. Wear rubber gloves to wash, chip off stems, and break long, slender varieties in half. Wear safety glasses as a reminder not to rub your eyes!

Throw all peppers along with a head of garlic (skin and all) into food processor and reduce to a mash.

Empty mash in a heavy-duty stainless steel pot, add a half gallon or so of distilled white vinegar and a bit of salt.

Heat until just before it boils. lower heat and simmer for 2 to 3 hours, adding vinegar as needed to thin the mixture.

Transfer to a food mill and grind it, saving the liquid. Leftover pulp and seeds can be dried in oven or food dryer to use as hot-pepper flakes. Pour the liquid back into the pot, thin if needed with more vinegar and simmer another hour.

Let cool and store in jars or bottles in refrigerator. One batch makes 2 or 3 quarts. Good with just about everything, especially eggs, hamburgers, bean soup, and mixed with sour cream or yogurt as a dip.

ANSWER — To Eda Mott, Shickshinney, who wanted recipes for sweet and sour salad dressing. Here are two from Sis Wilson, Earleville, Md. She writes that a superb recipe was given to her by a wonderful lady who has since passed away. The lady used to make it and sell it in her little country store. Here it is.

Sweet Sour Dressing

1 small onion
1 teaspoon hot mustard
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup vinegar

Blend together ingredients. Slowly add 1 cup salad oil, a little at a time, so it doesn't separate.

Add
1 teaspoon poppy seeds or celery seeds

Blend a second or two. Use on fruit or vegetable salad.

Spinach Sweet Sour Dressing

Blend together:
1 medium onion
⅓ cup catsup
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup red wine vinegar
1 cup vegetable oil

Serve dressing on top of spinach tossed with hard-boiled eggs, mushrooms, and crisp bacon.

Bread

Dissolve 3 tablespoons yeast in ¾ cup warm water and 2 teaspoons sugar

Combine in large bowl:
¾ cup sugar
1½ tablespoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
4½ cups warm water

Add:
8 cups flour

Beat 3 minutes. Stir in by hand:
8 to 9 cups flour

Knead 5 minutes.

Cover and let rise 30 minutes. Punch down, turn over and let rise until double. Knead a few minutes, then shape into loaves and place in six pans. Cover loaves with a damp cloth and let rise until double. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

Whole wheat bread: substitute 4½ cups whole wheat flour

Raisin bread: add 2 teaspoons cinnamon and 1 pound raisins.

Always use warm but not hot water to dissolve yeast since hot water destroys yeast.

Yeast is a live plant. Supplied with a little sugar for food, it gives off gas that makes dough rise. Too much heat will kill it, but cold impedes its growth. Set dough in warm place, free of drafts while rising. Sometimes setting the bowl on a heating pad on low setting helps if you don't have a good rising spot.

GROUND BEEF POTATO CASSEROLE DISH

2 pounds ground beef
6 servings Idaho spuds mashed potatoes
¼ teaspoon oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon chopped onions, optional
1 ripe tomato
8 ounce package mozzarella cheese, shredded

Brown ground beef and onions; drain grease; put in a 9x9-inch dish. Prepare potatoes. Mix in oregano. Put on top of beef in dish. Slice tomatoes, put on top of potates; top with cheese.

Cover with foil and bake for 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove foil and continue baking for 15 minutes. Let set 5 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

Good flavor. This is one of my favorite recipes. My oldest son loves this dish. On his 24th brithday, this is what he wanted. It's delicious. Try it and see.

CHICKEN ETTI

1 pound spaghetti, drained well
4 cups cooked, cut up chicken
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of celery soup
1½ cups milk
2 cups chicken broth
Pepper
Onion
1 pound Velveeta cheese

Combine all ingredients except spaghetti and chicken. Heat on very low heat until cheese is melted. Combine all ingredients and pour into casserole. Bake 350 degrees for 1 hour.

SAUSAGE GRAVY

In skillet or fry pan, brown
1 pound sausage

When browned, drain off excess fat if necessary, and add:
4 cups milk

Bring to a boil and thicken with your favorite thickening agent. Add ¾ to 1 teaspoon salt for added flavor. Make your homemade biscuits or use a can from the store. Spread the gravy over warm biscuits and feast.

Contributor learned to make this when she worked in the kitchen at Allegheny Wesleyan College in Ohio. It was always a favorite. Especially good with a tall, cold glass of fresh milk.

VEGETABLE PIZZA

2 packages refrigerated crescent roll dough
2 8-ounce containers cream cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
1 package Hidden Valley Ranch Dressing mix
¾ cup each of the following: carrots, cucumber, celery, broccoli, cauliflower, green pepper, mushrooms
2 cups shredded cheese

Press crescent roll dough onto large cookie sheet, pinching together seams. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Cool.

Mix together cream cheese, mayonnaise, and dry dressing. Spread on cooled crust. Top with assorted vegetables and cheese. Chill. Cut into squares when ready to serve.

Master Gardeners Make Life More Fragrant

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

KINGS GAP (Cumberland Co.) — When visitors come to admire the wonderful herb gardens at this state park, they should leave thanking Cumberland County's Master Gardeners.

The local people who volunteer for the program not only get their hands dirty, they get their minds stimulated as well.

Ten of those volunteers were recognized for their green thumbs and their dedication to making life a little more pleasant and a little more fragrant during the 76th annual meeting of the Cumberland County Cooperative Extension.

Those people honored were Michael Dau, Karen Olson, Joan Baker, Marcia Thompson, Kathryn Grabowski, Ralph Negley, and Frank Kenski.

They are just a few of the people who have participated in the Master Gardener Program in this county since it was founded in 1988.

Kathy Wolfe, who runs the Master Gardener Program in the extension office, said the volunteers make a big commitment and devote a lot of hours to get their program certificate.

Before they are accepted into the program, volunteers are pretested and must answer a certain number of gardening questions properly, Wolfe said. Also, they must go through an interview with an extension agent, she said.

"Usually we try to select enough people according to the number of projects that are started and the new ones that are being planned," said Wolfe.

After they are accepted into the program, the volunteers must receive 50 hours of training in classes taught by extension agents, specialists from Penn State University, and other Master Gardeners, she said.

Each week in those classes, she said, the participants study a different gardening topic. The topics include propogation, plant diseases, pruning, lawn care, care of ornamental plants, and similar knowledge.

Some of the study sessions have hands-on workshops, Wolfe said.

After the educational program is completed, Wolfe said, the participants must give 50 hours of service back to the community. That service has to pertain to something they have learned in the course, she said.

The gardens at Kings Gap are perhaps the most evident contribution the Master gardeners have made so far in the program.

Cumberland County Master Gardener Kathryn Grabowski works in the culinary herb garden the Master Gardener volunteers have made at the Kings Gap Environmental Education Center.

The Master Gardeners planted the herbs in four separate and specialized gardens in a circular area, said Master Gardeners Marcia Thompson and Kathryn Grabowski.

One garden is a fragrance garden, they said. They said the other gardens are a medicinal garden, a culinary garden and a garden filled with herbs that are used to make dyes.

Grabowski and Thompson said they hope to make the Kings Gap project even more attractive this year by placing a sundial in the center of the gardens.

Each of the gardens is taken care of by some of the Master Gardeners who already have graduated from the program and by particpants who are just going through the program, they said.

Other projects the Master Gardeners are working on at Kings Gap are a compost demonstration course for home gardeners and the construction of a native and a wildlife garden.

Another new project they have planned is a Plant Clinic to be held at the West Shore Library in Camp Hill. At that clinic people will be able to bring in plants that have diseases for advice and the Master Gardeners will answer gardening questions.

In the past year, Master Gardeners also presented more than 30 educational talks on wildflowers, perennials, herbs, water gardens, bonsai, pruning, plant problems and composting.

They helped youths in the county by judging in the botany division of the Capital Area Science Fair and by judging at the 4-H Fair. They also helped pilot the 4-H "Meet the Plants" project for fourth graders in two elementary schools in the Cumberland Valley School District.

Wolfe said there are about 30 volunteers in the program to date.

The volunteers come from all walks of life and all age groups, she said. There are homemakers, teachers and doctors in the programs, she said, adding that all you need is a little knowledge of gardening and a lot of enthusiasm.

Wolfe said Cumberland County has an "extremely good" retention rate for people who become involved in the Master Gardener Program.

Approximately 90 percent return for more work after completing the program, she said.

Once a Master Gardener is certified they undergo an additional eight hours of training with the requirement of giving back another 20 hours of volunteer work to the community, Wolfe said.

Master Gardeners who return for the second year of the program have found their "niche" in the program and the projects that their fellow gardeners have planned, she said.

Their rewards for continuing in the program, Wolfe said, are that they gain more in-depth knowledge of a subject they love while they give a contribution back to their community and share their common interest with their fellow gardening enthusiasts.

Safe Kids America Week Is May 22 To 29

NEWARK, DE — Safe Kids America Week, a national effort devoted to raising awareness of childhood injury prevention, is kicking off in Delaware on May 22 at the Blue Hen Mall in Dover at 3 p.m. Delaware Safe Kids Coalition and the Division of Public Health are sponsoring the program. Delaware's lieutenant governor, Ruth Ann Minner, will preside over the festivities.

The day's events include demonstrations of bicycle, fire, water and poison safety. Also scheduled are recycling and exercise demonstrations as well as fingerprinting and face painting. Costumed characters, including Smokey the Bear and the buckle-up dummies Vince and Larry, will be meeting and greeting children and their parents.

According to Ron Jester, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension safety specialist and chair of the Safe Kids Coalition, preventable injury is the number-one-killer of children aged 14 and under. He says that efforts throughout the week will focus on different safety issues.

Monday will feature traffic safety including seat-belt use and bike safety. Bicycle rodeos will be held at schools and parks in the state.

The focus for Tuesday is fire safety including tours at the Dover Fire School.

Wednesday, legislative day, will be used to present issues related to childhood injury prevention to the state legislature. Children who have survived accidents because of equipment such as bike helmets, car seats and smoke detectors will be recognized at a ceremony in Dover.

On Thursday playgrounds in each of Delaware's counties will be inspected for equipment safety.

For information on how you can get involved in Safe Kids America Week, contact Ron Jester at (302) 856-7303 or your county extension office.

Fifth Grader Spends Day As Scientist

NEWARK, Del. — A day as a scientist for fifth-grader Sheryl Grieve took her on a grand tour of the facilities of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware on March 10. The Forest Oak student's prize for winning a Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) essay contest was spending a day at her dream job.

DARE is a drug prevention program implemented by state and local police departments across the country. All of Delaware's public elementary schools and many private schools participate in the program. Depending on when a school district makes the transition from elementary to middle school, the DARE program is taught in the 5th or 6th grade. The focus is on the exit grade before entering middle school.

Corporal Antonio Asion, working through the community services division of the Delaware State Police, has headed the DARE program for three years. The DARE essay contest was his way to follow up on the effectiveness of the 17-week program. Asion, known as Corporal Tony to students, thought a day on the dream job would be a fitting reward for a well-written essay.

"The first thing I have the kids do during the program is tell about themselves and their dreams," Asion says. "I emphasize how drugs can ruin that dream and then we keep the idea alive over the 17 weeks."

Although Asion doesn't have a formal technique for tracking DARE students, he says differences in attitudes among nchildren who have been through the program and those who have not are easily observable.

"When visiting high schools, I see a difference in respect (among DARE students)," he says. "DARE students are more attentive."

Sheryl is a model DARE student, attentive to every detail of her day as a scientist. Before the day on her dream job, she equated being a scientist with being a chemist. And although she spent a good deal of time in laboratories surrounded by pipettes, chromatographs and test tubes, she admitted that she broadened her concept of being a scientist as a result of her whirlwind tours of greenhouse, animal science and soils laboratories. Perhaps a career in a science other than chemistry could be in Sheryl's future.

The opportunity to hold a live mockingbird as part of her introduction to wildlife conservation was a hit. But not every subject area tempted Sheryl. An hour in an entomology laboratory produced grimaces and a gentle but firm rejection of the opportunity to feed cabbage looper caterpillars to spined soldier bugs. At the end of that hour, Sheryl admitted that studying insects could be interesting — for someone else, not her.

Like many scientists, Sheryl is a person of few words but keen observation, saving her comments until all data is collected. When her day as a scientist was complete and Sheryl had a moment to reflect and weigh her experiences, she knew with certainty that the part she liked best was "holding the bird."

Tomato Worth $100,000 May Be On Your Vine

Gordon Graham of Edmond, Oklahoma with a replica of the 7 pound, 12 ounce world record tomato that he grew in 1987.

(NAPS) — Among the nearly seven billion tomatoes grown nationwide each year someone may soon grow one worth $100,000.

That's the prize offered in the Miracle-Gro® $100,000 Tomato Challenge. All you have to do is be the first to beat the world record of 7 pounds 12 ounces held by Gordon Graham of Edmond, OK. You must use Miracle-Gro just as Graham used and the $100,000 is yours.

"Truly giant tomatoes don't come along every day," Graham notes. "Yet, with the right variety seed, a little luck and Miracle-Gro anyone could be the winner."

Graham says anyone who spots what they think is the new world record tomato on their vine should let it grow as long as possible. Photograph it as soon as it is picked and quickly bring it to an overnight express courier for shipping at the gardener's expense to Miracle-Gro $100,000 Tomato Challenge, c/o Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute, 1415 Park Ave., Hoboken, NJ 07030. After it has been weighed, measured, x-rayed and examined by experts to determine that it qualifies as a single, whole, totally natural tomato without adulteration, the winner will be declared the official new world champion tomato.

Gardeners will have until the end of 1995 — three growing seasons — to try to beat Graham's record. If there is no winner by the end of 1995, the $100,000 will go to The American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund.

For official rules and tomato growing suggestions, visit your nearest garden center, or send a self-addressed envelope to Miracle-Gro, Box 888, Port Washington, NY 11050.

Plain & Fancy Celebrates Pennsylvania Dutch Culture

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Nearly everyone in this area is busy preparing for this summer's 44th Annual Kutztown Folk Festival, which will be held from Saturday, June 26 through Monday, July 5. Quilters are trying to finish that last quilt before the entry deadline; craftsmen are busy creating their works of art; and volunteers for several church groups and civic organizations are preparing to serve much of the delicious food that is available at the Folk Festival. In short, this community is a very active place, which is preparing to welcome visitors to its 10-day celebration of both the "Plain and Fancy" Pennsylvania Dutch culture and heritage.

One of the most popular places on the Festival grounds is the Main Stage. Every day, from noon until 5:00 p.m., visitors will find programs to entertain them. Mel Horst, as "Jakey Buddrschnip," will follow the Heidelberg Polka Band; their music will set your feet to dancing and "Jakey" will brighten your day with his unique Pennsylvania Dutch humor. Of course, Keith and Karlene Britzenhoff will also entertain visitors with their songs in the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect.

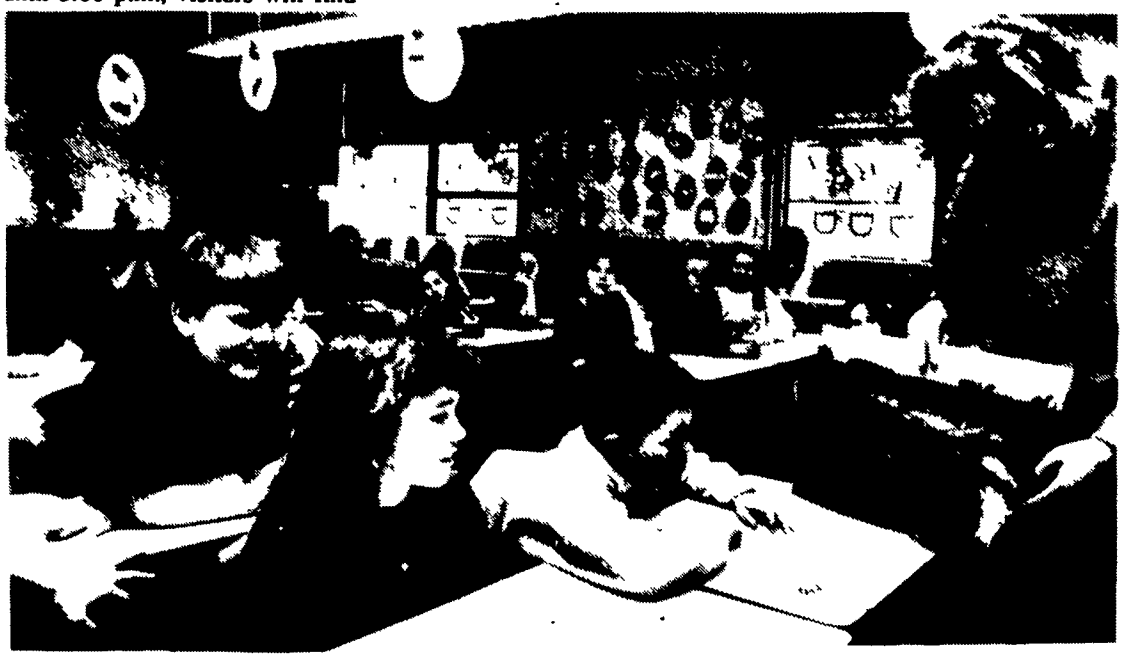
Other activities to keep visitors busy are the sheep shearing, horseshoeing, children's puppet show, metal casting in sand, garden tours, and the Amish wedding, where you may watch Jonathan Beiler and Annie Fisher "tie the knot," Amish-style.

Of course, no Folk Festival would be complete without a visit to the quilt display and quilting demonstration. Ann Burrows, quilting building supervisor, says, "We have taken special care this year to be sure that all the quilts entered in the contest are American-made. Our quilts may cost more than the Chinese imports, but they are made locally and that is important!"

Folk Festival directors, Mark and Thelia Eaby agree, "We are concerned that not only the quilts are 100% American-made, but all items are also American folk art."

Another popular destination on the Festival grounds is the Hoedown Stage, where Glenn Eckert and his Hayseeds will provide the music and Lester Miller will call the "squares" for his hoedowning and jigging groups. Several times each afternoon, you may first watch and then participate in some toe-tapping fun.

For additional information on the Kutztown Folk Festival, write Kutztown Folk Festival; 461 Vine Lane; Kutztown, PA. 19530; or call toll-free 1-800-447-9269.



"Caretakers All," the beef industry's environmental teaching kit, won the public relations "Best of Show" award at the National Agri-Marketing Association's national awards competition. Here "Caretakers All" is being discussed in a classroom setting. Teachers say the educational kit has strong applications to the classroom because it encourages student participation through various activities.

Bridal Gowns By A Farm Woman

tomers are hard to fit, but I never had a failure," said Ruth, who relies totally on word-of-mouth advertising, which has brought her more than enough work.

"I have the right to say no but not the heart," she said of the many requests for her services. "I'm a brute for punishment."

So intent is Ruth on doing a pleasing job that she will accompany a bride to fabric stores as far away as Philadelphia to help make purchases.

The bride-to-be and attendants come to Ruth's house to be measured and for a fitting when the gown is partially completed.

Any difficulties that she tackles during her sewing projects are quickly forgotten when she sees the finished garment on the person.

"It's a real sense of satisfaction," she said.

Ruth finds time to sew for herself, when at the last minute she needs a dress for a banquet or other special occasion.

"It's certainly a money saver and the quality is much better," she said.

"It's devastating to see the quality of material today," Ruth said. "You can buy the best material and it will have flaws in it. I learned the hard way to check both sides of the fabric before cutting it."

It's frustrating for Ruth to plan to spend a day sewing and find that the bolt of fabric must be returned because of flaws. Usually new fabric must be ordered and this has resulted in some tight deadlines for Ruth who prefers to finish the gowns a month before the scheduled wedding.

But, the gowns are always completed in time. She also makes headpieces.

"Veils are really a cinch to make. All you need is a hot glue gun and the material," Ruth said. "I don't know why anyone pays the outrageous prices bridal shops charge for veils."

Ruth is a member of Farm Women Society 31. And for the past 10 years, she has worked tirelessly on the Lancaster County Dairy Promotion committee, which oversees the county dairy princess program and dairy promotion with the milk wagon and at stores, fairs, malls, and so forth. One of the Akers' daughters, Donna, was a former county dairy princess.

"Dairy promotion is a lot of work, but it's a lot of fun too. I enjoy being around people and I believe we should promote our own product," Ruth said.

Curtis is a director for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and both help at the Solanco Fair.

If trying to solicit help for dairy promotion or the Solanco Fair, Ruth said, "You'll find that it is always the busiest people who do things."

No doubt that saying is true. Take a look at Ruth Akers.

"I can sew and let the cleaning go, but I have never missed a milking," Ruth said. She milks morning and evening on the Solanco Acres Farm that she and her husband, Curtis, operate.

Shop around and ask questions, she suggests since the rental places try to hit you with the highest prices.

Reba did not want her bridesmaids to invest in dresses for a one-time occasion, so she chose a mauve floral print dress suitable for church and other occasions.

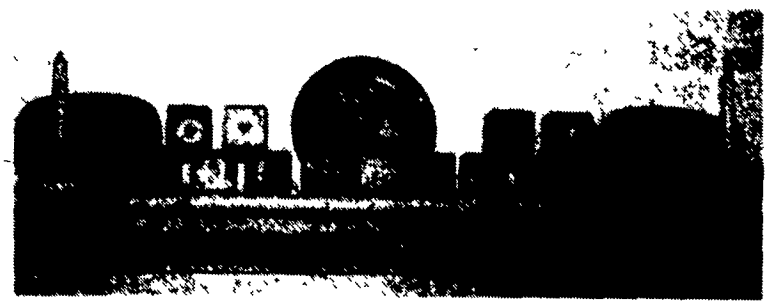
Some of the 30 paper twist bows that were used in floral decorations will be taken apart and reused for club activities that Reba oversees with third grade girls.

Reba and her brother are in partnership at a 180-acre farm in Mount Joy where they milk 40 cows. Reba said that she will need to get out of the partnership because it is too difficult to live two half lives between the farm that she and her brother operate and the one that her husband and his brother operate. Rudy raises steers, crop farms 1,000 acres, and operates a custom combining business in nine states.

"I'm attached to the cows and it's difficult to think of parting with a herd that I helped build up," Reba said. "But I will be ready for weekends off."

That does not mean she will no longer have an active role in farming. She plans to help her husband with his duties but at this point is not sure all that involves.

For those who know Reba, it's predictable that she will find a way to add a bit of style to everyday duties just like she did for the wedding. It's a farmwife's own personal touch.



Country alphabet blocks arranged to spell the last names of the bridal couple set on either side of the unity candle and later were placed on the fireplace mantel of the Wolgemuths' home.

Two candles in these unique candleholders were set on either side of the table arrangments during the reception. The heart-shaped candleholders are made from corn, beans, barley, wheat held together with Mod Podge. The grains represent the custom combine business that the groom operates.

Greens for the table centerpieces used at each table during the reception were purchased during an off-season sale. Reba arranged the centerpieces, which were given to those who helped with the wedding.

Floral arrangements with paper twist bows first were used at each pew. Reba then turned the bow crosswise so that the arrangements can be placed over the doorways of her and her husband's first home.

This milk can with a floral arrangement was one of several farm-related items used to carry the agricultural theme of the wedding. The milk can was used in the church foyer near the guest registrar.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — In a salute to dairy farmers, Lancaster Farming wants to show our readers how versatile and great tasting dairy products are in appetizers, dips, soups, breads, main dishes, vegetables, desserts, beverages, snacks, and salads. And, we want to give you an opportunity to win a cow — well, not a real one, but a replica of one.

Jot down your favorite recipe using dairy products and send it to Lancaster Farming for the annual Recipe Dairy Drawing.

If your name is drawn, you will receive one of the following prizes — all highlighting the cow: Afghan, place mats, milk pitcher, mail box, porch mat, Jersey cow plaque, Holstein cow plaque, towel rack, paper towel holder, stuffed cow, appliqued pillow top, padded photo album, "Pennsylvania Farm Women Cookbook," "From Mother's Cupboard Cookbook," "TMR Cookbook," "Schuylkill Fair Cookbook," or "Real Royal Recipes," recipes compiled by dairy princesses.

Please send your recipe using a sizable quantity of at least one of the following ingredients: milk, cream, sour cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, cottage cheese, ricotta cheese, cream cheese, or any other hard or soft cheese.

Print or type your recipe and be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. Be sure to print your name, full address, and phone number on the recipe. Please include a few paragraphs about yourself or your family. Although it is not required, we'd like a picture of you or your family to include with the recipe.

All recipes submitted will be printed during the month of June. Also, included will be the photo and sentences telling us about yourself and your family. Our readers especially like to read these tidbits of information as it helps to make us feel like "family." Even if you entered the drawing other years, we want you to participate again.

Send your entry to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Recipe Drawing, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Did you ever hear of a calf with wanderlust? Well, my son and daughter-in-law have one on our dairy farm.

A few weeks ago this animal jumped over a high fence surrounding it's hutch and disappeared in the dusk. The next day my husband walked every inch of our one hundred acres but could find no trace of it. I believe we have all resigned ourselves to the fact that it was gone forever.

However, a few days later we learned through an Amish family that another Amish family had an extra calf. Somehow it had managed to swim across the Conestoga River. After it was brought home, it again decided to leave but this time it was a bit earlier in the evening and so three people were able to corner it in a faraway field. I guess that from now on it will have to be confined to the heifer barn.

The other week our church had a very large garage sale to benefit a Habitat House that they are sponsoring. My contribution to the sale was about 20 flower plants. Some were houseplants but others were perennials such as hosta lilies, golden glow and bee balm. These are all plants that multiply rapidly and therefore should be shared. Of course, I had to buy some plants to bring home with me.

There was one large table with table lamps, two with books, two with toys, one with jewelry and so much more—even furniture and bicycles were for sale. On the appliance table I found an electric frying pan and when I inquired as to the price, I was very surprised—.50¢. Siunce I needed one and they cost fifty dollars, I bought it. It is even a bit larger than my previous ones.

Cook's Question

Red Velvet Whoopie Pies

½ cup shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
2 ounces red food coloring
2 tablespoons baking cocoa
1½ teaspoon baking soda
3½ cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon vinegar

Make a paste of chocolate and food coloring. Set aside. Cream shortening, sugar, and eggs. Add cocoa mixture and vanilla. Beat at medium speed for several minutes. Add flour, salt, and buttermilk alternately to mixture. Beat several minutes at medium speed. Fold in baking soda and vinegar. Do not beat. Drop by tablespoonfuls on cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until done.

Take Time For Your Child

Babies enjoy hearing music. When baby is awake and playing, turn on the radio for baby to hear a variety of sounds and rhythms. Playing soft music at naptime often calms a baby, helping her to sleep.

Sing songs to your baby. She doesn't care if you sing off-key or if the tune isn't quite right. Your baby likes to hear the sound of your voice. Try singing familiar songs such as "Hush Little Baby" or make up some of your own.

Play some gentle, rhythmic music and dance with your baby. Hold her against you or nestled on your shoulder. Move sideways and back and forth in time to the music. She will like the gentle rocking motion.

CHELATION THERAPY

THIS MAY BE YOUR ANSWER TO: Heart Problems, High Blood Pressure, Poor Circulation, Arthritis, Diabetes, Leg Cramps, Numbness, Tingling, Cold Hands And Feet & Atherosclerosis.

Dear Golden Pride:
I am 70 years old, I have never felt better. Before taking Golden Pride Bee Pollen, Propolis, Formula #1 and 76 Plus, I had problems with nerves, high blood pressure, diabetes, and angina.
I have been on the above mentioned since April, '85. The last visit to my doctor he said; "Jake, you have a clean bill of health. You don't have to come back to see me unless you need to. Right now you are fine."
My weight has come down. I weighed 205 lbs. in March, 1985. I now weigh 184. I cut out all nerve pills, I eat good and sleep good. I love what Golden Pride has done for me.
Sincerely, Jake Tate

Dear Golden Pride:
Before beginning to use Formula #7, Bee III, I conducted tests for my cholesterol level. I tested at 265. After one month's usage of Formula #7, Bee III, I returned to have my cholesterol checked again. It dropped to 195! That's 70 points in 30 days! I made no dietary changes and only added Formula #7, Bee III to my diet. A beneficial side effect was that I lost 10 pounds!
Bob Gilstad

Dear Golden Pride:
For many years I suffered from arthritis, borderline high blood pressure, and leg pain due to poor circulation. After being introduced to Formula #1 by a friend and then attending your meeting in Raleigh, I began on 4 teaspoons/day reducing to 1 teaspoon after that.
After just one week of Formula #1, I no longer had any problems with arthritis. After just 2 weeks, my blood pressure dropped 10 points, both top and bottom readings. My legs don't hurt anymore either. I'M SOLD!
James Ives

Dear Golden Pride:
A lady told me about Green Barley and that it was good for arthritis. I got one bottle... I am now on the second bottle. I discovered I did not need my cane anymore. I had used a cane for 18 months. I had a back operation in June 1990 and a hip replacement in Jan. 91... People asked what I was doing, I told them I was taking Green Barley, they said get me some. I never dreamed I would be selling this product. In 3 months I sold to 103 different people, all because they saw the difference it made for me.

HAPPENINGS

Public Speaking Contest

The 1993 FFA Area Public Speaking Contest was held April 1 at Pequea Valley High School in Kinzers.

More than 100 students from Elizabethtown, Ephrata, Garden Spot, Lancaster Mennonite, Manheim Central, Octorara, Penn Manor, Pequea Valley, Solanco, and Warwick High School participated in the different public speaking contest areas.

Following are the placings for each contest. The top three placings in each contest competed in the regional public speaking contest held in Lebanon County on April 27.

Junior Prepared Public Speaking Contest
First Year Agriculture Student In Grade 7-10

1. Anne Mielnik, Ephrata; 2. Carol Gonzalez, Garden Spot; 3. Heather Oberholtzer, Elizabethtown.

Senior Prepared Public Speaking Contest

1. Elizabeth Hess, Manheim; 2. Andy Bollinger, Cloister; 3. Tina Umbrell, Elizabethtown.

FFA Creed Speaking Contest

1. Heather Oberholtzer, Elizabethtown; 2. Lewis Horning, Cloister; 3. Andrea Kreider, Solanco.

Conservation Public Speaking

1. Joleen Herbert, Lancaster Mennonite; 2. Marci Harnish, Manheim; 3. Tiny Miller, Pequea Valley.

Extemporaneous Public Speaking

1. Jason Reifsnyder, Garden Spot; 2. Kyle Harnish, Penn Manor; 3. Virginia Nolt, Ephrata.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Mercer County 4-H

Four-H members have many opportunities to acquire abilities they can use throughout their lives. Seven Mercer County 4-H'ers sharpened their public speaking skills by participating in the Dale Carnegie Course, one of the nation's leading communication workshops.

Tuesday, May 11 wrapped up the 12-week course that provided the 4-H'ers a unique chance to develop confidence, express themselves clearly, maintain poise under pressure, and motivate themselves and others. The class meets once each week. Participants learn communication skills during the session, then apply the new skills during the rest of the week for homework. Each participant addresses the class at least once each week, gaining practice in public speaking in a friendly, supportive atmosphere.

"The course was offered to 4-H members and leaders from Mercer, Lawrence, and Venengo Counties at a reduced cost. The fourty-four participants have had an excellent learning experience. It is exciting to see the individuals' progress each week. The benefit of the Dale Carnegie course lasts a lifetime," said Beth Lair, Mercer County 4-H agent, also a member of the class.

Mercer County 4-H'ers enrolled in the Dale Carnegie Course are Marsha Chess, Kamis Courtney, Jackie Reis, Samantha Reis, Chris Wright, and Alane Kochems.

Somerset County 4-H

The twenty-ninth annual Somerset County 4-H public speaking contest was conducted Wednesday evening, April 28, at the St. Peter's School in Somerset.

Fifty 4-H members participated in the event.— 29 in the junior division and 21 in the senior division.

Winners in the contest were as follows: junior division finalists; Alison Beeghly Mindy Cochran, Cassandra Hay, Erin Livengood, Else Melvin, and Scott Rhoads.

Senior division finalists were Karen Rhoads, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Allen Rhoads and Andrea Blough, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Blough.

Senior division finalists will compete at the State 4-H Days contest at the Pennsylvania State University held July 27-29. Other senior division finalists were Jennifer Black, Valerie Castro, Laura Miller, and Gina Reynolds.

Judges for the evening's competition included Tom Anderson, Roberta Antram, Rhonda Duppstadt, Martha Kerns, Jill Luster, and Mrs. Larry Shober.

Junior leaders who served as room chairmen included Ben Miller, Jackie Rhoads, Brian Shaffer, Todd Suder, Heather Welch, and James Yoder.

The event was sponsored by the Somerset County 4-H Development Fund, Inc. and the Somerset Co. Farmers' Association, which contributed premium and expense money, and the Somerset County agricultural extension office.

Adams County 4-H Club presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers, news reporters, song leaders, and game leaders were acquainted with their duties and responsibilities at the 1993 4-H officers training session.

An Adams County 4-H Senate Committee planned the session to help each officer become better informed of their particular office responsibilities.

Specific workshop presenters were Mary Jane Hilbert, CCNB Bank, Treasurers' Workshop; Rob Holt, Gettysburg Times, News Reporters' Workshop; Mary Grim, Secretaries' Workshop; 4-H teen leaders Travis Green, Gettysburg, Angie Giardullo, York Springs, Debbie Wilkinson, Gettysburg, and Beau Ramsburg, Gettysburg, Game and Song Leaders' Workshop; and Abe Bucher, 4-H teen leader, New Oxford and jared Tyson, County 4-H Agent, Presidents' and Vice Presidents' Workshop. More than 70 4-H members attended.

Special recognition was given to the Abbottstown and Gettysburg Horse 4-H clubs for having all their officer positions represent at officers training. Registration was done by Debbie Wilkinson, Gettysburg; Denise Green, Gettysburg; and Beau Ramsburg, Gettysburg. Each officer received a 4-H notepad and 4-H pencil from the Adams County 4-H Senate. Refreshments were served by the York Springs 4-H Club.

NEW JOHN DEERE 385 ROUND BALER

The new John Deere 385 Round Baler makes 1,050-pound bales 4-feet wide by 5-feet high – an easy fit for inside feeding. They're also perfect for transporting two-bales-wide.

Of course, the new 385 has all the hay-saving advantages made famous by John Deere. The low-profile pickup rides just in front of the baler tires for accurate ground gauging. Side flares and optional converging wheels help guide big or windblown windrows into the large feed opening.

The new 385 also features diamond-tread belts for fast bale starts. The 7-inch-wide belts cover over 90 percent of the bale surface so more leaves stay inside the bale. And with the mechanical monitoring system, it's easy to turn out solid, uniform bales that hold their shape and shed water.

For quality bales that are easy to make, transport, and feed, check out the new 385 Round Baler.

MEETS THE CHALLENGE

When You Buy A Brillion You Get The Best

BRILLION FLAIL SHREDDERS keep going when others stop! One of the most important features is that you get the heaviest gearbox on the market with this machine. 12 & 15 foot.

HFC FIELD CULTIVATOR

HEAVY RESIDUE...NO PROBLEM

Five rows of shanks and 26" of underframe clearance makes working heavy residue...no problem. True 6" shank spacing means leveler fields, better chemical incorporation, and better seedbeds.

Featuring a newly designed C-shank assembly. Brillion started with a "bulked up" ductile iron shank bracket, added a hardened steel bushing and grease zerk. The result is extended shank life guaranteed by Brillion's new shank warrantee. Don't compromise; See your Brillion Dealer today.

SOIL BUILDERS are a primary conservation tool that breaks up plow pan to absorb moisture and blends surface residue into the soil with enough residue left on top to control wind and water erosion. 5-13 Shank.

We have a size to fit your operation...stop in and we'll talk.

Valuable Farm

110 Acres +/- Farm in Windsor Township, York County, Pa.

Attention Investors, Developers, Farmers

Here is a farm with outstanding potential. The land is mostly all clear and rolling with a view for miles. There is 20 acres or so surrounding the house & barns. The pasture has a stream. Very nice setting.

Road frontage galore. Approximatley 1673 feet on White Oak Rd. Approximately 880 feet on Craley Rd. and approximately 400 feet on Blacksmith Rd. Public sewer is along these roads on the South on a downhill grade. Public water is closeby on the West and Northwest. Other developments are popping up all around this property.

The farmstead has a 2 story frame home in good condition. The huge barns were used for beef cattle. There are 2 mobile homes on the property presently used as rental units. The valley with the farmstead would make a beautiful setting for a farmette.

If you are looking for a farm to farm this is a good one as there is very little unuseable land. The cropland is in good condition with good conservation practices.

Call for an appointment to see the boundaries.

Terms: 10% day of auction balance in 60 days. Balance of terms by Rob Lloyd of Stock & Leader - Attorney. Balance of terms day of auction.

HEMORRHAGIC LIVER SYNDROME IN LAYING HENS

Robert F. Wideman, Ph.D.
Professor of Poultry Science

Recently we were surprised to see areas of bleeding (hemorrhage) in the livers of laying hens that had been used in an experiment designed to evaluate treatments for kidney stones.

In poultry, the most common types of kidney stones are soluble in acidic urine. Researchers at Penn State are conducting an ongoing series of experiments to evaluate the use of sulfur-containing feed supplements to dissolve kidney stones.

When high levels of these supplements, called methionine and methionine hydroxy analog, are fed to pullets and hens, the liver acts on the compound to release the sulfur, which then enters the urine as sulfuric acid. In two previous experiments, diets supplemented with methionine and methionine hydroxy analog successfully acidified the urine and dissolved kidney stones without causing liver hemorrhages.

When we evaluate feed supplements, our experimental design always includes groups of "control" birds that do not receive any of the supplement being tested. The "control" feed does contain all of the other ingredients being fed to "experimental" birds. In the flock with hemorrhagic liver syndrome, the "control" hens had hemorrhagic livers and the incidence of liver hemorrhages was not correlated with the different levels of methionine and methionine hydroxy analog that had been used to supplement the diets of "experimental" hens. Therefore, we reached the preliminary conclusion that the liver hemorrhages were not caused by the supplements we were testing.

We noticed the livers of affected birds were enlarged and tended to have a yellow or pale color instead of the normal brown color. The livers also were spongy, and their mushy texture made them highly susceptible to damage when tissue samples were collected. These are key indications of "fatty liver syndrome," which is commonly observed in egg laying hens.

During egg production, the fats and proteins found in egg yolks are produced by the liver and released into the blood. For a variety of reasons, excessive quantities of fat can accumulate in the liver cells, a condition which is known as "fatty liver syndrome."

A diagnosis of fatty liver syndrome was confirmed by Dr. Patty Dunn of the Penn State Animal Diagnostic Lab. As the liver becomes engorged with fat it also becomes very fragile, and microscopic areas of bleeding and blood clot formation can develop. Microscopic hemorrhages and blood clots are common features of fatty liver syndrome, but we were seeing unusually large hemorrhages and blood clots covering large portions of the surfaces of the liver that lie just under the breast bone in our affected hens. This highly regional location of the liver hemorrhages provided a clue to understanding the likely cause of the problem.

We recalled that during pullet grow-out and throughout egg production, the affected flock was highly excitable and never became adapted to the presence of humans. In the research facilities we use at Penn State, feed is distributed by hand, and eggs are collected and recorded by hand. In most flocks cared for in this fashion, the birds become accustomed to human contact and remain calm in the presence of researchers and caretakers.

However, for reasons that are not known, the affected flock never calmly accepted the presence of humans. Sporadic "high strung" flocks also occur under commercial conditions. We believe the large liver hemorrhages developed when excited hens with fatty livers bounced off the sides and bottoms of their cages. Presumably the impact against the cage caused the breast bone or keel to compress the fragile liver and caused the bleeding. This would account for the frequent location of the hemorrhages on the surface of the liver adjacent to the keel.

The causes of fatty livers in affected hens and the reason the affected hens were highly excitable could not be determined. However, a follow-up study demonstrated that very high levels of methionine and methionine hydroxy analog can not cause the hemorrhagic liver syndrome. No visible, microscopic or biochemical evidence of liver damage could be detected in hens fed very high levels of these supplements. The highest supplement levels we used did cause the hens to cease egg production.

We now hope to evaluate the use of these supplements as a method for molting hens to recycle them for an additional period of egg production. New research findings often occur in this manner, as secondary or unintended observations made during experiments designed for entirely different purposes.

The correct description for this process is not "luck" — it is "serendipity."

Wheat, Barley Crop Certifications Due

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — On April 30, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) closed the 1993 farm program sign-up, period.

Berks County farmers have until June 15 to report the acreage and intended uses of their wheat, oats, barley, rye, and other small grains to the ASCS office. Small grain crops that are not reported by this deadline will be ineligible for program benefits.

Before reporting, farmers can request that ASCS measure their program acreage. The measurements are furnished at cost and guaranteed for the crop year.

"Measurement service is not only valuable to farm program participants, but to any producer who desires an accurate acreage for any reason," Troutman said.

Farm program participants are required to correctly certify their entire farm after planting to be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments, and other benefits. The reports contain crops and acreage planted, the uses to be made of these crops, acreage removed from crop production to the acreage conservation reserve, and conservation use acres for pay.

Producers who have not certified their fall-seeded crops are urged to do so before the June 15 deadline, the ASCS official said.

The new Model 640 roll-belt Ford New Holland delivers four-foot wide, five-foot diameter bales. New hydraulic density control combined with roll and belt bale forming design delivers densest bales. Wide pickup simplifies full-end feeding for tight, firm bale ends.

Roll-Belt Round Baler From Ford New Holland

First-time operators of the new "640" are surprised by its ease of operation.

The new baler is available with either a 6-bar high-speed windrow pickup the same width as the bale chamber or a 4-bar unit that's wider than the bale chamber for fuller end-of-bale feeding. The design results in better shaped bales with tight firm ends, even in a wide variety of crops and conditions.

A floor roll carries the weight as the bale forms to reduce wear and stress on the bale forming belts, according to Payton. He said that patented "640" pivoting front rolls provide a large bale core cavity for aggressive bale core forming in dry slippery crops. In addition to large windrows of alfalfa and other legumes, operators report the "640" easily handles irregular windrows of grass as well as cornstalks.

A choice of factory-installed tying systems includes Bale Command electronic wrapping that lets the operator program twine wrapping patterns. Fastnet wrap can also be used on Model 640 balers with Bale Command. Auto-wrap mechanical automatic twine tying is also available.

Krause Introduces Flex-Wing Tandem Disc Harrow

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The 4990 Series tandem disc harrow is the newest addition to the Krause line of tillage products.

A medium weight disc harrow with an average of 410 pounds per foot of cut, the 4990 Series is offered in three models from 28-foot to 34-foot working widths to provide an excellent match for high horsepower tractors. The 4990 Series is versatile enough to handle any discing job from precise chemical incorporation and seedbed finishing in the spring to slashing through the heaviest fall crop residue.

Extra-heavy duty main and wing frames, a self-leveling hydraulic tongue, single-location remote depth control, and overlapping disc gangs are just a few of the features. Choice of 8-inch or 9¼ -inch blade spacing and a wide array of 22-inch or 24-inch blades let you custom tailor a 4990 Series disc to the exact needs of your operation.

All 4990 Series discs feature flexible "C" type bearing standards. Rock-Flex models have the additional protection of heavier blades and ductile iron spools. Regreasable "SuperSeal" bearings, encased in rubber for shock protection, assure long bearing life.

Rugged 1½ -inch diameter alloy tie rods — 30 percent to 70 percent stronger than other brands are equipped with a castellated nut on both ends for ease of servicing. Spools are heavy cast iron, precision-machined with large diameter bells for a perfect fit against the disc blades. Field flotation is created by the use of large 10.00 x 15-inch 8-ply tires on the center and wing sections.

A medium weight disc harrow with an average of 410 pounds per foot of cut, the 4990 Series is offered in three models from 28-foot to 34-foot working widths to provide an excellent match for high horsepower tractors.

The three-section 4990 Series tandem discs feature overcenter fold for easy road transport. Transport width is 16 feet on all models. Transport height ranges from 12 feet to 15 feet.

Finishing attachments available include a two or three-row tine harrow.

Deere Releases Safety Logo To Industry

MOLINE, Ill. — Deere & Company has announced that it is providing its "Safety live with it" logo free-of-charge to the agriculture industry for use in all forms of safety communication.

John Deere created the logo in 1987 and uses it in safty promotion and equipment advertisements. In the years following, the logo has become a familiar safety reminder to many farmers and others in the industry.

As a way to broaden exposure to the safety message of the logo, Deere decided to release the logo to the industry with the hope that other companies and organizations will use it in their communications with farmers.

Deere's action parallels a number of earlier decisions by the company to make certain patents available to the industry at no cost in the interest of broadening the adoption of the designs to benefit farmers. In 1971, Deere released its patented rollover protective structure and four years later its patented method for covering power take-off shafts.

In 1982 the company released its patent for a hinged pto master shield and in 1984 the patent for a transmission device that reduces the potential for tractor movement when the tractor is bypass started in gear. In 1989 Deere released its patented design for a operator presence system for cotton pickers.

Automatic Equipment Manufacturing Company's line of navigator guidance systems offer multiple benefits to users. The row crop guidance system is available in two models: heavy duty 3-point narrow and heavy duty 3-point wide. When used with a cultivator, the Navigator eliminates the costly root pruning that can occur without a guidance system.

Guidance Systems Offer Multiple Benefits

PENDER, Neb. — Automatic Equipment Manufacturing Company's line of Navigator guidance systems offer multiple benefits to users, including stress-free field work and reduced implement wear and tear, according to Automatic's president.

The row crop guidance system is available in two models: heavy duty 3-point narrow and heavy duty 3-point wide. The heavy duty 3-point wide model should be used on tractors with more than 180 hp, especially on 12-row or larger ridge-till equipment and with large 4-wheel drive tractors. Two custom-made sizes are also available. The Navigator Guidance System also fits John Deere 46-inch tire models and Case IH 46-inch tire models.

When used with a cultivator, the Navigator eliminates the costly root pruning that can occur without a guidance system, he said. It is also extremely helpful when doing night planting and cultivating.

"Both models of the Navigator help farmers plant, cultivate, or harvest more acres per day," Hesse said. "And that's an important management technique."

The Navigator Row Crop Guidance System features many design advantages including:

- Few moving parts. One cylinder, one electro-hydraulic valve, and eight needle-bearing cam followers ride on a track of high carbon steel to provide smooth, friction-free lateral movement, eliminating wear points.
- Eliminates excessive stress and pull on hydraulic components that are designed into other guidance systems.
- Versatile enough to work on pull-type equipment.
- Can be used with or without stabilizing or steering coulters, eliminating the unnecessary expense of additional equipment.
- Features an Auto Slope that utilizes a slope-sensing pendulum that automatically compensates for sidehill drift.

Corto 300 Mower-Conditioner Cuts 10-Foot Swath

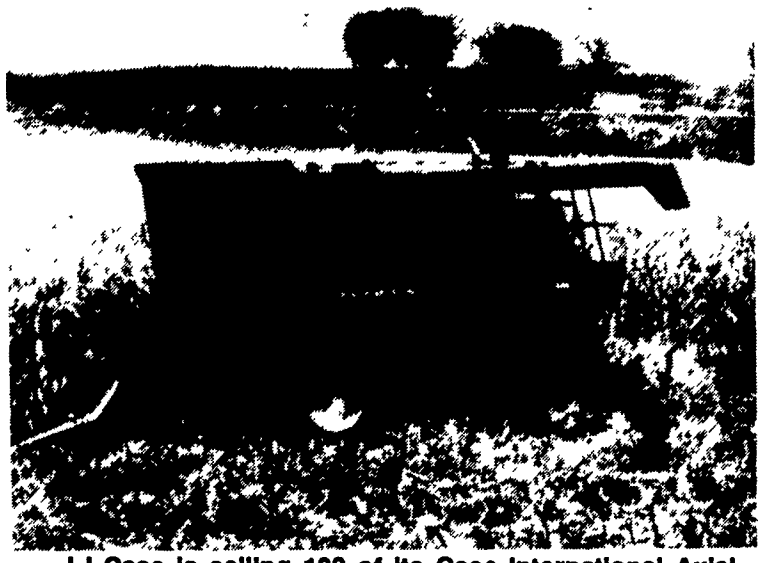
COLUMBUS, Ind. — Corto 300 drum mower conditioner from Claas of America, Inc., provides an extra-wide 10 feet mowing width, increasing productivity and decreasing time in the field.

The hydraulic control unit, operated from the tractor seat, permits easy changeover from working to transport position.

The Corto 300 is designed for maximum output in any crop or terrain. It is equipped with stepless cutting height and ground level tilt adjustments and four cutting drums with three knives per drum to provide a clean cut. Four drums lay the cut crop in fluffy straight rows while the conditioner scratches the hay/grass stem, allowing moisture to escape so baling can be done quicker.

Other features include swing head gear for maneuverability, hermetically sealed cutting height adjustment, and large drive elements running in oil bath for minimum wear. All working and drive elements are easily accessed for servicing.

For more information, contact Claas of America, Inc., 3030 Norcross Drive, Columbus, IN 47202, (800) 368-1516.



J I Case is selling 100 of its Case International Axial-Flow® combines, manufactured in East Moline, Ill., to Operation Farm Ukraine '93, a project designed to expand the Ukrainian market for U.S. agricultural equipment, services, and technology. Case Sells 100 Combines To Operation Farm Ukraine

RACINE, Wis. — J I Case announced the sale of 100 Case International Axial-Flow® combines to Operation Farm Ukraine '93.

In conjunction with the sale, Case is cooperating with several other companies to train 100 U.S. farmers who will be traveling to Ukraine. They will assist farmers there with the spring planting of 500,000 acres of land on approximately 1,000 farms.

The operation, which calls for a first-year sale of $70 million in U.S. technology and manufactured agricultural goods, is being coordinated by the Ukraine-based firm of Trans Agro Services and Miami-based Trans-Chemical Corporation.

Jay Suchland, J I Case business development director, International Business Group, negotiated Case's contribution to the operation which, in addition to the 100 Case Model 1660 and 1666 combines, includes the sale of 33 Hagie and Melroe sprayers, as well as ongoing training and parts and service support.

"Operation Farm Ukraine '93 provides a tremendous opportunity for us to supply to another country the kind of agricultural technology only the United States can provide. This is especially appropriate at a time when the U.S is working so hard to offset a multi-billion-dollar trade deficit," said Suchland. "Case is proud to be a key player in this venture."

According to materials prepared by Trans-Chemical, the program is designed to expand the Ukrainian market for U.S. goods, services, and technology. Technical representatives from Case, Trans-Chemical, ICI Seeds, and other key participants will be stationed in Ukraine for the duration of the project.

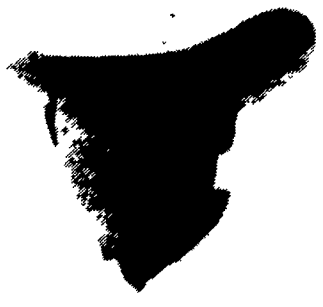
The Axial-Flow combine design introduced in 1977 remains a Case exclusive, providing a gentler, more efficient harvest for better quality grain and more of it, according to Gerry Salzman, Case product manager-combines. "During the last few years we've continued to make numerous upgrades in our Case International combine line, taking an excellent product and making it even better," he said.

Robbins To Direct Limousin Shows

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Paul Robbins has been named new director of marketing and shows for the North American Limousin Foundation (NALF). Robbins will coordinate the breed's Medal of Excellence Show program and play an integral role in promoting Limousin cattle through all NALF-sponsored shows and sales across the country.

In his former position, Robbins serves as executive secretary for the Southeastern Limousin Breeder's Association (SELBA). During his tenure, SELBA grew more quickly than any other regional association in the United States.

"I'm looking forward to keeping the lines of communication between NALF and its members open," Robbins said. "I especially welcome the opportunity to work on a national level with NALF members."



Paul Robbins has been named director of marketing and shows for the North American Limousin Foundation in Englewood, Colo.

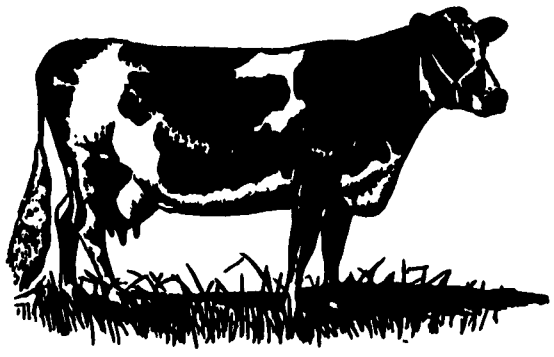
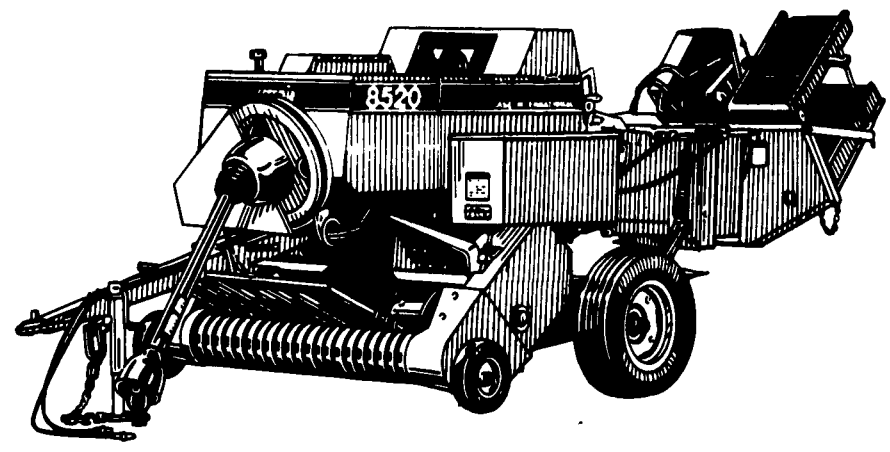
"Her" Choice





If Holsteins could talk, the conversation around the hay manger would be "Case IH Center Line Balers".

Why? More leaves per bale.

Our low profile pickup allows alfalfa hay to retain more dry leaves. We don't lift the windrow as high, saving leaves at the pickup. We also start to compress the hay before it enters the chamber to lock in leaves throughout the flake...leaves don't settle to the bottom and fall out the back of the baler to the degree of older style square balers.

More leaves means more milk, without increased overhead. Many studies show increased production of $1,000 per year over a milking herd of 100 with 2% leaf savings!

Deere Signs Agreements

MOLINE, Ill. — Deere & Company announced the signing of cooperative agreements with Zetor s.p. and Brno Diesel, both of Brno, the Czech Republic, with respect to agricultural tractors and diesel engines.

Under the terms of the agreement, Deere & Company has secured certain distribution rights to the Zetor line of 40-85 h.p. agricultural tractors and the Brno Diesel line of engines. Deere's distribution of the Zetor and Brno Diesel products will be phased in over the next few years. Initial distribution plans are targeted to markets in Latin America and the Far East.

In addition, a variety of joint engineering projects will be undertaken. Deere also has an option to make future investments in Zetor and Brno Diesel if it is determined to be mutually beneficial.

Deere & Company Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Hans W. Becherer said, "The agreements with Zetor and Brno Diesel offer Deere access to lower-price product lines that are complementary to Deere's current products and that can be effectively targeted to market segments of importance to the company around the world.

"With these agreements, Deere is better positioned to take advantage of growth opportunities in emerging markets," Becherer said.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Combines Offer Choice Of Engines

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — In nits 70th year as a leader in combine engineering, Gleaner® continues its tradition of success by offering its Series 2 rotary combine with a choice of the durable, farm-proven Cummins liquid-cooled diesel engine or the Deutz air-cooled diesel engine.

The four models in the Series 2 Gleaner® combine line include the R42, R52, R62, and R72. All are available with the choice of the two engines except the R72, which is available only with the air-cooled Deutz engine.

Gleaner® also offers a wide variety of crop headers and other advanced features.

"We want the customer to know that we're giving him exactly what he asked us for — a choice," said Jerry Weaver, general marketing manager for Gleaner® combines at AGGO Corporation. "Some farmers are loyal to the low-maintenance Cummins diesel engines that have been dependable for years in the field, and some want the high-performance efficiency of the Deutz air-cooled engines, now they have a choice."

Though Gleaner® offer a large assortment of opinions on its combines, it is the many standard features that set them apart from the competition. These features include the Natural Flow rotary harvesting system that puts cleaner, more marketable grain in the bin, improving productivity; the ComforTECH® cab equipped with a high-tech console; Grammer® air-ride seat; and more solar controlled glass for greater visibility and cab cooling. Another important feature of the Gleaner® combine is its serviceability. With 25 percent fewer drives, there are less parts to replace and, in addition, every belt or hose is designed to be changed in 20 minutes or less.

Gleaner® continues its tradition of success by offering its Series 2 rotary combine with a choice of the durable, farm-proven Cummins liquid-cooled diesel engine or the Deutz air-cooled diesel engine.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

HIGH TENSILE FENCE...THE FARMER'S BEST INVESTMENT

The Beaver Fence Systems are tops! We installed 1 mile of their fence on our farm on Feb. 3, 1993, full size post, 3-1/2 feet deep, excellent braces. We used 5 strand (2 elec.) high tensil, all in place in just 8-1/2 hours! The fence is as straight as an arrow-excellent equipment-very efficient work!

"I am a hard man to convince, but after I saw how Beaver built the fence, I'm ready to put my digging iron away," says David W. Brubaker of Honey Grove Acres, RD1, Box 629 Honey Grove, PA 17035

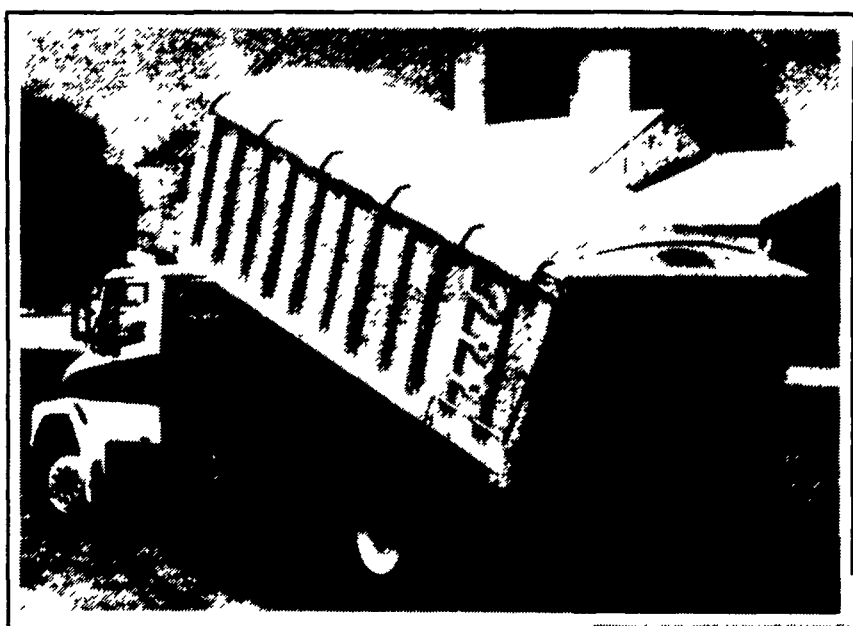
EBY AGRI-DUMP BODIES

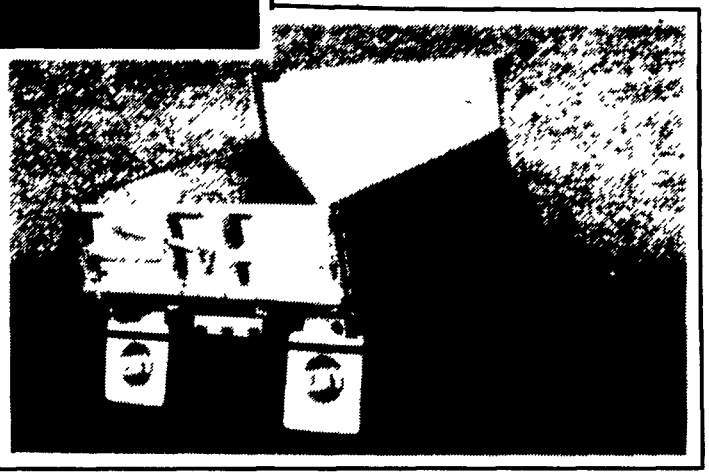
Rugged...built like a heavy dump truck



Eby Aluminum Agri-Dump Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:
- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' for grain bodies and 10½' for general purpose dump bodies. A long list of standard features such as tarp rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and grain chute.

When you select your next grain body or general purpose dump body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.



CHECK OUT THESE FEATURES/BENEFITS
- Up to 40% lighter than steel, for greater payload
- Designed for long life
- Resale value
- Corrosion resistant, never needs painting
- Appearance to complement any truck
- Complete list of popular options, including tailgates, tarps and sides

STANDARD SPECIFICATIONS
- 6" heavy-duty extruded longitudinal sills
- 3" crossmembers on 12" centers on body lengths to 14'; 4" crossmembers on 12" centers on lengths over 14'
- 5"x1¼ " extruded side posts, slanted for improved aerodynamics; 3"x2" heavy wall top rail
- .125" thich side sheets; .188" thick floor sheet (.250" thickness optional)
- Single acting tailgate with center flow chute, hinged top
- Rear ladder rung with step mounted on mud-flap bracket
- Includes mudflaps, aluminum splash shield, ICC-approved bumper and lights.

AminoTek®

HERE'S WHAT THEY'RE SAYING

"After hearing about AminoTek®, we decided to give it a try... and we got almost a 10-pound increase."

Marv and Betty Sauder,
Ephrata, PA

"In March of '91, our cows were doing pretty good. They were 153 days in milk and were averaging 65 lbs. of milk/cow/day with a 3.9% butterfat test. However, with the milk increases we were hearing about from AminoTek, we decided we would give it a try.

"The first week our cows were on AminoTek, they really jumped in milk. By the end of March, our production had increased to 74.3 pounds of milk/cow/day, and we got almost a 10-pound increase. By the end of April, days-in-milk had increased to 173 days, but the cows maintained a 73.5 pound average with a 3.9% butterfat test.

"With our milk increase, we are very pleased with our herd health. Our cows are freshening real good, cleaning well and taking off. Our reproduction has been real good, and our calving interval for the last year has run between 12.8 to 13.1.

"Betty and I are very happy with the AminoTek response and the excellent service from Sensenig."

"I was never on a feed program so long and remained so satisfied. I am very happy with AminoTek®"

E. Stoltzfus
Honey Brook, PA

"I decided to try Master Mix Protek® feeds in '89 because of poor breeding and constant ketosis problems. I tried a number of different feeds, and was on a mineral program for five years before trying Master Mix Protek. My production improved a lot in the first few months, and it has been even better during the last two years of feeding AminoTek. My ketosis problems took a while to get better, but the last year, I have been in high moisture corn, and I hardly know what ketosis is. My cows hold their back fat much better and hold their peaks a lot longer.

"In February, my cows peaked at 84 pounds/head/day. It is hard to believe how the cows just hold their production. I was never on a feed program so long and remained so satisfied. I am very happy with AminoTek."

FREE REPLACEMENT & UNLIMITED MILEAGE

The Nationwide Jetzon

Passenger Tire Warranty

A UNIQUE warranty concept, originated in 1964 and still unmatched by any other brand...
UNIQUE because it covers tires that are unserviceable for almost any reason, including road hazards such as unrepairable punctures, cuts and breaks;
UNIQUE because replacement is made FREE during the first 50% of treadwear;
UNIQUE because there is no time or mileage limitation;
UNIQUE because it is honored by Jetzon distributors throughout the country;
UNIQUE because there is no cumbersome record keeping required;
UNIQUE because it is not restricted to the original purchaser.

Nitrate Testing Kits Available

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Government Services Center Grand Opening and County Fair will be held on Saturday, May 15, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the new facility located on Western Road just off of Rt. 202 in West Chester.

In celebration of this, the Chester County Conservation District will be making free water testing kits available at the district office or booth.

Obtained through a grant from the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Education Office, these kits are designed to be a screening tool to detect nitrate pollution in water supplies. Water supplies testing positive for nitrate should be retested by a certified laboratory.

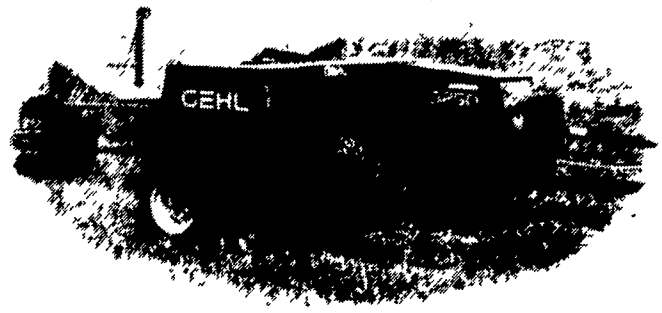
Nitrates can enter the water supplies through many different routes, one of them being through the application of fertilizer or manure to eroding cropland. The National Association of Conservation Districts recently sponsored Soil and Water Stewardship Week with the theme of "Hands of Healing."

In keeping with this, the Chester County Conservation District, through the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Program, offers technical and financial assistance to farmers in the Chesapeake Bay watershed interested in "healing" the hurts of erosion. Contact Jim Saltsman at the district office at (215) 696-5126 for more information.

GEHL

BIG SAVINGS ON A SUPER BALER

When it's time to bale, you demand reliability and performance. And that's what a Gehl baler delivers.



Model 3200 Hydraulic Bale Thrower

Here's How:

- Gehl's simple knotter, with fewer moving parts, ties a stronger knot.
- The wide hay pickup has close-spaced tines and flared side sheets to bring in more crop.
- A self-aligning plunger system means reduced wear for longer life.
- The optional hydraulic bale thrower has a self-contained hydraulic system and accurate electric controls.

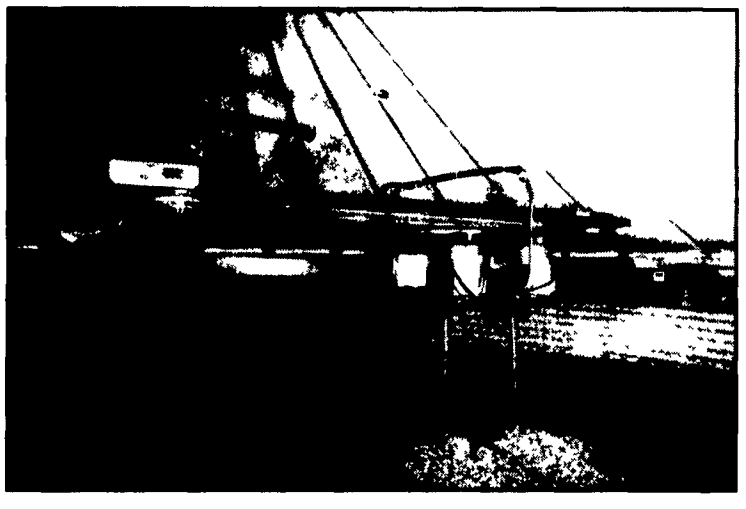
STIR DRYING SAVES MONEY

Design III Stir–Ator Is Engineered To Do Just That — Save Money



A Design III Stir-Ator turns any drying bin into a self contained drying system. Get the drying capacity of a large continuous flow system at less cost–with storage as a bonus. A Stir-Ator gives you wet holding, drying, and storage, all in the same drying bin. It also loosens, mixes, and circulates grain so it dries faster. Save money this harvest season with a Design III Stir-Ator from DMC.

USING NEW TECHNOLOGIES TO ENHANCE LEARNING

Daniel R. Hagen
Associate Professor
Animal Science

Penn State has begun investing extensively in both new and remodeled facilities which allow faculty to use the newest computerized technologies to enhance instruction.

These technologies make it possible to develop and deliver instructional material with the aid of computers housed in specially equipped classrooms.

The types of material can range from lecture information projected from a computer onto large screen to multimedia presentations that convey facts and ideas using a variety of sights and sounds. Photographs, drawings, films, videos, animation, photographic slides, and sound recordings all may serve as source material for developing visually rich presentations that can grab the attention of a generation of students raised on television and video games.

Affordable computer programs are now available for developing multimedia presentations on personal computers for individuals or groups. Until recently, these programs were very expensive and required costly hardware. Multimedia and associated technologies promise to revolutionize teaching methods in many subject areas, including animal reproduction. These technologies have come at a time when instructors find it increasingly difficult to offer a complete undergraduate course in reproduction of domestic animals.

For instance, basic research over the past decade has produced an explosion of information on the regulation of reproduction. This information provides the foundation for developing new concepts on chemical and hormonal mechanisms regulating reproduction and other areas such as the functions and manipulation of sperm, eggs, and embryos. However, instructors who want to keep their students up-to-date on the latest concepts of biology find it difficult to incorporate them into established courses and still have enough time to teach traditional — but important — topics such as reproductive anatomy, estrus detection, production of sperm, reproductive behavior, development of the embryo and fetus, and birth.

Daniel R. Hagen

Increasing the amount of class time and the number of college credits is not the solution to the problem. As college tuition and other costs continue to climb, an increasing number of students already need more than four years to complete their baccalaureate degrees. At the same time, financial support is decreasing for many universities and colleges, especially those in agriculture. That often means a smaller faculty and narrowing base of expertise. These factors combined make a single course in reproduction less complete and undoubtedly reduce the level of preparation for graduates as they embark on their careers.

To compensate, planning is under way to incorporate some of the new computer technologies — including multimedia — into existing reproduction courses at Penn State. Dan Deaver and I have applied for a federal grant to support the development of an instructional module in conjunction with faculty at universities in neighboring states. The module incorporates newly developed material, microscopic images, photos, line drawings, and images taken from slides and existing videos. This array of information will be transferred to either laser discs or compact discs to be retrieved by a computer and incorporated by faculty into lessons. The lessons could be delivered in the classroom or used as review or supplementary in-depth study material by students working alone or in groups outside the classroom.

Because the materials can be put into an endless variety of sequences, it would be possible to use them for examinations as well. Interactive computer programs can be developed for students to work through an exercise, matching the difficulty of the session with individual skills and abilities.

The initial module is expected to serve as a prototype for developing modules in other areas. It would be duplicated and distributed to the faculty who contribute to its development and be made available to other universities.

The final product will provide a challenging format that should open new doors to learning for our students. It will not replace the instructor with a computer, but it should provide more learning opportunities for students and allow them to learn more without jeopardizing quality of instruction.

Although this is a significant undertaking, it is hoped that it will eventually lead to increasing use of these exciting new technologies.

The potential of these new tools is enormous. If we can put them to good use, they will benefit both our students and the society in which they will work.

Financial Analysis From A Lender's Perspective

Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a seven part series to explain how Farm Credit analyzes farm and ranch businesses. A different aspect of financial analysis is addressed in each issue.

Analyzing loan repayment — how we estimate future crop and livestock income he most important factor in deciding to loan money is a reliable analysis showing the loan can be repaid from future income generated by the farm or ranch operation. Since that analysis includes income from crops or livestock not yet grown or marketed, it's necessary to make some assumptions to project future income. This analysis involves projecting both yields and prices.

Yields

The primary source of information for a lender's projections on crop or livestock yields is the operator's records for the last few years. In addition, the lender must understand the operator's production plans for the future as well as current conditions, such as drought affecting the area. Future projections for yields will be consistent with the operator's historical yields, unless other factors clearly support increased or reduced yields.

Prices

Near-term prices and yields are used to project repayment for annual operating loans. A near-term price or yield is the price or output expected over the budget or marketing cycle. These figures reflect the status of the industry and area (surplus or shortage, drought or wet conditions, etc.) as well as the producer's ability to consistently obtain above or below average prices and yields. Projecting repayment with near-term prices and yields is a reliable method to analyze expected income and changes in working capital over the next operating cycle.

Normal prices and yields are used to project repayment on intermediate- and long-term loans. A normal price is the price which the market is not expected to fall below for a sustained period during the next three to five years. Normal yields are minimum yields which the producer is expected to produce over the three- to five-year period. Normal prices and yields are used to determine the customer's ability to service all debts over the life of the loan. They are also used when:

- Expansion or changes in an operation make use of information from the operator's records inappropriate.
- A new operator or enterprise without history is being financed.
- The operator's records reflect periods considered unusual, either above or below average for reasons such as weather, health, or other uncontrollable circumstances.

Lender projections

To determine near-term or normal prices, a lender must understand the history and project the future of commodities produced by its customers. The lender must also understand individual customers since the ability to both produce and market commodities can vary greatly among producers.

Analyzing loan repayment is not an exact science but an art that is most correct when reliable records are combined with an understanding of the customer's operation and the industry.

Next week we will look at net earnings.

Elliott Receives Advising Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dr. Herschel A. Elliott, professor of agricultural engineering and coordinator of the environmental resource management program at Penn State, has received the 1993 College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society's Excellence in Academic Advising Award.

Elliott will receive the award at the College of Agricultural Sciences 1993 Spring Commencement on Saturday, May 15, at 9 a.m. in Eisenhower Auditorium on Penn State's University Park Campus.

The award recognizes faculty with outstanding skills in academic advising, career planning, and personal counseling. Advisers in the college are nominated by alumni, faculty, students, and administrators.

"Dr. Elliott exemplifies what an adviser should be," said colleague Dr. James R. Pratt, assistant professor of aquatic ecology. "He is available to students, he is aware of career needs and the state of the job market, and he has the experience and caring attitude needed to help students through difficult situations."

As coordinator of the interdisciplinary environmental resource management (ERM) program, Elliott is the first contact for students entering the college's largest program. He provides transitional counseling, often to students in search of career goals. Elliott also advises the student ERM club and coordinates internships for ERM students.

"Beyond the mechanics of course selection and scheduling, I derive great satsifaction from counseling students at the crossroads, helping them to define and choose among various paths," Elliott said.

Because ERM is an interdisciplinary program, Elliott oversees advisers and faculty in several departments. He works to assure that each adviser has the most current information needed by students. He also bears the largest share of advising responsibility in the ERM program, advising more than 150 students.

"To me, Dr. Elliott personifies the ideal academic adviser," said one advisee. "He has been a friend as well as an academic adviser and career counselor. He has helped me on numerous occasions because of his availability and willingness to talk."

Another advisee said, "Dr. Elliott attempts to develop the whole student. This kind of advising is remarkable when one considers all the responsibilities placed on the coordinator of an ever-changing and growing program."

Elliott joined Penn State as an associate professor in 1984 and became a full professor in 1990. Before joining Penn State he was an associate professor of agricultural engineering at the University of Delaware. Elliott is a registered professional engineer and a member of numerous honor societies and professional associations, including Tau Beta Pi.

Moyer & Son Inc. Receives Environmental Respect Award

SOUDERTON (Montgomery Co.) — Moyer & Son Inc. has been named a state winner in the Environmental Respect Awards program, honoring environmental stewardship among U.S. agricultural chemical/fertilizer retailers. The business is one of only 30 from across the country receiving the awards in 1993.

Hundreds of retail farm supply businesses were evaluated in the competition. State winners were selected based on the facility's proper design, storage and handling procedures in the physical plant, proper application methods, and concern for stewardship and safety among employees, customers, and the community.

An Environmental Respect Awards selection committee, made up of industry experts and past winners, reviewed the field of top dealer entries and selected the 30 state winners at a two-day meeting in St. Louis in April. The Environmental Respect Awards program was established in 1991 and is sponsored by Du Pont Agricultural Products. The program is conducted by Dealer Progress Magazine.

"This awards program is designed to motivate increased stewardship by recognizing dealers for their excellence," said Bill Kirk, vice president and general manager for Du Pont Agricultural Products. "Du Pont enjoys honoring ag chemical retailers who, like itself, make an effort to preserve the environment for future generations."

The program also has the mission of sharing the winners' stories with the general public.

"Getting positive news out about agriculture's commitment to environmental respect is probably the most exciting part of this program," said K. Elliott Nowels, associate publisher of Dealer Progress Magazine.

Each state winner will receive a crystal trophy and Environmental Respect jackets for all its employees. The state winners will also compete for eight regional awards worth $2,500 each, which will be announced in June. These top eight winners will then be honored at a special reception at the U.S. Capitol in late July, where one of these businesses will be named the national award winner and receive an additional Du Pont cash award of $10,000.

Regional winners will also visit Du Pont research facilities in Wilmington, Del. and attend the Agri-Dealer Legislative Conference, sponsored by The Fertilizer Institute (TFI), The National Agricultural Chemicals Association (NACA), and the Agricultural Retailers Association (ARA) this summer in Washington, D.C.

ASCS Issues Farm Program Report

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Berks County producers reported 43 percent of the 1992 base acreage for wheat and feed grains, according to Richard Troutman, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"Their reports mean that these producers complied with the 1992 farm program provisions and qualified for program benefits," Troutman said.

According to the final compliance report, the 1992 base acreage of county crops included 4,882 wheat acres, 21,095 corn acres, 3136 barley and oats acres, and 6,073 soybean acres.

Troutman said the 1992 farm program participants planted a total of 17,987 acres of program crops and removed 1,571 cropland acres from production to conserving uses. The idled acreage includes 856 acres designated as acreage conservation reserve and 715 acres under the 0/92 and 50/92 provisions.

Nationally, the 1992 farm programs removed a total of 19.5 million acres from production to conserving uses.

THE KUBOTA TRADITION

Kubota's L-Series tractors meet the demands of today's mid-size tractor users. Ranging from 20-40 PTO HP, they are ideal for small farming chores, weekend farming, light construction, commercial grass cutting, and a wide variety of maintenance and utility operations.

The Kubota tradition of quality performance, versatility, economy and durability can be found in each one. Quick-attach implements transform your L-Series Kubota into a mower, scraper, tractor/loader/backhoe, and more.

Create your own traditions of comfort and ease of operation with exciting options, including: power steering, glide shift transmission, and more. A narrow version is less than 4.4 feet wide. Heavy duty models offer enhanced loader performance. All models have features to reduce operator fatigue and enhance safety.

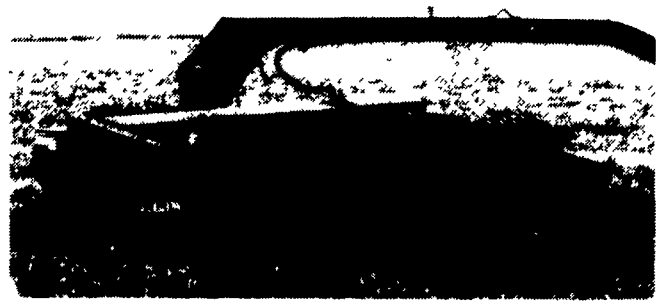
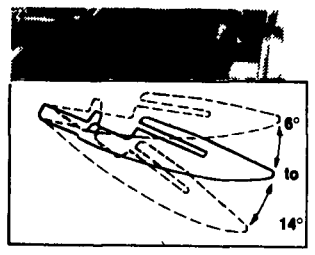
GEHL Swing Frame Mower Conditioners

1 ONLY - 12' Gehl Swing Frame In Stock At Old Price With 2 Year Warranty, Model 2240



Three point flotation support provides both lateral and vertical flotation. The header is carried on two outside arms and pivots on a center link for clean cutting in uneven fields. This faster reacting system provides outstanding cutterbar protection from rocks and other field obstructions. It's easily adjustable for varying field conditions.



Easily adjustable guard angle. Depending on field conditions you may want to adjust the angle on the cutterbar. By simply adjusting the centerlink (top photo), you have infinite variation from 6 to 14 degrees.

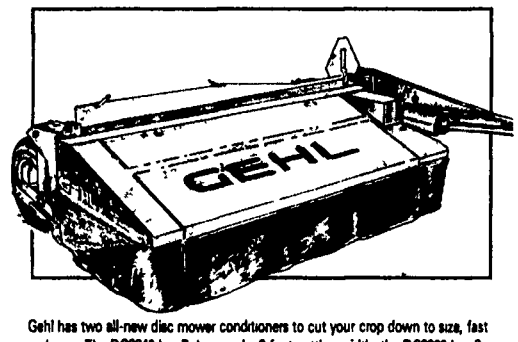
COST CUTTERS

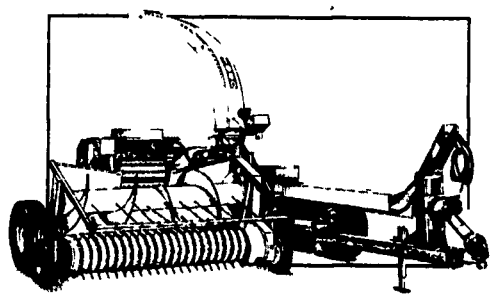


Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width, the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal angle hitch for smooth power transfer
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat

9' and 10½' Models In Stock

CHOP IT DOWN



Gehl forage harvesters get the job done faster with these performance features:

- Exclusive Auto-Max Load-Sensing System – Increase capacity by up to 20% Lets you operate at top capacity without the fear of downtime due to overloading
- Metal-Stop Metal Detector – Prevents machine damage and hardware disease.
- In-feed Hydraulic Knife Sharpener – Lets you sharpen knives in the field.
- Patented One-Sided Cutterbar Adjustment – Makes adjusting the cutterbar quick and easy.
- Three Models To Choose From – Including the largest capacity pull-type forage harvester on the market.

A Special Feature For All Case IH Grain Drills

Fluted Roll Feed Cup Assemblies Save Seed and Save Time

A Known Fact That Case IH Die-Cast Zinc Alloy Feed Cups Are Superior To Other Competitive Brands Long Life Comes From Oil-Impregnated, Molded Sintered Metal Inserts Acts As A Positive Bearing Surface To Surround And Support The Fluted Roll

Large throat clearance allows the handling of big seeds and prevents seed damage.
Exclusive tapered metered edge at the bottom of the feed cup provides unexcelled seeding accuracy, even seed flow, and more uniform spacing.

Precision engineered to fit your grain drill exactly!

Why settle for inferior look-alikes when you can have genuine Case IH fluted roll feed cup assemblies — renowned for accuracy, smooth operation and long life.

ULTRA-COMMAND™

THERE'S NEVER BEEN A POWERSHIFT LIKE THIS!

- Straight-line shuttle shift lets you move between forward and reverse with a single motion.
- Pulse Shift assures you'll move one gear at a time–with just a tap of the gearshift lever.
- Sequential Shift lets you move through the gears by holding the gearshift lever right or left.
- 18 forward and nine reverse gears let you pick the speed to fit the job.

Case IH

Case IH made the BEST COMBINE BETTER!

The ROTOR is still the HEART of the AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE but check out these changes in the NEW MODELS...

- MORE HORSEPOWER...
  The 1644 has more engine HP than the model 1460 made up to 1985... and the 1666 has more engine HP than the model 1480 made up to 1985...

MODEL	HORSEPOWER
1644	- 180
1666	- 215
1688	- 260

- LONGER SIEVES...
  Both the chaffer and shoe sieves are 13" longer than previous models increasing the cleaning area by 25.9%...

- CROSS FLOW FAN...
  Patented chevron design moves air evenly over the entire sieve surface giving excellent grain quality in all kinds of crops...

- FIELD TRACKER...
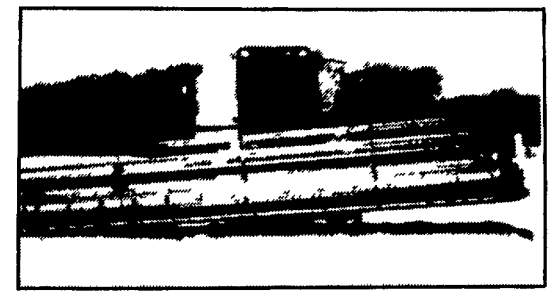
  Contours, independent of the combine by automatically tilting from side to side in response to terrain changes...



You'll find the BEST COMBINE at C.B. HOOBER & SON INC., where you also get the BEST COMBINE SERVICE!

CAPACITY AND CONVENIENCE

The Model 499 Haybine® mower-conditioner gives you 12-foot capacity with pivot-tongue convenience, plus:

- Patented Rolareel header—no auger needed.
- Fast, clean cutting from dual sickles.
- Thorough, plug-free conditioning from chevron-design rolls.

Put a "499" to work for you.

1915

PRECISION HARVESTING

The Model 1915 self-propelled forage harvester makes it easy to make high-quality forage. The rugged 26-inch-wide cutterhead uses 12 full-width knives to deliver a fine, uniform chop for the best quality feed. And, the Accucut™ knife sharpening system makes it easy to chop at peak efficiency.

Transmission for MF 3600 Series tractors

MASSEY FERGUSON

What farmers like you told us you want in a powershift transmission.

"Smooth shifts"	The transmission has to shift as smoothly as you can manually shift, without the jerks that can damage implements.
[illegible]	[illegible]
"Reverse shuttle shifting"	Make synchronized shifts from forward to reverse.
"Better speed selection"	The next powershift gear should never be more than 17% faster or slower.
"Low cost"	Make the benefits of powershifting more affordable to buy and maintain.

Ford "30 Series" Model 5030
4 Cy - 62 HP Tractor

North America's leading tractor line offers you more:

- Hydrostatic steering. Easier handling, durable, responsive.
- Improved front axles. Both two-and four-wheel drive axles; stronger, durable.
- Transmission. Choose the 8x2 or the 8x8 shuttle... the perfect loader transmission, or the deluxe 16x8 Dual Power.
- Also Choose From: "3230"—32 PTO horsepower
  "3430"—38 PTO horsepower
  "3930"—45 PTO horsepower
  "4630"—55 PTO horsepower

Come in for the full details on the Ford "30 Series" tractors

NEW! Exclusive design produces best-ever bales

The unique New Holland Models 650 and 660 Roll-Belt™ round balers make the best quality bales ever. Tight bales—dense bales. Good-looking, square-shouldered bales that hold up to the weather. The patented Roll-Belt design means fast, sure core formation, even in the toughest crops. The adjustable hydraulic belt-tensioning system puts maximum bale density control at your fingertips. And, you can choose from three optional automatic tying mechanisms for the smoothest package ever.

Close, even cutting from the lightweight header that floats over ground contours.

Best-in-class performance, capacity

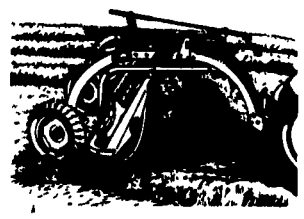
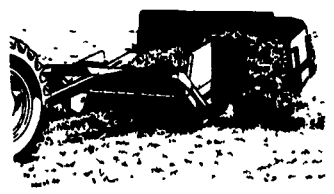
The original Rolabar® rake



Don't settle for second best

Depend on the rugged construction of New Holland Rolabar® rakes. More farmers buy New Holland rakes than all other brands combined because they're rugged, reliable and pick up more of your valuable hay. Don't buy an imitation. See us for an original.

Save hay Save money



The New Holland Model 166 windrow inverter can save your hay crop by turning it over to dry, without losing valuable leaves. Get your hay out of the field sooner, before it rains. Or, if it's been rained on, dry it quickly and gently. Make your hay more valuable with the "166".

Ted fast... beat the weather

You can beat the weather.. and save time and money. The New Holland Model 163 tedder is nearly 18' wide, so you can ted faster and bale sooner. And when you're ready to move, the "163" folds for easy transport no tools necessary

OUTDOOR FURNACES

Cut Your Heating Costs With Our Outdoor Furnace!

WOOD • COAL – STANDARD MODEL –
WOOD • COAL • OIL – MULTI-FUEL MODEL –

Approved for Natural or LP Gas
Heat Your Home, Farm or Commercial Buildings with Mahoning Outdoor Furnaces

Safe - Efficient - Durable

CLEAN. All dirt, dust, fuel and fire is outside. No chance of chimney fire or flue fire.
ELIMINATES AIR POLLUTION IN THE HOME. Smoke, fuel odors and other causes of allergies are outside the home.
SAFE FOR MOBILE HOMES. Eliminate a danger that other furnaces contained in a mobile home can cause.
NO DANGER OF EXPLOSION. This is a zero pressure furnace.
ENCLOSED COMPONENTS. The circulation pumps and electrical connections are enclosed in an insulated cabinet on the back of the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace.
ADAPTABLE. Install our furnace in any forced air heating or hot water system.
OUTSIDE SHAKER HANDLES. Coal burning and ash removal made easy.

• CATALYTIC COMBUSTOR •

With the aid of Corning Company, we were able to design a catalytic combuster unit that is proven to provide the following:

1) Cut emissions by 90%.
2) Improve burning efficiency by 50%.
3) Efficiency rating of 83 to 85%.
4) Makes furnace more user friendly & neighborhood acceptable.
5) No more smoke belching!
6) Use 1/3 less wood to heat your home!

Proudly Built in Indiana County Pennsylvania

Get Comforting Heat and Efficiency.

The Mahoning Outdoor Multi-Fuel Furnaces provide thermostat controlled heat by economically burning wood, coal or fuel oil. The furnace is placed 25-100 feet outside the structure to be heated, connections between the furnace and building are buried underground. Wood or coal is the primary burning fuel lasting 8-12 hours in the furnace. For convenient, automatic firing the separate oil burner combustion chamber can provide heat until wood or coal burning is desired. Both Wood/Coal & the Fuel Oil burners are enclosed to heat the same water tank. The purpose of the firebox is to heat the water-filled tank surrounding the outside unit, this heated water is then circulated through underground pipes into your home. A heating coil is installed inside your existing heat system. The thermostat controls the blower which picks the heat off the coils and delivers warm air through existing ducts and registers. There are safeties which eliminate the danger of over-pressurizing the system and automatic shutdown in case of a power failure. The Mahoning Outdoor Furnace can also be connected to an existing hydronic heating system, that operates at 180° F or less, using fin tube baseboard, cast iron radiators or hanging hydronic heaters. Only the thermostat and heating coils are installed inside your home, eliminating open fire dangers, smoke, dust and messy kindling wood boxes. Adjust the thermostat for the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace to your comfort setting and it automatically controls the water pump and blower to circulate heat to your home. You may set the thermostat for your existing heat system to back-up the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace when not in operation or in case the firebox is left to burn out. An Aquastat senses the temperature of the water in the outside unit and automatically adjusts the combustion rate to maintain the correct temperature (normally 180 degrees).

Hot Water too...!

A Mahoning Outdoor Furnace is a heat exchanger. By running a cold water line from your home to the outside unit, fresh household cold water can be heated and returned to the hot water plumbing in the house. A temporing valve adjusts the hot water at the faucets to a range of 120° to 160°. This boiler system will adapt to any existing plumbing. Heat your pool & hot tub with energy generated by a Mahoning Outdoor Furnace!

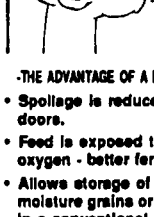
RUFF-TUFF POLY SILO LINERS for Upright Silos



Now With New Expansion Ring For Easy Installation
If Your Silo Needs New Life...
Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

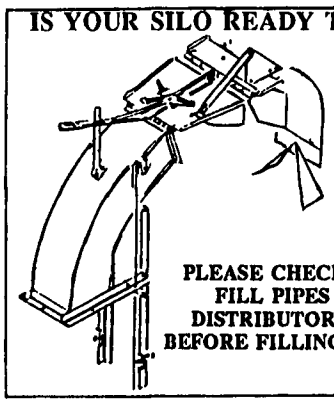
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

CONCRETE REASONS WHY A NEW POURED CONCRETE SILO IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT...

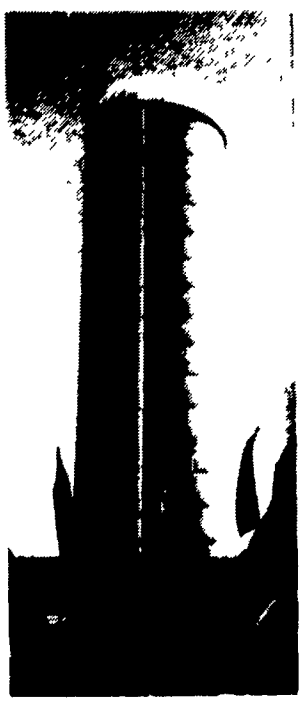
NO REBUILT SILOS!
NO PREOWNED SILOS!
"ALL NEW FOR YOU!!"



A. Enhancement of cash flow. Improved forage quality results in consistent, and increased milk production.

B. "Safe Silo" Our silos meet or exceed industry standards, reducing/protecting lender liability.

C. Initial Cost. Used or cheap pre-fab silos may have a lower initial cost, but based upon useful life, the new poured concrete silo will have a lower annual cost: due to longer life and lower maintenance costs.

D. Residual Value. Our new, poured concrete silos are built for "generations of use", and enhance the future value of the farm.

E. Storage Losses Reduced. Poured concrete silos consistently out-perform all other methods of storing and preserving the total digestible nutrients in forage crops.

F. Protecting Forage Quality. Oxygen and heat cause the most damage to stored silage and haylage. Our poured concrete silos are the very best system to PROTECT YOUR FORAGE QUALITY... "NOBODY PROTECTS FORAGE QUALITY LIKE WE DO...NOBODY"

ORDER YOUR NEW SILO WITH A FIBERDOME CHUTE OR REPLACE YOUR OLD WORN OUT CHUTE

fiberdome SILO CHUTE

made with fiberglass, the material of the future — and proven in the past —

The Fiberdome chute is designed and engineered to be installed on most types of silos. Its structure allows it to withstand the toughest beating the weather elements or silo unloading systems can possibly dish out.

The chute is constructed in full 7 1/2' sections to minimize the number of joints. Connecting joints have a 2 1/2" tongue and groove design to keep feed in and water out. The large ribbed construction adds stability and strength.

Fiberglass is durable, corrosion-proof, attractive and translucent, allowing sunlight to pass through. Sunlight quickly dries interior moisture in the chute The hard gleaming gelcote surface will remain for many years.

Dairy Tips By Dr. Randy Lyle, Ph.D.

DISPLACED ABOMASUM - WHAT CAUSES IT?

by Dr. Randy Lyle

Severity and frequency of DA's can be highly variable. Careful evaluation can often uncover the cause of most DA problems. Some of the most common causes of high incidence of DA's are listed:

1. Lack of hay in dry cow, steam-up, and fresh cow rations. Feeding too much silage during the dry period is a common cause. Cows need long-stem forages, particularly around calving time. Low protein grass hay is ideal for dry cows!

2. Fat cows. If body condition score is greater than 3.75, incidence of DA's can be higher. Watch condition of late lactation cows. Don't overfeed dry cows.

3. Subclinical hypocalcemia. Symptoms of classical milk fever may not be apparent, but blood calcium may be lower than normal. The abomasum may then lose muscle tone, thereby causing displacement. Dry cow rations high in cations, particularly potassium, can lead to this problem. Feed low potassium forages to dry cows.!

I have not listed all possible causes of DA's, but these three causes account for the majority of DA problems I see. If you need help, contact your local Purina dealer for an evaluation of your situation.
